LEADERS IN SECURING PYMATUNING PROJECT ARE PUBLICLY REWARDED

Concluding Feature Of Dedication Day Program For Pymatuning Dam

Long years of valiant service in the cause of the Pymatuning dam were publicly rewarded Friday night in Sharon when a dinner was held in the Sharon Country Club. Silver placques, engraved with the appreciation of the Sharon Chamber of Commerce were presented to a group of men who have performed outstanding service in the cause, and the day of dedication finished around the dinner table.

It was an unusual gathering in the dining rooms of the club. At the table sat men high in the councils of the Commonwealth, headed by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, Gifford Pinchot. Nearby sat the attorney-general, William A. Schneider, and the Secretary of Highways, Samuel S. Lewis. The Secretary of Forests and Waters, Lewis E. Staley was present, as was Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health; Charles E. Ryder, chief engineer of the Water Power and Resources board; O. M. Merrill, director of highways for the state of Ohio and the representative of Governor White. Leaders in industry and finance, law and medicine, the ministry and journalism, trade and commerce were present, there to join in a tribute to men who had labored for the Pymatuning dam in the past quarter of a century.

Dinner At Six-Thirty
Scheduled for six o'clock the dinner was delayed for half an hour while Governor Pinchot rested in the home of M. V. DeForrest. At six thirty the governor arrived and approximately 175 guests sat down. Fred L. Rentz, president of The News and general chairman of the dedication exercises presided at the dinner and asked Rev. Homer B. (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

There are a lot of weeds of properties around the city that are badly in need of cutting at the present time.

Pa News is in receipt of a postcard from Hugh Horton, fireman at the Sixth ward station, from Charlotte, N. C. Hughie reports that watermelons come at 20 cents down there, and that "they are as big as automobiles." Horton is accompanied by his family and reports a nice trip in the south.

The Perry highway through the eastern edge of the county witnessed an exceedingly heavy traffic during the past two days, apparently being the main route taken by large numbers of the American Legion members enroute to the convention at Erie. There was also a veterans gathering at Conneaut Lake.

Rather an interesting week for New Castle and Lawrence county folks is being concluded today. The Roundhead reunion, the Reynolds town school reunion, Old Timers' day, Pymatuning dam dedication and the opening ceremonies at the Rose Point bridge (this afternoon) were included.

Sparrows Will Have Their Food Hot Off Griddle

Sparrows may be homely little things and they may not be members of the socially elite who go south for their winters but no one can say they are dumb.
For instance, they not only get their three squares a day but at least some of the New Castle sparrows get them hot off the griddle. This story is told to one of The News reporters by Miss Alice Sterling, city librarian, who happened to "load" a sparrow from her sight when walking downtown the other day. Coming along side of a parked automobile she saw the bird clinging to the radiator core, plucking off flies, moths, butterflies and insects at its leisure!

Evangelist Is Turned Loose

Supposed Kidnaped Man Walks Into Police Station At Nashville

TELLS STORY OF BEING KIDNAPED

(Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 18.)
Kidnaped, he said, while answering a call for mercy, the Rev. R. H. Askew, 28-year-old "Four Square" gospel evangelist, of Goldsboro, N. C., walked into the Nashville police station this morning, five days after he disappeared from his Carolina home.

Bearded and unkempt, clad in a pair of new overalls, the slim young preacher told police he had been abducted in Raleigh, N. C., held captive during a ride that took him to Richmond, Washington and Knoxville, and then pushed from his abductors' automobile this morning 10 miles south of Nashville.

He hitch-hiked into Nashville, he said.
After holding him for $25,000 ransom and repeatedly threatening his life, his three captors released him when they became convinced he was penniless. Askew told Police Lieutenant W. A. Gibbons.

The evangelist said he was halted on the highway between Goldsboro and Smithfield last Tuesday afternoon by a man who pleaded with him to take him to a Raleigh hospital where his daughter was desperately ill.

Askew said he had left Goldsboro to drive to Smithfield to buy some bricks for a new tabernacle he is building.
"I couldn't refuse an errand of mercy," Askew related, "so I put (Continued On Page Two)

Note Also Threatens Harm To Evangelist Kidnaped In North Carolina

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Armed police guards today patrolled the vicinity of Angelus Temple, founded by Aimee Semple McPherson and center of her widespread evangelistic work, following a threat to bomb the structure. It $25,000 was not forthcoming immediately.
A letter containing the threat and demand apparently written in Richmond, Va., was received by Harriet Jordan, secretary of Angelus Temple.

Threat Note.
Typewritten on a single sheet of good grade of letter paper, the note read:
"Get $25,000 at once or you will lose your worker Askew and your temple will be blown up."

Police and federal agents who were called into the case by Mrs. Rhoda Crawford Spivale believed the letter was connected with the recent kidnaping in North Carolina of R. H. Askew, an evangelist of the so-called four square gospel of Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. Spivale, who is preaching at the temple in the absence of Mrs. McPherson, who is in the east on an evangelistic tour, declared that the letter had been mailed in Richmond, Va., in a plain envelope on August 15 and sent by airmail.

Askew Kidnaped.
As soon as the letter was delivered and turned over to local authorities, police and sheriff's officers here got in touch with Paul Garrison, sheriff in Wayne county, North Carolina, where Askew was kidnaped.

It was learned at Angelus Temple that Frank A. Cummings, a representative of Mrs. McPherson in the south, recently had recommended that Askew be made a teacher.

State Highway Secretary Says Paving To Ohio Line In View

Work on improving U. S. Route 224 from the Ohio line east through Hillsville may be expected to start within a reasonably short time according to Secretary of Highways, Samuel S. Lewis who was in New Castle today.

Mr. Lewis was asked what the prospects were for the viaduct at Edensburg and said that with work starting on the highway west of Edensburg, it seemed likely that it would not be improbable that a span would be necessary there sometime in the future not too far removed.

S. W. Jackson, Division Engineer for the Highway Department and H. E. Kloos, District Engineer were here today also and made an analysis of the traffic flow over this route as compared with 422.

No definite statement was forthcoming as to the exact date when the roadbuilding would start east from the Ohio line beyond Hillsville but it seems probable that late this summer or early next spring will see the roadbuilders at work.

Now he has filed supplementary action naming Smith as the man who not only broke up his home but allegedly induced Mrs. Rogell to visit at the Smith home in a mid-night rendezvous.

Communistic Letters Have Cagney References

(International News Service)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 18.—Defiant communistic correspondence, disclosed in the seizure by the Sacramento police "Red" squad of private letters of Caroline Decker, so-called firebrand of California farm labor agitation under arrest on charges of criminal syndicalism, was guarded by authorities today as evidence for presentation at a pending trial of 17 communists charged with criminal syndicalism, a felony offense.

Reports from Hollywood said that while Cagney admitted he was a close friend and admirer of Stephens, he most emphatically denied sharing his friend's views and ever contributing or offering to contribute money to the communistic cause.

Four of the letters seized by McCallister and made public were replete with references to the well-known film actor. Here is a series of excerpts from the letters, some of which were addressed to "Mary" Others to Ella Winter and still others which were addressed to Miss Decker purportedly from Ella Winter.

Many State Notables Share In Dedication Of Pymatuning Dam

Ten Thousand Gather At Dam As Formal Ceremonies Are Conducted

OFFICIAL PARTY MAKES INSPECTION

Chief Address By Governor Pinchot; F. L. Rentz, Chairman For Three Counties

Ten thousand and more Western Pennsylvanians and Eastern Ohioans—hundreds of them from New Castle and Lawrence county—let loose lusty cheers as Governor Gifford Pinchot spoke the significant words Friday afternoon which brought to formal completion the 25-year effort to provide the upper Shenango valley with a vast reservoir of water which would be of material benefit to citizens and industries alike.

Dream Becomes Reality
They cheered with all their might because it meant for all Pennsylvania that the gigantic Pymatuning dam project, the cherished dream for years, was now completed.
Governor Pinchot stood as he spoke on a stand overlooking the great engineering project and surrounded on all sides by the residents of two great commonwealths which will be beneficiaries, in the years to come, of many advantages which the lake will bring.

Into the Pymatuning region yesterday moved hundreds of automobiles, trains and airplanes, bringing with them interested spectators who wanted to remember with their own eyes the colorful dedication of the dam.

They began to throng the district before the noon hour yesterday and had covered the dedication site in multitudes when the official caravan of Governor Pinchot and other state dignitaries, dedication leaders and special guests arrived just before 3 o'clock for a long inspection tour which carried the party over the entire reservoir territory and into Ohio and back again.

At the Pymatuning site extra squads of highway patrolmen stood guard as the chief executive's party arrived for the ceremonies, and while the mammoth crowd looked on, other state police escorted the governor out of his car and onto the speakers' platform and the program was soon begun.

Three Miners Die In Cave-In

Bodies Are Recovered By Rescuers After Frantic Efforts

(International News Service)
LYKENS, Pa., Aug. 18.—Pinis was written today to the "bootleg" mine tragedy yesterday on Short mountain when rescuers recovered the dead bodies of the three miners trapped in the cave-in.

Two hours after the body of Earl Matter, 24, was brought to the surface, a rescue party recovered the still forms of Eugene Pinkerton 36, and Harry Specht, 36, all of Lykens.

The body of Specht was still warm when reached, leading Deputy Coroner James Heit to express the belief that he had been dead only a few hours. All three died of suffocation, according to Heit.
Matter's body was located about 40 feet below the entrance of the counter shaft which rescuers dug into the mountain. The other two bodies were reached only after rescuers were forced to dig through another 10 feet of slag and debris.
Specht was almost rescued alive yesterday when he was found pinned by his arm among fallen timbers. He pleaded with rescuers to cut off his arm and save him. While this move was being considered, another fall occurred forcing the rescuers to scamp to safety.
All three men were married. Pinkerton was the father of five small children and Matter of three young daughters.

Hunt Four Men For Kidnaping Of Rich Brewer

Victim Of Kidnaping Gives Some Clues In Hunt For "Snatch" Gang

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 18. Canadian police were today engaged in a great man-hunt for the four men who kidnaped John S. Labatt, millionaire London, Ontario, brewer and held him captive for 63 hours before getting "cold feet" and dumping him out of a car near Toronto.

The "snatch" victim himself—now back safely in the home of his brother, Hugh Labatt, in this city and under the care of a physician—was providing "leads" upon which about 1,000 law enforcement officers were working.

Report $50,000 Paid
Whether or not Labatt paid a ransom was being withheld by Labatt and the police. It was unofficially reported that "less than $50,000" was turned over to the abductors. They had demanded $150,000. Dr. W. J. Tillman, the Labatt family physician, said the brewer is on the verge of a nervous breakdown and will not be able to talk to newspapermen for two or three days.
The brewer's eyes are inflamed, the doctor reported. The kidnappers had blindfolded him with adhesive tape so he could not recognize his (Continued On Page Seven)

Grand Jury Will Hear Charges In Bartholomew Case

Grand Jury At Washington Next Week Will Hear Case Against W. & J. Instructor

(Washington, Pa., Aug. 18.—Grand jury action on the charges against George H. Bartholomew, 48, former physical instructor at W. & J. will come next week, according to an announcement by District Attorney Warren S. Burchinal today. The present date is two days later than the time originally fixed for submitting the case to the August grand jury.

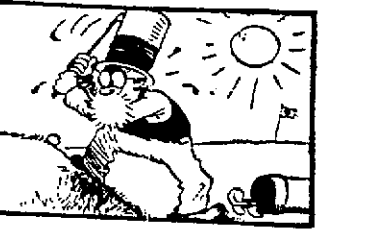

Shortly after the body of Manis was found in a clump of bushes in a field at Morris township, the college athletic instructor is alleged to have confessed breaking the youth's neck in a scuffle. Superintendent H. W. Lightner will represent the department.
The county commissioners are expected to be present and probably the judges of the Lawrence county courts. There will be a number of speakers and following the addresses the ribbon will be cut and the new bridge opened.

Reorganization Of N. R. A. Planned

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Reorganization of the N. R. A. was the subject of a lengthy White House conference today between President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Johnson at the end of the conference refused to talk about details but admitted Mr. Roosevelt had told him he could not get away from his work with the administration for a long time to come.
"We discussed reorganization generally," said Johnson. "But I cannot discuss the details of that now."
"The President told me that I cannot get away from my duties from the administration, so of course I will stay on. The NRA reorganization plans are being worked out, but they have not gone past the formative stage yet. I of course will take up the whole matter again with the President later."

The work consists of swinging clubs upon a little ball, and walking miles and sweating much and then that isn't all, it calls for scores of eighty five just at the final goal, and then some lies at what he did, around the nineteenth hole. The work is golf and he is out pursuing it for fun, so he can get himself fatigued, the weather, ninety one."

Reorganization Of N. R. A. Planned

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Reorganization of the N. R. A. was the subject of a lengthy White House conference today between President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Johnson at the end of the conference refused to talk about details but admitted Mr. Roosevelt had told him he could not get away from his work with the administration for a long time to come.

"We discussed reorganization generally," said Johnson. "But I cannot discuss the details of that now." "The President told me that I cannot get away from my duties from the administration, so of course I will stay on. The NRA reorganization plans are being worked out, but they have not gone past the formative stage yet. I of course will take up the whole matter again with the President later."

Hunt Four Men For Kidnaping Of Rich Brewer

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 18. Canadian police were today engaged in a great man-hunt for the four men who kidnaped John S. Labatt, millionaire London, Ontario, brewer and held him captive for 63 hours before getting "cold feet" and dumping him out of a car near Toronto.

The "snatch" victim himself—now back safely in the home of his brother, Hugh Labatt, in this city and under the care of a physician—was providing "leads" upon which about 1,000 law enforcement officers were working.

Report $50,000 Paid
Whether or not Labatt paid a ransom was being withheld by Labatt and the police. It was unofficially reported that "less than $50,000" was turned over to the abductors. They had demanded $150,000.

Dr. W. J. Tillman, the Labatt family physician, said the brewer is on the verge of a nervous breakdown and will not be able to talk to newspapermen for two or three days.

The brewer's eyes are inflamed, the doctor reported. The kidnappers had blindfolded him with adhesive tape so he could not recognize his (Continued On Page Seven)

Grand Jury Will Hear Charges In Bartholomew Case

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 18.—Grand jury action on the charges against George H. Bartholomew, 49, former physical instructor at W. & J. will come next week, according to an announcement by District Attorney Warren S. Burdick today.

The present date is two days later than the time originally fixed for submitting the case to the August grand jury.

Shortly after the body of Manis was found in a clump of bushes in a field at Morris township, the college athletic instructor is alleged to have confessed breaking the youth's neck in a scuffle precipitated by Manis' reported attempts to blackmail him.

Bartholomew, married and the father of several children, was popular at his post. Manis was widely known in Pittsburgh night clubs as an entertainer in female impersonation roles.

Tribute Given Leaders Who Put Over Pymatuning Project

Concluding Feature Of Dedication Day Program For Pymatuning Dam

Long years of valiant service in the cause of the Pymatuning dam were publicly rewarded Friday night in Sharon when a dinner was held in the Sharon Country Club. Sheet silver plaques, engraved with the appreciation of the Sharon Chamber of Commerce were presented to a group of men who have performed outstanding service in the cause, and the day of dedication finished around the dinner table.

It was an unusual gathering in the dining rooms of the club. At the table sat men high in the councils of the Commonwealth, headed by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, Gifford Pinchot. Nearby sat the attorney-general, William A. Schnader, and the Secretary of Highways, Samuel S. Lewis. The Secretary of Forests and Waters, Lewis E. Staley was present, as was Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health; Charles E. Ryder, chief engineer of the Water Power and Resources board; O. M. Merrill, director of highways for the state of Ohio and the personal representative of Governor White. Leaders in industry and finance, law and medicine, the ministry and journalism, trade and commerce were present, there to join in a tribute to men who had labored for the Pymatuning dam in the past quarter of a century.

Dinner At Six-Thirty
Scheduled for six o'clock the dinner was delayed for half an hour while Governor Pinchot rested in the home of M. V. DeForest. At six thirty the governor arrived and approximately 175 guests sat down. Fred L. Rentz, president of The News and general chairman of the dedication exercises presided at the dinner and asked Rev. Homer B.

PA NEW OBSERVES

There are a lot of weeds off properties around the city that are badly in need of cutting at the present time.

Pa New is in receipt of a postcard from Hugh Horton, fireman at the Sixth ward station, sent from Charlotte, N. C. Hughie reports that watermelons come at 20 cents down there, and that "they are as big as automobiles." Horton is accompanied by his family and reports a nice trip in the south.

The Perry highway through the eastern edge of the county witnessed an exceedingly heavy traffic during the past two days, apparently being the main route taken by large numbers of the American Legion members enroute to the convention at Erie. There was also a veterans gathering at Conneaut Lake.

Rather an interesting week for New Castle and Lawrence county folks is being concluded today. The Roundtable reunion, the Reynolds-town school reunion, Old Timers' day, Pymatuning dam dedication and the opening ceremonies at the Rose Point bridge (this afternoon) were included.

Sparrows Will Have Their Food Hot Off Griddle

Sparrows may be homely little things and they may not be members of the socially elite who go south for their winters but no one can say they are dumb.
For instance, they not only get their three squares a day but at least some of the New Castle sparrows get them hot off the griddle.
This story is told to one of The News reporters by Miss Alice Sterling, city librarian, who happened to "lose" a sparrow from her sight when walking downtown the other day. Coming along side of a parked automobile she saw the bird clinging to the radiator core, plucking off flies, moths, butterflies and insects at its leisure!

Evangelist Is Turned Loose

Supposed Kidnaped Man Walks Into Police Station At Nashville

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 18. Kidnaped, he said, while answering a call for mercy, the Rev. R. H. Askew, 25-year-old "Four Square" gospel evangelist, of Goldsboro, N. C., walked into the Nashville police station this morning, five days after he disappeared from his Carolina home.

Bearded and unkempt, clad in a pair of new overalls, the slim young preacher told police he had been abducted in Raleigh, N. C., held captive during a ride that took him to Richmond, Washington and Knoxville, and then pushed by his abductors' automobile this morning 10 miles south of Nashville.

He hitch-hiked into Nashville, he said.
After holding him for $25,000 ransom and repeatedly threatening his life, his three captors released him when they became convinced he was penniless, Askew told Police Lieutenant W. A. Gibbons.

The evangelist said he was hailed on the highway between Goldsboro and Smithfield last Tuesday afternoon by a man who pleaded with him to take him to a Raleigh hospital where his daughter was desperately ill.

Askew said he had left Goldsboro to drive to Smithfield to buy some bricks for a new tabernacle he is building.

"I couldn't refuse an errand of mercy," Askew related, "so I put

Farmer Is Found Dead On Highway

(International News Service)
BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 18.—Reports that he had been drinking and quarreling with highway workers shortly before his body was found along a country road, today brought an intensive police investigation into the death of Fred Kugel, 56, farmer of Monaco, R. D. No. 1.

No evidence of foul play was revealed, however by Coroner Harry C. McCarter's autopsy.

Police Guarding Angelus Temple Result Of Threat

AIMEE IN CANTON IGNORANT OF CASE

Note Also Threatens Harm To Evangelist Kidnaped In North Carolina

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Armed police guards today patrolled the vicinity of Angelus Temple, founded by Aimee Semple McPherson and center of her widespread evangelistic work, following a threat to bomb the structure if $25,000 was not forthcoming immediately.
A letter containing the threat and demand apparently written in Richmond, Va., was received by Harriet Jordan, secretary of Angelus Temple.

Threat Note.
Typewritten on a single sheet of good grade of letter paper, the note read:

"Get $25,000 at once or you will lose your worker Askew and your temple will be blown up."

Police and federal agents who were called into the case by Mrs. Rhea Crawford Spivale believed the letter was connected with the recent kidnaping in North Carolina of R. H. Askew, an evangelist of the so-called four square gospel of Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. Spivale, who is preaching at the temple in the absence of Mrs. McPherson, who is in the east on an evangelistic tour, declared that the letter had been mailed in Richmond, Va., in a plain envelope on August 15 and sent by airmail.

Askew Kidnaped.

As soon as the letter was delivered and turned over to local authorities, police and sheriff's officers here got in touch with Paul Garrison, sheriff in Wayne county, North Carolina, where Askew was kidnaped.
It was learned at Angelus Temple that Frank A. Cummings, a representative of Mrs. McPherson in the south, recently had recommended that Askew be made a teacher.

Askew, according to information here, disappeared last Tuesday but his abduction was not discovered until

May Improve Hillsville Road

State Highway Secretary Says Paving To Ohio Line In View

Work on improving U. S. Route 224 from the Ohio line east through Hillsville may be expected to start within a reasonably short time according to Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis who was in New Castle today.

Mr. Lewis was asked what the prospects were for the viaduct at Edenburg and said that with work starting on the highway west of Edenburg, it seemed likely that it would be impossible that a span would be necessary there sometime in the future not too far removed.

S. W. Jackson, Division Engineer for the Highway Department and H. E. Kloss, District Engineer were here today also and made an analysis of the traffic flow over this route as compared with 422.

No definite statement was forthcoming as to the exact date when the roadbuilding would start from the Ohio line beyond Hillsville but it seems probable that late this summer or early next spring will see the roadbuilders at work.

FILM DIRECTOR SUES 'OTHER MAN'

Ena Gregory Rogell

Filing of a $150,000 alienation of affection suit against William V. R. Smith, wealthy Beverly Hills resident, by Albert Rogell, motion picture director, has set the Hollywood film colony to chattering. Rogell, recently in a divorce complaint, accused his wife, Ena Gregory Rogell, of being overfriendly with other men. Now he has filed supplementary action naming Smith as the man who not only broke up his home but allegedly induced Mrs. Rogell to visit at the Smith home in a mid-night rendezvous.

Communistic Letters Have Cagney References

(International News Service)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 18.—Defiant communistic correspondence, disclosed in the seizure by the Sacramento police "Red" squad of private letters of Caroline Decker, so-called firebrand of California farm labor agitation under arrest on charges of criminal syndicalism, was guarded by authorities today as evidence for presentation at a pending trial of 17 communists charged with criminal syndicalism, a felony offense.

Reports from Hollywood said that while Cagney admitted he was a close friend and admirer of Stefania, he most emphatically denied sharing his friend's views and ever contributing or offering to contribute money to the communistic cause.

Four of the letters seized by McCallister and made public were replete with references to the well-known film actor. Here is a series of excerpts from the letters, some of which were addressed to "Mary" Others to Ella Winter and still others which were addressed to Miss Decker purportedly from Ella Winter.

"...Cagney was fine this time and is going to bring up other stars to talk to Steff about communism."
"...Cagney said several stars are asking about Communism now. He wrote a piece for N. M. on the screen actor's view, which is, as you

Receives Word Brother Hurt

William S. Lewis Leaves For Elkins, N. C., To See Injured Brother

William S. Lewis of Court street left early today for Elkins, North Carolina, where on Friday afternoon his brother, Paul, was in an automobile accident. The accident occurred on a trip north to New Castle where Paul Lewis was to have spent his vacation. His injuries were superficial, it was said at the Elkins hospital.

Mr. Lewis is a former teacher in the New Castle Senior high school, and several years ago accepted a position in North Carolina. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lewis of Winter avenue.

Many State Notables Share In Dedication Of Pymatuning Dam

OFFICIAL PARTY MAKES INSPECTION

Chief Address By Governor Pinchot; F. L. Rentz, Chairman For Three Counties

Ten thousand and more Western Pennsylvanians and Eastern Ohioans—hundreds of them from New Castle and Lawrence county—let loose lusty cheers as Governor Gifford Pinchot spoke the significant words Friday afternoon which brought to formal completion the 25-year effort to provide the upper Shenango valley with a vast reservoir of water which would be of material benefit to citizens and industries alike.

Dream Becomes Reality
They cheered with all their might because it meant for all Pennsylvania that the gigantic Pymatuning dam project, the cherished dream for years, was now completed.

Governor Pinchot stood as he spoke on a stand overlooking the great engineering project and surrounded on all sides by the residents of two great commonwealths which will be beneficiaries, in the years to come, of the many advantages which the lake will bring.

Into the Pymatuning region yesterday moved hundreds of automobiles, trains and airplanes, bringing with them interested spectators who wanted to remember with their own eyes the colorful dedication of the dam.

They began to throng the district before the noon hour yesterday and had covered the dedication site in multitudes when the official caravan of Governor Pinchot and other state dignitaries, dedication leaders and special guests arrived just before 3 o'clock from a long inspection tour which carried the party over the entire reservoir territory and into Ohio and back again.

At the Pymatuning site extra squads of highway patrolmen stood guard as the chief executive's party arrived for the ceremonies, and, while the mammoth crowd looked on, other state police escorted the governor out of his car and onto the speakers' platform and the program was soon begun.

Three Miners Die In Cave-In

Bodies Are Recovered By Rescuers After Frantic Efforts

(International News Service)
LYKENS, Pa., Aug. 18.—Fins was written today to the "bootleg" mine tragedy yesterday on Slakt mountain when rescuers recovered the dead bodies of the three miners trapped in the cave-in.

Two hours after the body of Earl Matter, 24, was brought to the surface, a rescue party recovered the still forms of Eugene Pinkerton 36, and Harry Specht, 36, all of Lykens.

The body of Specht was still warm when reached, leading Deputy Coroner James Helt to express the belief that he had been dead only a few hours. All three died of suffocation, according to Helt.

Matter's body was located about 40 feet below the entrance of the counter shaft which rescuers dug into the mountain. The other two bodies were reached only after rescuers were forced to dig through another 10 feet of slag and debris.

Specht was almost rescued alive yesterday when he was found pinned by his arm among fallen timbers. He pleaded with rescuers to cut off his arm and save him. While this move was being considered, another fall occurred forcing the rescuers to scamp to safety.

All three men were married. Pinkerton was the father of five small children and Matter of three young daughters.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Pennsylvania's American Legion was drawing its annual convention to a close today as it prepared to act on important legislation, elect a new state commander and stage its usual brilliant pagent.

James Isherwood, of Waynesburg is believed to hold an inside track to the Keystone commandship with a last minute change of sentiment the only likely thing that might upset his election. He has been led a merry chase for the office by Walker Kress of Johnstown, and Jack Watson, of Pittsburgh.

Passage of legislation on old pensions and unemployment insurance was to be recommended by the convention today. Resolutions also were to be submitted to the Legion criticizing the Hitler government in Germany.

Open Rose Point Bridge Today

Formal Ceremonies This Afternoon; Lewis Unable To Attend

Rose Point will be a center of attraction this afternoon when the new bridge spanning the Slippery Rock creek will be formally opened to the public. Under the direction of W. R. Stewart, a business man of Rose Point, a program of dedication has been prepared with Fred L. Rentz acting as master of ceremonies.

It was thought that Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis would be present but he found it impossible to stay over long enough to attend the exercises. Superintendent H. W. Lightner will represent the department.

The county commissioners are expected to be present and probably the judges of the Lawrence county courts. There will be a number of speakers and following the addresses the ribbon will be cut and the new bridge opened.

STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT STARTS IN BELGIUM

BALLOON CARRIES NEW MECHANISMS

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
HOOR-HAVENNE, Belgium, Aug. 18.—A tiny speck in a clear blue sky, drifting slowly eastward across Europe at an altitude of more than three miles, today represented man's latest adventure in attempting to soar to new heights through the atmosphere enveloping his world. It was the stratosphere balloon of the youthful Professor A. M. Cosyns who took off from a field near this village at 6:17 a. m. (1:17 a. m. New York time).

To Measure Performance.
Cosyns had with him Dr. Van Der Elst, a Dutch scientist, and the latest instruments for measuring the performance and determining the nature of the mysterious cosmic rays.

Cosyns had leaped out of the gondola a moment before the balloon took off and shouted "au revoir, maman," to his mother who was in the forefront of the spectators.

The balloon then shot up into the air for 1,000 feet with the speed of a rock falling into space.

The gondola is equipped with radio and Cosyns' mother was awaiting messages from him.

The balloon is equipped with a new mechanism for deflating it and on it depends the lives of its occupants.

Cosyns, a veteran of the early record-breaking stratosphere flight of Dr. August Piccard, said just before the start, "I think we have luck with us."

LEADERS IN SECURING PYMATUNING PROJECT PUBLICLY REWARDED

Davis, former pastor of the Epworth M. E. church here, to invoke the blessing.

Following the service of the dinner Mr. Rentz introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Attorney L. J. Wiesen of Sharon. The toastmaster's introductory remarks were brief. "Our time is limited tonight," said he, "and we do not intend to have any more program. We are here tonight to do honor to the men who today have seen the materialization of a dream of twenty years. They labored valiantly and well towards the day when the Pymatuning area would be a great lake, preventing floods and stabilizing the flow of the waters of the Shenango river. We have two speakers tonight, Samuel H. Hadley and Hon. Fred A. Service, and the duties of the evening have been divided between them." Mr. Hadley was introduced.

"It is not my purpose to make any address tonight," said Mr. Hadley. "My duty is to present to certain gentlemen a very small tribute of appreciation for their labors in the past quarter of a century in the cause of the Pymatuning dam. Men have labored in this cause that others might work and prosper and anything I might say would add not a job nor title to the glory which is theirs. I am presenting these plaques in behalf of the Sharon chamber of commerce."

Governor Pinchot First.
Turning to Governor Pinchot Mr. Hadley said, "Since I first heard his name I have known of Governor Pinchot as a conservationist. In his work in the Federal government he was interested in conserving the resources that a beneficent creator had given us. As governor he has always been interested in the Pymatuning dam and it is a genuine pleasure to me to present Governor Pinchot with one of these plaques as a token of the appreciation of the citizens of this great valley."

"After looking at the silver plaque Governor Pinchot said, 'I appreciate this more than I can say. As I look at it in years to come it will signify to me a result achieved, not by me but by the men of this valley of yours. The completion of the Pymatuning dam is an enormous satisfaction to me. Not only will it provide you with industry, water, and prevent floods but it will give you one of the greatest playgrounds in the state. Already there have been 44,000,000 fish put into the lake and I am looking forward to the day when I can return here and pull some of the big ones out myself. As a matter of fact, there is one thing I have yet to do in the Pymatuning dam and that is to return and pull out a bigger fish than Fred Fruit does.'"

Other Recipients.
The plaque presented to Governor Pinchot and to the various other men is a thin sheet of silver upon which has been engraved the following: 1909-1934, Pymatuning Reservoir. Engraved to (here the name was inserted) by Sharon Chamber of Commerce, August 18, 1934, as a token of appreciation for outstanding work in behalf of the Pymatuning Reservoir.

In presenting his further share of the plaques, Mr. Hadley explained that to address of response was necessary. As presented each plaque he recalled the particular field of endeavor in which the recipient had worked and expressed appreciation to each one. The following men were presented with plaques by Mr. Hadley, in addition to Governor Pinchot, Secretary of Health, Dr. Theodore B. Appel; Chief Engineer of Water Power and Resources board, Charles E. Ryder; E. K. Morse of the same board; Resident Engineer Ralph J. Ferris; E. C. Brown, chief engineer for the Carnegie Steel company of Pittsburgh; Norman S. Powell of Sharon; John S. Oursler of Miami, Florida, formerly general superintendent of New Castle Works, Carnegie Steel company; David S. Pyle, general manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company at New Castle; Secretary of Highways, Samuel S. Lewis, and Dr. W. S. Cook of Beaver Falls.

In closing Mr. Hadley paid a glowing tribute to the memory of F. W. Walker of Beaver Falls, the "Daddy" of the Pymatuning dam. Walker died before he saw his dream realized but his name was recalled many times on Friday night, and the history spoken out for the dam was dedicated to him. Mr. Hadley also presented a bouquet of flowers to C. B. Lantz, president of the Sharon Chamber of Commerce, and a part owner of the News-Telegraph for his work in the project.

Hon. Fred A. Service.
This concludes Mr. Hadley's portion of the program and the toastmaster then introduced Hon. Fred A. Service who made the presentation of plaques to the following men:

Attorney Fred T. Fruit of Sharon, Pa.; S. E. Ker of Youngstown, O.; William Kratz of Cleveland, O.; George Collard of Pittsburgh; William B. Todd of Pittsburgh; Attorney E. S. Templeton of Sharon; Floyd K. Smith, formerly of Sharon; Attorney-General William A. Schneider; Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle News; William B. Eads of the Sharon Herald; A. C. Dickinson, formerly a publisher in New Castle and Sharon; and John L. Morrison, a publisher of Greenville.

At the conclusion of Mr. Service's presentation the toastmaster called upon Governor Pinchot for a few farewell remarks. "You have a daying toastmaster," said His Excellency. "He calls on the governor for two addresses in one evening but he isn't going to get them. I just want to say that I have had a perfectly gorgeous day. It has been an inspiration to me and I know to you. I trust that the years will bring even greater results than any of us have anticipated from the Pymatuning dam."

The dinner program was finished about nine-thirty, followed by a social hour in the club. It was a dinner of such unusual interest and color that it will certainly be remembered in the Shenango Valley. Around the table were many New Castle men who are interested in the Pymatuning project. Among them could be seen P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze company; Harold S. Pyle, assistant manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company; Senator George T. Wengartner; E. S. Reed, superintendent of the E. & A. Division of the Pennsylvania railroad; Wesley Davy, manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement company; B. L. Kannenberg, superintendent of the American Can company; Ralph S. Botsinger, chief clerk of the National Radiator company; Harry Graustreiter, master mechanic of the Shenango Works; American Sheet and Tin Plate company; Earl Richards and A. Bruce Ewing of The News.

Seek To Shield Son From Crowd

Youth Afflicted With
"Talking Sickness" To
Be Denied Visitors

MARATHON TALK STILL CONTINUES

(International News Service)
MT. GILEAD, O., Aug. 18.—The parents of Donald Campbell, 32, Ohio's "talking sickness" victim, who has talked incessantly for more than 300 hours, today moved to shield their son from the glare of publicity that has focused on their modest Edison, Ohio home since their son's illness.

Anticipating hundreds of curious tourists tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Campbell, parents of the stricken man, warned through the family physician, Dr. C. A. Jackson, that no visitors would be allowed at the home.

Dr. Jackson described Campbell's condition as "unchanged." He also declared that he had "no definite idea" when the victim would end his involuntary talking marathon but still expressed confidence that Campbell would ultimately recover.

"I have used every ordinary method of cure," he declared, "and the patient has shown no signs of improvement. However, his physical condition is not weakening and I see no signs of danger."

Dr. Jackson said that the family of Campbell, in modest circumstances, did not contemplate moving the man to a hospital. Nor would it benefit the patient, according to the doctor, whose ailment, that the chances for recovery were greater amid familiar scenes of Campbell's boyhood.

Campbell, a Columbus truck driver, entered the 13th day of his incessant talking today. He seems seriously concerned about his job and whether he will lose his seniority in the company where he works. The only sleep which he has enjoyed for virtually the past two weeks was when he was administered sedatives or drugs by Dr. Jackson. The latter described his slumbers as "artificial sleep" and declared that it would not halt the man's talking. He expressed hope, previously, however, that a natural sleep might cure Campbell.

The latter's illness was traced to an accident two years ago but it did not become apparent until recently. He is suffering from inflammation of the brain which robbed him of his natural coordination between the brain and the tongue.

The past winter killed practically every peach in this county and the fact that one lone peach survived and reached maturity is some evidence of the severity of the winter.

Of all the crowd at the Pymatuning dam exercises Friday afternoon there was little need for first aid. While the Red Cross had a tent on the grounds there were but two calls all day long. One of them was for the heat and the other was a case of a bruised finger received by a woman.

Sabelli-Pond Leave Rome On Flight To U. S.

(International News Service)
ROME, Aug. 18.—Caesar Sabelli and Captain George R. Pond, who flew here from New York, took off today on the first leg of their return flight to America.

Twelve other Nazis who accompanied him on the daring raid and held off government machine-gunners for several hours, were sentenced to life imprisonment.

At the same time two Tyrolean Nazi leaders, Josef Abergner and Bruno Agen, were sentenced to death, accused of having smuggled huge quantities of ammunition into the Tyrol from Germany.

Strange people! Paying taxes to feed America's jobs; buying junk made in Japan because it is cheap.

Tops in Nebraska

E. R. Burke

Rep. E. R. Burke, 53, who campaigned against Gov. Charles W. Bryan for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Nebraska, and a 100 per cent supporter of the "New Deal," will oppose Robert G. Simmons, 42, Republican, in November. He beat Bryan by a 2 1/2 to 1 margin.

MANY STATE NOTABLES SHARE IN DEDICATION

ably 100 cars started its tour from the Greenville Country club, south of Greenville, where the governor and industrial leaders took luncheon and prepared themselves for the arduous afternoon and evening ahead.

Fred L. Rentz, president of The News and general chairman for the dedicatory affair, greeted the governor at the Greenville Country club and set with him during the luncheon. Throughout the day the governor was constantly at Mr. Rentz's right. At the dedicatory ceremonies and at the testimonial dinner at the Sharon Country club in the evening they were together.

Most of the prominent guests who came from Harrisburg and other points for the dedication assembled at the Greenville club for the luncheon because they desired to make the auto tour.

Prominent Leaders Present.
To Greenville came William A. Schneider, attorney general of the state and Republican nominee for governor; Secretary of Highways S. Lewis, Secretary of Health Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Lewis E. Staley, chairman of the state water and power resources board; O. M. DeJuler, commissioner of fisheries, and E. K. Morse and C. E. Ryder, members of the water and power resources board. Others included Sam Eckels, chief engineer of the state highway department; Thomas C. Ryan, division engineer of the highway department; Ralph J. Ferris, field engineer for the highway department who directed the relocation of the roads in the Pymatuning region; E. E. Haslem, pioneer Pymatuning booster now associated with the state; Norman S. Powell, who as a civil engineer for the Carnegie steel company envisioned the great Pymatuning project; Severn P. Ker, Youngstown industrial leader, formerly of Sharon, and others.

A motorcycle escort of state patrolmen led the party as it traversed its inspection route from the clubhouse to Greenville, on to Harrisburg, on to Conneaut Lake, on to Lanesville, down the upper lake basin road to Epsville, across the Esplanade, and then south over Ohio and Pennsylvania roads to the Pymatuning dam site.

Only twice did the official party of sightseers halt, once below Lanesville to view one of the large outlets for the upper basin and once on the highway fill between Epsville and Lanesville. The governor, his keen eyes flashing, seemed to reflect personal pride in the dam's achievement for it was three years ago—when he turned the first shovel of dirt for the dam's construction—that he saw it last. It was nothing but wilderness then.

Newspaper cameras clicked time and time again as the cars halted to allow the occupants to take more time to view the best at close range. Water now fills the lower basin to the point where it gives it a lake appearance and motor boats sail over its waters. The upper basin, not filled so much as the lower one is, is rising rapidly. Rains of the past few weeks have raised it.

Crowds Cheer Governor.
All along Governor Pinchot's route crowds stood waiting to watch the official party pass and, from the front seat of his open touring car, the chief executive waved his hat to passersby time and time again.

Flags adorned many of the towns along the route, but at Andover, O., the party got its most auspicious welcome. News of the party's coming had evidently been relayed ahead for the town square was crowded when the caravan arrived. The cars swung into the town and around the square and then traced for a block to strike a route leading south to the dam.

All of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio had declared a holiday, it seemed, for the traffic at the dam was heavy. The expert directing of the highway patrolmen kept lanes open and not once was there any long delay.

The automobiles were parked to the west of the dam in fields carefully placed in shape for the occasion. The roads throughout the district had been oiled.

Riding with the governor in his car were Lewis E. Staley, secretary of forests and waters; Ralph J. Ferris, field engineer for the highway department, and M. V. DeForest, Sharon business man.

For the guests who trailed in other cars the inspection was educational, for many of them, no doubt, were making their first trip across the new reservoir land.

Fruit Able Chairman.
Presiding in masterful fashion over the dedicatory ceremony was Hon. Fred T. Fruit, prominent Sharon attorney and secretary of the Shenango-Beaver Valley Conservation association.

He first reviewed the quarter of a century's battle for the Pymatuning started and paused in his speaking to pay deep tribute to those pioneers, living and dead, who labored hard for the dam's great construction.

Chairman Fruit first introduced O. M. Merrell, superintendent of highways for Ohio and special emissary of Governor White, unable to attend the ceremony, and then Governor Pinchot. Special guests from Pennsylvania and Ohio were also presented.

Merrell's message was but a short one, but genuinely sincere. He spoke of the breaking down of state boundaries "because, after all, we're one great nation." A wave of cheers affirmed that.

Pinchot Leads Cheer.
Governor Pinchot himself took time to the steps of the Pymatuning project and lauded the state of Ohio for its cooperation.

To the crowd's surprise the governor shouted:

"And now, what's the matter with the Pymatuning?"

"It's alright," a meek few responded.

"Come on now, we can do that better," shouted the governor, much louder than at first. "What's the matter with it?"

"It's alright! It's alright!" the mighty crowd roared back.

Then Mr. Pinchot made his address, which was of which was given in The News Friday.

Walker Gets Tribute.
Hardly a speaker on the day's program failed to mention and extol the late Francis W. "Daddy" Walker, commander-in-chief of the Pymatuning battle forces for years and the inspiration which led others to enlist in its cause.

The governor praised him highly. On the platform with the speakers were several of the industrial leaders of the Shenango valley whose plants will benefit in dry spells because the Pymatuning waters will keep an even flow in the Shenango river. Other special guests, public officials and leaders in business and profession were also among them.

The Sharon Chamber of Commerce sponsored the dedication for which a tri-county committee of leading citizens handled arrangements.

Tri-County Men In Charge.
Fred L. Rentz was chairman of the general committee; Louis B. Round, vice president for Lawrence county; Dr. W. S. Cook, vice president for Beaver county; C. B. Lantz, chairman for Mercer county, and Gerald A. Harshman was secretary.

On the reception committee were Howard J. McBride, J. Fred Thomas, M. V. DeForest, W. L. Aiken, W. B. Caldwell, J. M. Shontz, M. L. Fawcett, R. R. Down and J. L. Condit. Still present were county leaders. Leaders of towns of Mercer county served on a municipality committee for that county.

The celebration climaxed weeks of diligent planning by the committee and brought a civic celebration which surpassed former ceremonies like it.

Martial music for the afternoon was furnished by a Veterans' Foreign Wars band of Conneaut Lake and another made up of girls from the Polk Industrial School, state-operated school at Polk, Pa.

Booklet Gives History.
Issued to the public in conjunction with the program was a dedicatory booklet, the "History of Pymatuning Reservoir" which Gerald A. Harshman, Sharon newspaperman, edited. After the dedication of the dam the crowd rapidly dwindled and Governor Pinchot and other state officers were taken on a short motor boat trip on the lake and then driven to the Sharon Country Club for a testimonial dinner.

The governor was due in Erie today to spend before the state department of the American Legion now in convention there. Secretary of Highways S. S. Lewis accompanied Mr. Rentz to New Castle to spend the night at his home. Other state officers returned to Harrisburg or their own homes.

and bugle corps players, goes on this afternoon with 15,000 men in the parade of march.

Official drum and bugle corps competition among the state posts was run off in a colorful 5 hour program last night.

Tartanum won the class A event, edging out the Lafayette Post, Uniontown, by a fraction of a point. Third place was taken by the Green Trojans, Greensburg; fourth by the Housatonic Post, Philadelphia; fifth by the Montgomery Post, DuBois and Johnstown Post.

In the class B series, Duquesne Memorial Post was the victor. Second place went to Kirk Post, Crafton-Ingram and third to Evans Post, Bangor. Other posts placed in this order, Waynesburg, McAdoo; Oxford, Philadelphia; Rochester and Charleroi.

Twenty Eighth Election.
Several selections were made by the twenty-eighth's organization including Robert Knox of Chester as first vice president, A. L. Conn, New Castle, was named second vice president; R. L. Harder, Berwick, third vice president; Arnold Thompson of Pittsburgh, fourth vice president; C. W. Cooper, of Miami, Fla., was chosen judge advocate; Rev. C. H. Schaal, Philadelphia, chaplain; Gen. David J. Davis of Harrisburg, historian; Hugh Murray, Philadelphia sergeant-at-arms and W. J. Clough of Pittsburgh, secretary-treasurer.

Deaths of the Day

Dr. Joseph Allen.
Mrs. William Jenkins of State street is in Monongahela City, having been called there for the funeral this week of her brother, Dr. Joseph Allen, who was a prominent physician of that place and was a member of one of New Castle's pioneer families.

Dr. Allen had been in failing health for the past year. He was 52 years of age.

He is survived by Mrs. Jenkins, brother, George Allen of Chicago; two sons, Mrs. Amelia Wilson of Iowa and Mrs. T. N. Burneson of Lisbon, O., and an uncle, J. E. Wright of Mercer.

Declare That Condition Indicates No Ransom Paid In Canadian Kidnaping

(International News Service)
LONDON, Ont., Aug. 18.—Verification that no ransom was paid for the release of John S. Labatt, freed by his kidnappers yesterday after 65 hours imprisonment, was seen today in the announcement of bankers here that they have received no serial numbers or other identification data of ransom currency.

Bankers said that so far as they knew, no effort is being made to trace ransom bills through any Canadian banks.

Labatt was abducted Tuesday and his captors demanded $150,000 ransom.

Provincial officials insist they have not been informed by the Labatt family whether or not any ransom was paid for the brewer's release.

Almea Ignorant of Affair.
Canton, O., Aug. 18.—"I don't know anything about it and I don't remember the name Askew."

That was the only comment Almea Semple McPherson, the evangelist, would make here today when questioned about the letter reportedly received at Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, demanding $25,000 for the release of R. H. Askew, North Carolina minister, who is believed to be in the hands of kidnappers.

The evangelist politely but firmly refused to answer any question by saying, "Miss Jordan, who is in charge of my affairs at the temple while I am on my lecture tour. Is the person to question until I learn what this is all about."

"...Ah, well, perhaps it's worth while. If one needs Jimmy Cagney, who offers to go one's cash bail regardless of the amount. Nice, huh, and he'd better get a nice lump sum ready!"

There was also a reference in one of the letters to the effect that, "Cagney has offered to send up a dozen typewriter ribbons."

Hollywood, Aug. 18.—Jimmy Cagney, noted movie star, today emphatically and angrily denied that he had given financial support to communism or was in sympathy with it.

Cagney, at his home, where he is recovering from an attack of colitis, stated that while he was a great friend and admirer of Lincoln Steffens, he did not share the writer's views. He said he had visited Steffens and his wife at Carmel many times but that he had never given or offered any money to the cause of communism.

"I remonstrated, but they threatened to kill me unless I obeyed."

Askew said the men forced him to lie down in the back of the machine and covered him with a blanket.

Askew said when he awakened he found he was in Richmond. He said his captors bought him a hot dog at a roadside stand for breakfast. Then they made him take more tablets and he again fell asleep, awakening in Washington.

From Washington, Askew's 50-year-old wife yesterday had received a telegram instructing her to "have the money ready Saturday."

An anonymous letter Wednesday, mailed in Goldsboro the night Askew disappeared, demanded $25,000 ransom under threats of death to the preacher unless it was paid.

STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT STARTS IN BELGIUM

Two Scientists In Latest Trip

Hope To Make New Record For Altitude Before Return To Earth

BALLOON CARRIES NEW MECHANISMS

(BULLETIN) (International News Service) HOUR - HAYENNE, Belgium, Aug. 18.—A tiny speck in a clear blue sky, drifting slowly eastward across Europe at an altitude of more than three miles, today represented man's latest adventure in attempting to soar to new heights through the atmosphere enveloping his world. It was the stratosphere balloon of the youthful Professor A. M. Cosyns who took off from a field near this village at 6:17 a. m. (1:17 a. m. New York time).

To Measure Performance. Cosyns had with him Dr. Van Der Elst, a Dutch scientist, and the latest instruments for measuring the performance and determining the nature of the mysterious cosmic rays.

Cosyns had leaned out of the gondola a moment before the balloon took off and shouted "au revoir, maman," to his mother who was in the forefront of the spectators.

The balloon then shot up into the air for 1,000 feet with the speed of a rock falling into space.

The gondola is equipped with radio and Cosyns' mother was awaiting messages from him.

The balloon is equipped with a new mechanism for deflating it and on it depends the lives of its occupants.

Cosyns, a veteran of the early record-breaking stratosphere flight of Dr. August Piccard, said just before the start, "I think we have luck with us."

Following the service of the dinner, Mr. Rantz introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Attorney J. J. Wiesen of Sharon. The toastmaster's introductory remarks were brief. "Our time is limited tonight," said he, "and we do not intend to have any extended program. We are here tonight to do honor to the men who have seen the realization of a dream of twenty-five years. Over that period of years they labored valiantly and well towards the day when the Pymatuning area would be a great lake, preventing floods and stabilizing the flow of the waters of the Shenango river.

Speakers tonight, Samuel H. Hadley and Hon. Fred A. Service, and the duties of the evening have been divided between them," Mr. Hadley was introduced.

"It is not my purpose to make any address tonight," said Mr. Hadley. "My duty is to present to certain gentlemen a very small tribute of appreciation for their labors in the past quarter of a century in the cause of the Pymatuning dam. Men have labored in this cause that others might work and prosper and anything I might say would add not a job nor title to the glory which is theirs. I am presenting these plaques in behalf of the Sharon chamber of commerce."

Governor Pinchot First. Turning to Governor Pinchot Mr. Hadley said, "Since I first heard his name I have known of Governor Pinchot as a conservationist. In his work in the Federal government he was interested in conserving the resources that a beneficent creator

Youth Afflicted With "Talking Sickness" To Be Denied Visitors

MARATHON TALK STILL CONTINUES

(International News Service) MT. GILBARD, O., Aug. 18.—The parents of Donald Campbell, 32, Ohio's "talking sickness" victim, who has talked incessantly for more than 300 hours, today moved to shield their son from the glare of publicity that has focused on their modest Edison, Ohio home since their son's illness.

Anticipating hundreds of curious tourists tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Campbell, parents of the stricken man, warned through the family physician, Dr. C. A. Jackson, that no visitors would be allowed at the home.

Dr. Jackson described Campbell's condition as "unchanged." He also declared that he had "no definite idea" when the victim would end his involuntary talking marathon but still expressed confidence that Campbell would ultimately recover.

"I have used every ordinary method of cure," he declared, "and the patient has shown no signs of improvement. However, his physical condition is not weakening and I see no signs of danger."

Dr. Jackson said that the family of Campbell, in modest circumstances, did not contemplate moving the man to a hospital. Nor would it benefit the patient, according to the doctor, who explained that the chances for recovery were greater amid familiar scenes of Campbell's home.

Campbell, a Columbus truck driver, entered the 13th day of his incessant talking today. He seems primarily concerned about his job and whether he will lose his seniority in the company where he works.

The only sleep which he has enjoyed for virtually the past two weeks was when he was administered sedatives or drugs by Dr. Jackson. The latter described his slumbers as "artificial sleep" and declared that it would not halt the man's talking.

He expressed hope previously, however, that a natural sleep might cure Campbell.

The latter's illness was traced to an accident two years ago but it did not become apparent until recently. He is suffering from inflammation of the brain which robbed him of his natural coordination between the brain and the tongue.

Hon. Fred A. Service. This concluded Mr. Hadley's portion of the program and the toastmaster then introduced Hon. Fred A. Service who made the presentation of plaques to the following men:

Attorney Fred T. Fruit of Sharon, Pa.; S. P. Ker of Youngstown, O.; William K. Egan of Cleveland, O.; George Collard of Pittsburgh; William B. Todd of Pittsburgh; Attorney E. S. Templeton of Sharon; Floyd K. Smith, formerly of Sharon; Attorney-General William A. Schneider; Fred L. Rantz, president of the New Castle Herald; A. Ramsey of the Sharon Herald; A. C. Dickinson, formerly a publisher in New Castle and Sharon; and John L. Morrison, a publisher of Greenville.

At the conclusion of Mr. Service's presentation the toastmaster called upon Governor Pinchot for a few farewell remarks. "You have a darling toastmaster," said His Excellency. "He calls on the governor for two addresses in one evening but he isn't going to get them. I just want to say that I have had a perfectly gorgeous day. It has been an inspiration to me and I know to you. I trust that the years will bring even greater results than any of us have anticipated from the Pymatuning dam."

The dinner program was finished about nine-thirty, followed by a social hour in the club. It was a dinner of such unusual interest and color that it will certainly be remembered in the Shenango Valley. Around the table were many New Castle men who are interested in the Pymatuning dam. Among them could be seen E. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze company; Harold S. Pyle, assistant manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company; Senator George T. Weinberger; S. S. Reed, superintendent of the E. & A. Division of the Pennsylvania railroad; Wesley Hays, manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement company; E. H. Kannenberg, superintendent of the American Can company; Ralph S. Botsinger, chief clerk of the National Radiator company; Harry Graevenstreter, master mechanic of the Shenango Works, American Sheet and Tin Plate company; Bart Richards and A. Bruce Ewing of The News.

THREE MORE NAZIS SENTENCED TO DIE

(International News Service) VIENNA, Aug. 18.—Johann Domes, leader of the Nazi group which seized the central Vienna radio station on July 25 and issued the fake announcement that a Nazi regime was in control of Austria, was sentenced to death by a military court today.

Twelve other Nazis who accompanied him on the daring raid and held off government machine-gunners for several hours, were sentenced to life imprisonment.

At the same time two Tyrolean Nazi leaders, Josef Abergner and Bruno Agner, were sentenced to death, accused of having smuggled huge quantities of ammunition into the Tyrol from Germany.

After the dedication of the dam the crowd rapidly dwindled and Governor Pinchot and other state officers were taken on a short motor boat trip on the lake and then driven to the Sharon Country Club for a testimonial dinner.

The governor was seen in Erie today to speak before the state department of the American Legion. Now in view of one of the large outlets for the upper basin and once on the highway fill between Espyville and Andover. The governor, his keen eyes flashing, seemed to reflect personal pride in the dam's achievement for it was three years ago—when he turned the first shovel of dirt for the dam's construction—that he saw it last. It was nothing but a pile of earth.

Newspaper cameras clicked time and time again as the cars baited to allow the occupants to take more time to view the basins at close range. Water now fills the lower basin to the point where it gives it a lake appearance and motor boats sail over its waters. The upper basin, not filled so much as the lower one is, is rising rapidly. Rains of the past few weeks have raised it.

All along Governor Pinchot's route crowds stood waiting to watch the official party pass and, from the front seat of his open touring car, the chief executive waved his hat to passersby time and time again. All of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio had declared a holiday, it seemed, for the traffic at the dam was heavy. The export directing of the highway patrolmen kept lanes open and not once was there any long delay.

The automobiles were parked to the west of the dam in files carefully placed in shape for the occasion. The roads throughout the district had been oiled.

Riding with the governor in his car were Lewis E. Staley, secretary of the state highway department, and M. V. DeForest, Sharon business man.

For the guests who trailed in other cars the inspection was educational, for many of them, no doubt, were making their first trip across the new reservoir land.

Declare That Condition Indicates No Ransom Paid In Canadian Kidnaping

(International News Service) LONDON, Ont., Aug. 18.—Verification that no ransom was paid for the release of John S. Labatt, freed by his kidnapers yesterday after 65 hours imprisonment, was seen today in the announcement of bankers here that they have received no serial numbers or other identification data of ransom currency.

Bankers said that so far as they knew, no effort is being made to trace ransom bills through any Canadian banks.

Labatt was abducted Tuesday and his captors demanded $150,000 ransom.

Provincial officials insist they have not been informed by the Labatt family whether or not any ransom was paid for the brewer's release.

STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT STARTS IN BELGIUM

Two Scientists In Latest Trip

Hope To Make New Record For Altitude Before Return To Earth

BALLOON CARRIES NEW MECHANISMS

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
HOOR-HAVENNE, Belgium, Aug. 18.—A tiny speck in a clear blue sky, drifting slowly eastward across Europe at an altitude of more than three miles, today represented man's latest adventure in attempting to soar to new heights through the atmosphere enveloping his world.

It was the stratosphere balloon of the youthful Professor A. M. Cosyns who took off from a field near this village at 6:17 a. m. (1:17 a. m. New York time).

To Measure Performance.
Cosyns had with him Dr. Van Der Elst, a Dutch scientist, and the latest instruments for measuring the performance and determining the nature of the mysterious cosmic rays.

Cosyns had leaned out of the gondola a moment before the balloon took off and shouted "au revoir, maman," to his mother who was in the forefront of the spectators.

The balloon then shot up into the air for 1,000 feet with the speed of a rock falling into space.

The gondola is equipped with radio and Cosyns' mother was awaiting messages from him.

The balloon is equipped with a new mechanism for deflating it and on it depends the lives of its occupants.

Cosyns, a veteran of the early record-breaking stratosphere flight of Dr. August Piccard, said just before the start, "I think we have luck with us."

David, former pastor of the Epworth M. E. church here, to invoke the blessing.

Following the service of the dinner Mr. Rentz introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Attorney L. J. Wiesen of Sharon. The toastmaster's introductory remarks were brief. "Our time is limited tonight," said he, "and we do not intend to have any extended program. We are here tonight to do honor to the men who today have seen the materialization of a dream of twenty-five years. Over that period of years they labored valiantly and well towards the day when the Pymatuning area would be a great lake, preventing floods and stabilizing the flow of the waters of the Shenango river. We have two speakers tonight, Samuel H. Hadley and Hon. Fred A. Service, and the duties of the evening have been divided between them." Mr. Hadley was introduced.

"It is not my purpose to make any address tonight," said Mr. Hadley. "My duty is to present to certain gentlemen a very small tribute of appreciation for their labors in the past quarter of a century in the cause of the Pymatuning dam. Men have labored in this cause that others might work and prosper and anything I might say would add not a job nor title to the glory which is theirs. I am presenting these plaques in behalf of the Sharon chamber of commerce."

Governor Pinchot First
Turning to Governor Pinchot Mr. Hadley said, "Since I first heard his name I have known of Governor Pinchot as a conservationist. In his work in the Federal government he was interested in conserving the resources that a beneficent creator had given us. As governor he has always been interested in the Pymatuning dam and it is a genuine pleasure to me to present Governor Pinchot with one of these plaques as a token of the appreciation of the citizens of this great valley."

Other Recipients
The plaque presented to Governor Pinchot and to the various other men is a thin sheet of silver upon which has been engraved the following: 1909-1934. Pymatuning Reservoir. Presented to (here the name was inserted) by the Sharon Chamber of Commerce, August 17, 1934, as a token of appreciation for outstanding work in behalf of the Pymatuning Reservoir.

In presenting his further share of the plaques, Mr. Hadley explained that no address of response was necessary. As he presented each plaque he recalled the particular field of endeavor in which the recipient had worked and expressed appreciation to each one. The following men were presented with plaques by Mr. Hadley, in addition to Governor Pinchot, Secretary of Forests and Waters, Lewis E. Staley; Secretary of Health, Dr. Theodore B. Appel; Fish Commissioner, Oliver M. Deibler; Chief Engineer of Water Power and Resources board, Charles E. Ryder; E. K. Morse of the same board; Resident Engineer Ralph J. Ferris; E. C. Brown, chief engineer for the Carnegie Steel company of Pittsburgh; Norman S. Powell of Sharon; John S. Oursler of Miami, Florida, formerly general superintendent of New Castle Works, Carnegie Steel company; David S. Pyle, general manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company at New Castle; Secretary of Highways, Samuel S. Lewis, and Dr. W. S. Cook of Beaver Falls.

In closing Mr. Hadley paid a glowing tribute to the memory of P. W. Walker of Beaver Falls, the "Daddy" of the Pymatuning dam. Mr. Walker died before he saw his dream realized but his name was Friday night, and the history gotten right for the dam was dedicated to him. Mr. Hadley also presented a bouquet of flowers to C. B. Lantz, president of the Sharon Chamber of Commerce, and a part owner of the Sharon News-Telegraph for his work in the project.

Hon. Fred A. Service
This concluded Mr. Hadley's portion of the program and the toastmaster then introduced Hon. Fred A. Service who made the presentation of plaques to the following men:

Attorney Fred T. Fruit of Sharon, Pa.; S. P. Ker of Youngstown, O.; William Kranz of Cleveland, O.; George Collard of Pittsburgh; William E. Todd of Pittsburgh; Attorney Floyd K. Smith, formerly of Sharon; Attorney-General William J. Schneider; Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle News; William B. Ramsey of the Sharon Herald; A. C. Dickinson, formerly a publisher in New Castle and Sharon, and John L. Morrison, a publisher of Greenville.

At the conclusion of Mr. Service's presentation the toastmaster called upon Governor Pinchot for a few farewell remarks. "You have a daring toastmaster," said his Excellency. "He calls on the governor for two addresses in one evening and he isn't going to get them. I just want to say that I have had a perfectly gorgeous day. It has been an inspiration to me and I know to you. I trust that the years will bring even greater results than any of us have anticipated from the Pymatuning dam."

The dinner program was finished about nine-thirty, followed by a social hour in the club. It was a dinner of such unusual interest and color that it will certainly be remembered in the Shenango Valley.

Around the table were many New Castle men who are interested in the Pymatuning dam. Among them could be seen P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze company; Harold S. Pyle, assistant manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company; Senator George T. Weingartner; E. S. Reed, superintendent of the E. & A. Division of the Pennsylvania railroad; Wesley Davy, manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement company; B. H. Kannenberg, superintendent of the American Can company; Ralph S. Botsinger, chief clerk of the National Radiator company; Harry Graustreiter, master mechanic of the Shenango Works, American Sheet and Tin Plate company; Bart Richards and A. Bruce Ewing of The News.

Youth Afflicted With
"Talking Sickness" To
Be Denied Visitors

(International News Service)
MT. GILEAD, O., Aug. 18.—The parents of Donald Campbell, 32, Ohio's "talking sickness" victim, who has talked incessantly for more than 300 hours, today moved to shield their son from the glare of publicity that has focused on their modest Edison, Ohio home since their son's illness.

Anticipating hundreds of curious tourists tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Campbell, parents of the stricken man, warned through the family physician, Dr. C. A. Jackson, that no visitors would be allowed at the home.

Dr. Jackson described Campbell's condition as "unchanged." He also declared that he had "no definite idea" when the victim would end his involuntary talking marathon but still expressed confidence that Campbell would ultimately recover.

"I have used every ordinary method of cure," he declared, "and the patient has shown no signs of improvement. However, his physical condition is not weakening and I see no signs of danger."

Dr. Jackson said that the family of Campbell, in modest circumstances, did not contemplate moving the man to a hospital. Nor would it benefit the patient, according to the doctor, who explained that the chances for recovery were greater amid familiar scenes of Campbell's boyhood.

Campbell, a Columbus truck driver, entered the 13th day of his incessant talking today. He seems primarily concerned about his job and whether he will lose his seniority in the company where he works. The only sleep which he has enjoyed for virtually the past two weeks was when he was administered sedatives or drugs by Dr. Jackson.

The latter described his slumbers as "artificial sleep" and declared that it would not halt the man's talking. He expressed hope previously, however, that a natural sleep might cure Campbell.

The latter's illness was traced to an accident two years ago but it did not become apparent until recently. He is suffering from inflammation of the brain which robbed him of his natural coordination between the brain and the tongue.

S. S. Alford of near Princeton brought to the News office the entire peach crop of two hundred peach trees owned by him and a neighbor, John Cooper. The crop consisted of one lone Rochester peach. The past winter killed practically every peach in this county and the fact that one lone peach survived and reached maturity is some evidence of the severity of the winter.

Of all the crowd at the Pymatuning dam exercises Friday afternoon there was little need for first aid. While the Red Cross had a tent on the grounds there were but two calls all day long. One of them was a young woman who was overcome by the heat and the other was a case of a bruised finger received by a woman.

ably 100 cars started its tour from the Greenville Country club, south of Greenville, where the governor and industrial leaders took luncheon and prepared themselves for the arduous afternoon and evening ahead.

Most of the prominent guests who came from Harrisburg and other points for the dedication assembled at the Greenville club for the luncheon because they desired to make the auto tour.

Prominent Leaders Present.
To Greenville came William A. Schneider, attorney general of the state and Republican nominee for governor; Secretary of Highways S. S. Lewis; Secretary of Health Dr. Theodore B. Appel; Lewis E. Staley, chairman of the state's water and power resources board; O. M. Deibler, commissioner of fisheries, and E. K. Morse and C. E. Ryder, members of the water and power resources board. Others included Sam Eckels, chief engineer of the state highway department; Thomas C. Freme, department engineer of the highway department; Ralph J. Ferris, field engineer for the highway department who directed the relocation of the roads in the Pymatuning region; E. E. Haslem, pioneer Pymatuning booster now associated with the state; Norman S. Powell, who as a civil engineer for the Carnegie Steel company envisioned the great Pymatuning project; Severn P. Ker, Youngstown industrial leader but formerly of Sharon, and others.

A motorcycle escort of state patrolmen led the party as it traversed its inspection route from the clubhouse to Greenville, on to Harrisburg, on to Conneaut Lake, on to Linesville, down the upper lake basin road to Epsville, across the Epsville-Andover highway, through Andover, and then south over Ohio and Pennsylvania roads to the Pymatuning dam.

Make Inspection Stops.
Only twice did the official party of sightseers halt, once below Linesville to view one of the large outlets for the upper basin and once on the highway fill between Epsville and Andover. The governor, his keen eyes flashing, seemed to reflect personal pride in the dam's achievement for it was three years ago—when he turned the first shovel of dirt for the dam's construction—that he saw it last. It was nothing but wilderness then.

Newspaper cameras clicked time and time again as the cars halted to allow the occupants to take more time to view the basins at close range. Water now fills the lower basin to the point where it gives it a sea appearance and motor boats sail over its waters. The upper basin, not filled so much as the lower one is, is rising rapidly. Rains of the past few weeks have raised it.

Crowds Cheer Governor.
All along Governor Pinchot's route crowds stood waiting to watch the official party pass and, from the front seat of his open touring car, the chief executive waved his hat to passersby time and time again.

Flags adorned many of the towns along the route, but at Andover, O., the party got its most suspicious welcome. News of the party's coming had evidently been relayed ahead for the town square was crowded when the caravan arrived. The cars swung into the town and around the square and then retraced for a block to strike a route leading south to the dam.

All of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio had declared a holiday, it seemed, for the traffic at the dam was heavy. The expert directing of the highway patrolmen kept lanes open and not once was there any long delay.

The automobiles were parked to the west of the dam in fields carefully placed in shape for the occasion. The roads throughout the district had been oiled.

car were Lewis E. Staley, secretary of forests and waters; Ralph J. Ferris, field engineer for the highway department, and M. V. DeForest, Sharon business man.

For the guests who trailed in other cars the inspection was educational, for many of them, no doubt, were making their first trip across the new reservoir land.

Fruit Able Chairman
Presiding in masterful fashion over the dedication ceremony was Hon. Fred T. Fruit, prominent Sharon attorney and secretary of the Shenango-Beaver Valley Conservation association.

He first reviewed the quarter of a century's battle to get the Pymatuning started and paused in his speaking to pay deep tribute to those pioneers, living and dead, who labored hard for the dam's great construction.

Chairman Fruit first introduced O. M. Merrell, superintendent of highways for Ohio and special emissary of Governor White, unable to attend the ceremony, and then Governor Pinchot. Special guests from Pennsylvania and Ohio were also present.

Merrell's message was but a short one, but genuinely sincere. He spoke of the breaking down of state boundaries "because after all, we're one great nation." A wave of cheers affirmed that.

Pinchot Leads Cheer
Governor Pinchot himself took time to trace the steps of the Pymatuning project and lauded the state of Ohio for its cooperation.

"To the crowd's surprise the governor shouted:

"And now, what's the matter with the Pymatuning?"

"It's alright," a meek few responded.

"Come on now, we can do that better," shouted the governor, much louder than at first. "What's the matter with it?"

"It's alright! It's alright!" the mighty crowd roared back.

Then Mr. Pinchot made his address, the substance of which was given in The News Friday.

Walker Greys Tribute
Hardly a speaker on the day's program failed to mention and extol the late Francis W. "Daddy" Walker, commander-in-chief of the Pymatuning battle forces for years and the inspiration which led others to enlist in its cause.

The governor praised him highly. On the platform with the speakers were seated the industrial leaders of the Shenango valley whose plants will benefit in dry spells because the Pymatuning will regulate the water even flow in the Shenango river.

Other special guests, public officials and leaders in business and professional life were also among them.

Tri-County Men In Charge
Fred L. Rentz was chairman of the general committee; Louis B. Rount, vice president for Lawrence county; Dr. W. S. Cook, vice president for Beaver county; C. B. Lantz, vice chairman for Mercer county, and Gerald A. Harshman was secretary.

On the reception committee were Howard J. McBride, J. Fred Thomas, M. V. DeForest, W. L. Aiken, W. B. Caldwell, J. M. Shontz, M. L. Favett, R. R. Down and J. L. Constable, all of Mercer county leaders. Leaders of towns of Mercer county served on a municipality committee for that county.

The celebration climaxed weeks of diligent planning by the committee and brought a civic celebration which surpassed former ceremonies like it.

Martial music for the afternoon was furnished by a Veterans of Foreign Wars band of Conneaut Lake and another made up of girls from the Polk Industrial School, state-operated school at Polk, Pa.

Booklet Gives History
Issued to the public in conjunction with the program was a dedication booklet, "The History of Pymatuning Reservoir," which Gerald A. Harshman, Sharon newspaperman, edited.

After the dedication of the dam the crowd rapidly dwindled and Governor Pinchot and other state officers were taken on a short motor boat trip on the lake and then driven to the Sharon County Club for a testimonial dinner.

The governor was due in Erie today to speak before the state department of the American Legion, now in convention there. Secretary of Highways S. S. Lewis accompanied Mr. Rentz to New Castle to spend the night at his home. Other state officers returned to Harrisburg or their own homes.

Official drum and bugle corps competition among the state posts was run off in a colorful 5 hour program last night.

Tartanum won the class A event, edging out the Lafayette Post, Uniontown, by a fraction of a point. Third place was taken by the Green Trojans, Greensburg; fourth by Houston Post, Philadelphia; fifth by Montgomery Post, DuBois and Johnstown Post.

In the class B series, Duquesne Memorial Post was the victor. Second place went to Kirk Post, Crafton-Ingram and third to Evans Post, Bangor. Other posts placed in this order, Waynesburg, McAdoo; Oxley Post, Philadelphia; Rochester and Charleroi.

Deaths of the Day

Dr. Joseph Allen.

Mrs. William Jenkins of State street is in Monongahela City, having been called there for the funeral this week of her brother, Dr. Joseph Allen, who was a prominent physician of that place and was a member of one of New Castle's pioneer families.

Dr. Allen had been in failing health for the past year. He was 52 years of age.

He is survived by Mrs. Jenkins, a brother, George Allen of Chicago; two aunts, Mrs. Amelia Wilson of Iowa and Mrs. T. N. Burneson of Lisbon, O., and an uncle, J. E. Wright of Mercer.

Canadian Kidnaping

(International News Service)

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 18.—Verification that no ransom was paid for the release of John S. Labatt, freed by his kidnapers yesterday after 65 hours imprisonment, was seen today in the announcement of bankers here that they have received no serial numbers or other identification data of ransom currency.

Bankers said that so far as they knew, no effort is being made to trace ransom bills through any Canadian banks.

Labatt was abducted Tuesday and his captors demanded $150,000 ransom. Provincial officials insist they have not been informed by the Labatt family whether or not any ransom was paid for the brewer's release.

Canton, O., Aug. 18.—"I don't know anything about it and I don't remember the name 'Askew'."

That was the only comment Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, would make here today when questioned about the letter reportedly received at Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, demanding $25,000 for the release of R. H. Askew, North Carolina minister, who is believed to be in the hands of kidnapers.

The evangelist politely but firmly refused to answer any question by saying, "Miss Jordan, who is in charge of my affairs at the temple while I am on my lecture tour, is the person to question until I learn what this is all about."

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY ADVENTURE QUEST

Adventure, in most unexpected places, was found by a happy group of young folks who participated in a scavenger hunt planned by Mrs. James L. Cole of Sheridan avenue, to brighten the visit of her two house guests, Miss Sue Blair and her brother, Robert C. Blair of Weston, W. Va.

The young couples gathered in the early evening at the Cole home from which place they started out in several cars, with instructions to find everything from an atom to an elephant. They had until 11 o'clock for scouring around and at that time they met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Byers near Pulaski.

After assembling the motley assortment of treasures which included about everything but a bar of Lenox soap, which nobody either in or out of town seemed to have, winners were announced as Miss Marian Truby and Robert E. Jemison, Miss Luella McBride and William Trick, the girls receiving lovely compact and the boys Eversharp pencils for prizes.

During the evening, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Roy M. Jamison with Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Brown had gone to the Byers home and by the time the young folks arrived, a big bon fire had been built in the orchard and a feast of corn, wieners and watermelon completed a most happy occasion.

Miss Ruth Gardner of Meadville, was among the guests.

Lawson-Straw Reunion

MISS JANE ALLEN HONORED AT DINNER

Complimenting Miss Jane Allen of Leasure avenue, whose engagement has been announced, Miss Mary McGeehon of Martin street, presided over a dinner of lovely appointments Friday evening in a downtown tearoom.

Pink and white tones were used effectively in the very delicious menu served.

In the evening, the guests went to the Pine street home of Miss Olive Miller where they had a game of cards. Miss Marjorie Milholland and Miss Ruth Weir held top scores and were given pretty favors while the guest of honor, Miss Allen, was presented a beautiful lamp, which conveyed the many good wishes of the girls present.

HUNDREDS OF BAPTISTS PICNIC AT CASCADE

Friday evening Cascade Park was the scene of hundreds of members of the First Baptist church and their families, when the annual picnic took place.

At six o'clock Mrs. W. O. Williams and her committee saw to it that the attractive tables were laden with every known delicacy from the baskets brought by the women and ample justice was done by those seated around the festal board.

Before dinner was served D. S. Williams kept the children busy with stunts and games and after dinner, James McCallan directed the older ones in all kinds of amusing contests, with every one entering heartily into the fun.

Dr. John Snape and daughter, Alice, of Los Angeles, Cal. were special guests.

Veri-Natalie Nuptials

Among the prettiest weddings solemnized in St. Vitus church this summer, by the Rev. Fr. Nicholas DelMata, pastor of the church, was that which took place this morning when Miss Edith Veri, daughter of Andy Veri, of Pollock avenue, became the bride of Guy Natalie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Natalie, of 19 East Home street.

As the bridal party slowly marched to the altar, Mrs. Lacko, church organist, played several delightful wedding selections. The bride, attractively attired in a white satin gown, was given away in marriage by her father, Mrs. Jane Marino, served the bride as maid of honor. Anthony Petrucci, of this city acted as best man. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the couple.

At noon in the bride's home on Pollock avenue, a delicious dinner was served to members of the immediate families and a few invited guests. This afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Natalie will depart for a honeymoon trip to Cleveland and surrounding places of interest.

The newlyweds, upon returning, will be at home to their friends at their newly furnished home at 1025 South Mill street. Mr. and Mrs. Natalie are well known south side residents.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Lena Frasso of Euclid avenue pleasantly entertained her children in her home Friday afternoon to honor the tenth birthday of her granddaughter, Gloria Cioffi.

The afternoon was spent playing games, prizes going to Donnie Cioffi and Celesta Barrett.

Solicitor Home From Convention

White Among Speakers At Third Class City Convention At Harrisburg

City Solicitor Robert White has returned from the convention of the league of cities of the third class held at Harrisburg, Wednesday and Thursday. Engineer Harry Hoskins and Parks Director Joe Alexander will return today.

White presented to the convention the report of Mayor Rossiter, which concerned proposed legislation affecting public utilities.

Under the draft of the bill, which will be recommended for passage by the legislature, cities would be permitted to take over and operate utilities or act as a distributor.

White also spoke to the convention, his theme being the Public Service commission.

He praised the character of the commissioners but said that when the commission was formed that instead of it being like any other arm of state government it set itself up as a court and now no one can obtain relief unless there is submission of papers, considerable red tape and a "law suit."

Solicitor Home From Convention

White Among Speakers At Third Class City Convention At Harrisburg

City Solicitor Robert White has returned from the convention of the league of cities of the third class held at Harrisburg, Wednesday and Thursday. Engineer Harry Hocking and Parks Director Joe Alexander will return today.

White presented to the convention the report of Mayor Rossiter, which concerned proposed legislation affecting public utilities.

Under the draft of the bill, which will be recommended for passage by the legislature, cities would be permitted to take over and operate utilities or act as a distributor.

White also spoke to the convention, his theme being the Public Service Commission.

He praised the character of the commissioners but said that when the commission was formed that instead of it being like any other arm of state government it set itself up as a court and now no one can obtain relief unless there is a submission of papers, considerable red tape and a "law suit."

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY ADVENTURE QUEST

Adventure, in most unexpected places, was found by a happy group of young folks who participated in a scavenger hunt planned by Mrs. James L. Cole of Sheridan avenue, to brighten the visit of her two house guests, Miss Sue Blair and her brother, Robert C. Blair of Weston, W. Va.

The young couples gathered in the early evening at the Cole home from which place they started out in several cars, with instructions to find everything from an atom to an elephant. They had until 11 o'clock for scouring around and at that time they met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Byers near Pulaski.

After assembling the motley assortment of treasures which included about everything but a bar of Lenox soap, which nobody either in or out of town seemed to have, winners were announced as Miss Marian Truby and Robert E. Jameson, Miss Luella McBride and William Trick, the girls receiving lovely compacts and the boys Eversharp pencils for prizes.

During the evening, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Roy M. Jamison with Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Brown had gone to the Byers home and by the time the young folks arrived, a big bon fire had been built in the orchard and a feast of corn, wieners and watermelon completed a most happy occasion.

Miss Ruth Gardner of Meadville, was among the guests.

SHENANGO CHURCH HAS PICNIC FRIDAY

A bountiful dinner was served at noon, Friday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seley on the Chapin road when 110 members of the Shenango United Presbyterian church assembled for the annual picnic.

A program of sports followed dinner with a baseball game as the first feature. Prizes in the various contests were awarded Helen Zook and George Smith in the Go and Go Back race; Elba Reynolds, balloon blowing; Glen Hileman, shoe race; Ed. Reynolds, and George Smith, wheel-barrow race; Martin Love, block race; Elizabeth Knight, kicking balloon race; Sally Rodgers, little girls race; Janet Eagle, big girls' race; Alice Reynolds, peanut scramble; Mrs. Phoebe Reynolds, nail driving. Judges for the contests were Junior McMains and Paul Nesbitt. When the group left for their homes, they declared the outing one of the most enjoyable ever held.

Solicitor Home From Convention

White Among Speakers At Third Class City Convention At Harrisburg

City Solicitor Robert White has returned from the convention of the league of cities of the third class held at Harrisburg, Wednesday and Thursday. Engineer Harry Hoskins and Parks Director Joe Alexander will return today.

White presented to the convention the report of Mayor Rossiter, which concerned proposed legislation affecting public utilities.

Under the draft of the bill, which will be recommended for passage by the legislature, cities would be permitted to take over and operate utilities or act as a distributor.

White also spoke to the convention, his theme being the Public Service commission.

He praised the character of the commissioners but said that when the commission was formed that instead of it being like any other arm of state government it set itself up as a court and now no one can obtain relief unless there is a submission of papers, considerable red tape and a "law suit".

DEATH ON WHEELS

TRAFFIC accident records for the year to date are anything but encouraging. They are decidedly disappointing to persons and agencies engaged in the hopeless cause of accident prevention.

Pennsylvania's accident history for the first six months is typical. During the first quarter of the year the number of collisions between automobiles, between motor vehicles and street cars, between motor vehicles and trains, between motor vehicles and inanimate roadside objects and between motor vehicles and pedestrians mounted at a terrifying rate. Officials and private citizens were alarmed and with good cause. But the second quarter gave some reassurance. Motor accidents fell off 10 per cent and crashes between street cars and motor vehicles were 40 per cent less frequent. Winter and spring driving hazards account for the difference.

What the last four months of the year will bring forth none can say with certainty, but it is a foregone conclusion that the 1934 accident total will exceed that of 1933 by many thousands. And that means fatalities will be up.

Increasing traffic density, faster cars and growing recklessness combine to keep the hospitals and doctors busy. It would seem as if the average driver and pedestrian has assumed either a fatalistic or suicidal attitude.

FEDERAL PAY ROLL

If this summer hasn't given you enough things to worry about, you can always work up a fever over the wholesale way in which Uncle Sam has been adding his nephews and nieces to the federal payroll lately.

Some sort of all-time high was reached this month when it was disclosed that more than 7,000,000 adult Americans are getting federal checks regularly.

This includes practically everybody—regularly government employees, members of the army and navy, people getting pensions and veterans' compensation funds, those hired for public works projects and recipients of direct relief.

It breaks down about this, according to a recent tabulation: Some 3,800,000 people are getting emergency relief in the shape of food, money, and so on. Road work and other emergency jobs account for 970,000 more. Some 600,000 are employed on other public works projects.

There are 918,000 people drawing pensions of one kind or another. There are 911,000 federal employees, 280,000 in the CCC camps and just less than 260,000 in army, navy, and marine corps.

Add them all together and you get a lot of people—so many that it is no wonder some people are getting pretty worried about it all.

LAMENT

Babe Ruth will be missed from the lineup of the Yankees. The Babe was one of those "bests" the last decade produced but which, it seems, to many, are sadly lacking from the prosaic thirties.

No one, of course, hit as many home runs as Babe Ruth and if they did, or do in the future, he will still be the world's champion home-run hitter as far as most fans are concerned. No one, either, could hit home runs with the flourish of Ruth. He was a "natural" as a baseball player and as a public idol in the considerable sphere in which he moved. It is sad but true that for this generation at least even another ball player as good as Ruth, and in Ruth's particular way, would only be a second Babe.

Where, incidentally, are the heroes of sports? Is there really anyone now as good as the Dempsey of pre-facelifting days? Is there an equal to the Tilden of his prime? Is there another Man-O-War, or a backfield like Rockne's Four Horsemen?

There may be; there may be statistics to prove it. But even if it was so the public probably wouldn't believe it.

SEWARD'S FOLLY

When Secretary of State Seward negotiated the purchase of Alaska from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000, the transaction was severely criticized by many, and by some it was termed "Seward's folly." But subsequent events have proved it to have been a very good buy after all.

Since the discovery of gold in 1880, more than 400 million dollars worth of the precious metal has been produced, and the output still exceeds 10 million dollars a year. Until the price of copper dropped so low, from five to seven million dollars worth of that metal was mined each year, while the salmon pack value has ranged from 21 to 45 million dollars in recent years. The normal lumber cut from Alaskan forests is from 40 to 50 million board feet.

Although the development of Alaska is still in its infancy, the progress made has long since vindicated Secretary Seward's judgment. In years to come it will doubtless be one of our greatest national assets.

THE LOST CRACKER BARREL

There is sorrow and resentment in a little Connecticut town because a new postmaster has been appointed, displacing the keeper of a general store which was the centre of social life in the neighborhood.

The postoffice is to be removed to the house of the new man, and going for the mail will no longer include long sessions by the cracker barrel or the games of checkers which have been carried on since the days of President Arthur. No wonder the whole community is dismayed at the prospect.

Only those who are familiar with the country village will realize how great a change in long-established habits this innovation will bring about. The old postoffice, with its congenial surroundings, was a centre of philosophy and gossip. Winter and summer it was an intellectual refuge. The place will not seem the same without it.

First we do as we please; then we think up a rule of ethics to prove it the right way.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

HOW WE LOST OUR JOB

WE WANTED a job, so my brother and I asked our uncle, who had charge of an apple packing concern if he would give us one.

It was the in-between season, and we knew that there was work if we could get it. Out in the field, near the plant, was a pile of damaged boxes as big as one of the pyramids. Some of the boxes had nails out of them, some had broken sides or ends. Somebody had to repair them—and why shouldn't that somebody be my brother and me ("Me" sounds better). It would give us some nice spending money through the winter.

So we went into conference with Uncle Harry. He said we could have the work, but he didn't know what it was worth. Suppose we worked a sample day and saw how many we could work over in eight or ten hours. So we tore into that pile and in one day we fixed an enormous number of boxes. We didn't stop a minute. We took only ten minutes for lunch. We fixed or examined an unbelievable number of boxes. Perhaps a thousand, perhaps twelve hundred. And when we told the total to Uncle Harry, he said that would be worth about a dollar and a quarter a day. So we could go to work, keep count of our own hours, let him know and he'd pay us at that rate.

We took over the contract. But we didn't keep up the pace. We never did attain that great total again. We dawdled, we played, we took an hour for lunch, we yoo-hooed at other kids going past, we discussed great problems together, we wished it was summer and we could go swimming, we talked about going down to the river and spearing driftwood in the flood, we sat on boxes and dreamed of the summer future. And just about that time in our lives Uncle Harry walked round the corner of the box pile and took one look at his recumbent nephews and fired both of them on the spot. It seemed that we were dishonest, that we were lazy, that we didn't keep our word, that we were just a couple of little bums and he didn't want us on the payroll any more and we could take our little hatchets and go home to our mother and tell her what had happened to her little boys. So we went.

And ever since that day I've understood that if you're going to loaf on the job you should at least pretend to be working—and not underestimate either the intelligence or the patience of your boss. . . . It was a lesson to us.

DON'T JUMP AT CONCLUSIONS

Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc. You should not expect your state or national representatives to give you unlimited time when you call on them at the capital.

Sure, they should give you a hearing, but you demand too much when you plan to have a visit devoted extensively to gossip.

If representatives should give their constituents as much time as they would like, they would have little else to do but visit.

You may have had to wait a considerable time to see your representative.

When you reached him, he was evidently too busy to give the time you desired.

Immediately the thought came to you that he had become high-brow because of the honor you and others conferred in electing him.

But such is seldom the case. Men in public positions have a lot of work to do, even though it is not readily apparent.

There are many conferences to be attended, many consultations with other representatives relative to bills that will be of benefit to their districts.

THE WREN
A wren is singing on a bough
A rapid song of glee
As if to be alive just now
Is cause for melody.

Yet I have lived this long day
Through
Brave, happy hearted bird
And to the blithe and gay as you
To none has it occurred.

A score of humans have I met
Along the traveled way
But words of sorrow or regret
Were all they had to say.

Not one of them can I recall
In such a merry mood
Or for God's blessings, great or small
Displayed such gratitude.

I harked to gossip and to care
From men who strain and strive
But no one voiced a grateful prayer
That still he was alive.

I think sometimes we ought to be
As grateful as a wren
And sing our joys exultantly!
But then, of course, we're men!

THE SILK PURSE
From Paul Foster comes a bit of interesting information on the origin of the expression. "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," for which we are grateful. It may appeal to others. Mr. Foster says:

"The expression dates back to the 11th century days in England. The thrifty Normans, who crossed the channel with William, the Conqueror, carried their sows and other small coins in cheap purses called 'sousiers,' pronounced, approximately, 'soos ear,' which the English gradually distorted, and thus the innocent sow came into the picture. Whether or not the proverb was imported from France in 1066 and, if so, when it originated in France are still other questions.

Can Anyone Please All Groups?
A Small Manufacturer's Woes
A Farmer's Point Of View

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Can anyone please the component groups that make up the United States? From all sides complaints flow in to this column.

That may be a good indication. A year and a half ago every one seemed too prostrate to complain.

Yet, the monetary inflation, processes and monetary restrictive actions are pinching very hard.

A small clothing manufacturer complains. He cannot borrow a cent. He has been in business 20 years. His reputation is good—but the NRA set certain standards. Specific cheaply made goods were to be removed from the market.

That—rightly or wrongly—evidently ended it with the small manufacturer, at least this one says so. Now, the NRA has relaxed. But it is too late. The manufacturer's capital has gone. And banks refuse to lend against the clouded prospects of the future.

bring the most good to all equally, and which gives special privileges to none. We are trying to spread economic security to the greatest number."

But, asks the clothing manufacturer, the NRA regulations do give special privileges to the big manufacturers.

And, adds the farmer, the hog restriction program does give an advantage to the packer.

Perhaps the government responds then in this manner:

"If small clothing manufacturers were permitted to do as they please the clothing industry would be demoralized and working conditions would be horrible."

"And if farmers were permitted to raise hogs unrestricted they could not possibly get enough for them to buy any bread."

Yet there is a flaw in the arguments of both sides—and that flaw is fundamental, say observers on the sidelines.

The flaw, these observers say, is this: The government seeks to create a socialist state by capitalist control by nationalistic means and without disturbing the profit motive, and that mixture produces merely fascism.

Another view.

New York naturally objects to farm subsidies. It believes that the city dweller will be taxed.

But here is a letter from M. A. Toole, who has a general store near Austin, Texas.

He, writes urging the United States to keep out of any more wars, then says, after ridiculing the so-called democracies in other parts of the world:

"Turn your gaze, then, to our own United States, and land we want to call 'the land of the free and the home of the brave.' We find that the farmer must consult the government as to what and how much he may plant; that the farmer must get permission from his government to sell his own crop; that the man who raises hogs must pay the government an enormous and outrageous tax if he sells a hog or any part thereof to buy his family bread."

"But if the farmer sells a hog or a hundred hogs to a meat packer, meat trust or monopoly, this packer, meat trust or monopoly may take the bellies of that hog or hogs, put 10 pounds of salt to each hog belly and sell the combination to a retail merchant for 12 cents a pound, and pay no tax at all on the hog."

"Is that democracy?"

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?
The government may respond to the clothing manufacturer and to the farmer by responding: "Democracy is that which endeavors to stabilize."

World War Day-By-Day—Aug. 18, 1914.—There is gaiety and cheering and glittering display of bayonets, swords and medals in Vienna. The Austrians have not won a victory as a matter of fact their armies are facing defeats on two fronts. It is the 84th birthday of the emperor, Francis Joseph I.

No one of his subjects has less to celebrate than he. Forty-eight years before he had told an audience at Frankfurt, "I have an unlucky hand." He was thinking of past events, but the phrase was prophetic, too.

DEATH ON WHEELS

TRAFFIC accident records for the year to date are anything but encouraging. They are decidedly disappointing to persons and agencies engaged in the hopeless cause of accident prevention.

Pennsylvania's accident history for the first six months is typical. During the first quarter of the year the number of collisions between automobiles, between motor vehicles and street cars, between motor vehicles and trains, between motor vehicles and inanimate roadside objects and between motor vehicles and pedestrians mounted at a terrifying rate. Officials and private citizens were alarmed and with good cause. But the second quarter gave some reassurance. Motor accidents fell off 10 per cent and crashes between street cars and motor vehicles were 40 per cent less frequent. Winter and spring driving hazards account for the difference.

What the last four months of the year will bring forth none can say with certainty, but it is a foregone conclusion that the 1934 accident total will exceed that of 1933 by many thousands. And that means fatalities will be up.

Increasing traffic density, faster cars and growing recklessness combine to keep the hospitals and doctors busy. It would seem as if the average driver and pedestrian has assumed either a fatalistic or suicidal attitude.

FEDERAL PAY ROLL

If this summer hasn't given you enough things to worry about, you can always work up a fever over the wholesale way in which Uncle Sam has been adding his nephews and nieces to the federal payroll lately. Some sort of all-time high was reached this month when it was disclosed that more than 7,000,000 adult Americans are getting federal checks regularly.

This includes practically everybody—regularly government employees, members of the army and navy, people getting pensions and veterans' compensation funds, those hired for public works projects and recipients of direct relief.

It breaks down about this, according to a recent tabulation: Some 3,600,000 people are getting emergency relief in the shape of food, money, and so on. Road work and other emergency jobs account for $70,000 more. Some 600,000 are employed on other public works projects.

There are 918,000 people drawing pensions of one kind or another. There are 911,000 federal employees, 280,000 in the CCC camps and just less than 260,000 in army, navy, and marine corps.

Add them all together and you get a lot of people—so many that it is no wonder some people are getting pretty worried about it all.

LAMENT

Babe Ruth will be missed from the lineup of the Yankees. The Babe was one of those "bests" the last decade produced but which, it seems, to many, are sadly lacking from the prosaic thirties.

No one, of course, hit as many home runs as Babe Ruth and if they did, or do in the future, he will still be the world's champion home-run hitter as far as most fans are concerned. No one, either, could hit home runs with the flourish of Ruth. He was a "natural" as a baseball player and as a public idol in the considerable sphere in which he moved. It is sad but true that for this generation at least even another ball player as good as Ruth, and in Ruth's particular way, would only be a second Babe.

Where, incidentally, are the heroes of sports? Is there really anyone now as good as the Dempsey of pre-facilitating days? Is there an equal to the Tilden of his prime? Is there another Man-O-War, or a backfield like Rockne's Four Horsemen?

There may be; there may be statistics to prove it. But even if it was so the public probably wouldn't believe it.

SEWARD'S FOLLY

When Secretary of State Seward negotiated the purchase of Alaska from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000, the transaction was severely criticized by many, and by some it was termed "Seward's folly." But subsequent events have proved it to have been a very good buy after all.

Since the discovery of gold in 1880, more than 400 million dollars worth of the precious metal has been produced, and the output still exceeds 10 million dollars a year. Until the price of copper dropped so low, from five to seven million dollars worth of that metal was mined each year, while the salmon pack value has ranged from 21 to 45 million dollars in recent years. The normal lumber cut from Alaskan forests is from 40 to 50 million board feet.

Although the development of Alaska is still in its infancy, the progress made has long since vindicated Secretary Seward's judgment. In years to come it will doubtless be one of our greatest national assets.

THE LOST CRACKER BARREL

There is sorrow and resentment in a little Connecticut town because a new postmaster has been appointed, displacing the keeper of a general store which was the centre of social life in the neighborhood.

The postoffice is to be removed to the house of the new man, and going for the mail will no longer include long seasons by the cracker barrel or the games of checkers which have been carried on since the days of President Arthur. No wonder the whole community is dismayed at the prospect.

Only those who are familiar with the country village will realize how great a change in long-established habits this innovation will bring about. The old postoffice, with its congenial surroundings, was a centre of philosophy and gossip. Winter and summer it was an intellectual refuge. The place will not seem the same without it.

First we do as we please; then we think up a rule of ethics to prove it the right way.

Dumb animals are the ones that don't exercise violently in a vain effort to cure old age.

It is to be suspected it is not entirely altruism that causes that group of nations to be willing to fight to maintain Austrian independence.

North Sea fishermen dumped millions of sardines overboard to restore prices. There must be something to be said of net losses, if we could think of it.

All Of Us

HOW WE LOST OUR JOB

WE WANTED a job, so my brother and I asked our uncle, who had charge of an apple packing concern if he would give us one.

It was the in-between season, and we knew that there was work if we could get it. Out in the field, near the plant, was a pile of damaged boxes as big as one of the pyramids. Some of the boxes had nails out of them, some had broken sides or ends. Somebody had to repair them—and why shouldn't that somebody be my brother and me ("Me" sounds better). It would give us some nice spending money through the winter.

So we went into conference with Uncle Harry. He said we could have the work, but he didn't know what it was worth. Suppose we worked a sample day and saw how many we could work over in eight or ten hours. So we tore into that pile and in one day we fixed an enormous number of boxes. We didn't stop a minute. We took only ten minutes for lunch. We fixed or examined an unbelievable number of boxes. Perhaps a thousand, perhaps twelve hundred. And when we told the total to Uncle Harry, he said that would be worth about a dollar and a quarter a day. So we could go to work, keep count of our own hours, let him know and he'd pay us at that rate.

We took over the contract. But we didn't keep up the pace. We never did attain that great total again. We dawdled, we played, we took an hour for lunch, we yoo-hooed at other kids going past, we discussed great problems together, we wished it was summer and we could go swimming, we talked about going down to the river and spearing driftwood in the flood, we sat on boxes and dreamed of the unseen future. And just about that time in our lives Uncle Harry walked around the corner of the box pile and took one look at his recumbent nephews and fired both of them on the spot. It seemed that we were dishonest, that we were lazy, that we didn't keep our word, that we were just a couple of little bums and he didn't want us on the payroll any more and we could take our little hatchets and go home to our mothers and tell them what had happened to her little boys. So we went.

And ever since that day I've understood that if you're going to loaf on the job you should at least PRETEND to be working—and not underestimate either the intelligence or the patience of your boss. It was a lesson to us.

DON'T JUMP AT CONCLUSIONS

Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc.
You should not expect your state or national representatives to give you unlimited time when you call on them at the capital.

Sure, they should give you a hearing, but you demand too much when you plan to have a visit devoted extensively to gossip.

If representatives should give their constituents as much time as they would like, they would have little else to do but visit.

You may have had to wait a considerable time to see your representative.

When you reached him, he was evidently too busy to give the time you desired.

Immediately the thought came to you that he had become high-hat because of the honor you and others conferred in electing him.

But such is seldom the case. Men in public positions have a lot of work to do even though it is not readily apparent.

There are many conferences to be attended, many consultations with other representatives relative to bills that will be of benefit to their districts.

Yes, they are busier than you think they are.

A wren is singing on a bough
A rapturous song of glee
As if to be alive just now
Is cause for melody.

Yet I have lived this long day
Through
A brave, happy hearted bird
And to the blithe and gay as you
To none has it occurred.

A score of humans have I met
Along the traveled way
But words of sorrow or regret
Were all they had to say.

Not one of them can I recall
In such a merry mood
Or for God's blessings, great or small
Displayed such gratitude.

I harked to gossip and to care
From men who strain and strive
But no one voiced a grateful prayer
That still he was alive.

I think sometimes we ought to be
As grateful as a wren
And sing our joys exultantly
But then, of course, we're men!

Can Anyone Please All Groups?
A Small Manufacturer's Woes
A Farmer's Point Of ViewBy LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Can anyone please the component groups that make up the United States? From all sides complaints flow in to this column.

That may be a good indication. A year and a half ago every one seemed too prostrate to complain. Yet, the monetary inflationary processes and certain restrictive actions are pinching very hard.

A small clothing manufacturer complains. He cannot borrow a cent. He has been in business 20 years. His reputation is good—but the NRA set certain standards. Specific cheaply made goods were to be removed from the market.

That—right or wrongly—evidently ended it with the small manufacturer, at least this one says so. Now, the NRA has relaxed. But it is too late. The manufacturer's capital has gone. And banks refuse to lend against the clouded prospects of the future.

ANOTHER VIEW
New York naturally objects to tax subsidies. It believes that the city dweller will be taxed.

But here is a letter from M. A. Toole, who has a general store near Austin, Texas.

He writes urging the United States to keep out of any more wars, then says, after ridiculing the so-called democracies in other parts of the world:

"Turn your gaze, then, to our own United States, and land we want to call 'the land of the free and the home of the brave.' We find that the farmer must consult the government as to what and how much he may plant; that the farmer must get permission from his government to sell his own crop; that the man who raises hogs must pay the government an enormous and outrageous tax if he sells a hog or any part thereof to buy his family bread."

"But if the farmer sells a hog or a hundred hogs to a meat packer, meat trust or monopoly, this packer, meat trust or monopoly may take the bellies of that hog or hogs, put 10 pounds of salt to each hog belly and sell the combination to a retail merchant for 12 cents a pound, and pay no tax at all on the hog."

"Is that democracy?"

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?
The government may respond to the clothing manufacturer and to the farmer by responding: "Democracy is that which endeavors to bring the most good to all equally, and which gives special privileges to none. We are trying to spread economic security to the greatest number."

But, asks the clothing manufacturer, the NRA regulations do give special privileges to the big manufacturers.

And, adds the farmer, the hog restriction program does give an advantage to the packer.

Perhaps the government responds then in this manner:

"If small clothing manufacturers were permitted to do as they please the clothing industry would be demoralized and working conditions would be horrible."

"And if farmers were permitted to raise hogs unrestricted they could not possibly get enough for them to buy any bread."

Yet there is a flaw in the arguments of both sides—and that flaw is fundamental, say observers on the sidelines.

The flaw, these observers say, is this: The government seeks to create a socialist state by capitalist control by nationalistic means and without disturbing the profit motive, and that mixture produces merely fascism.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE
An interesting view of England and France is brought back from abroad by Howard Heinz, president of H. J. Heinz Co., of Pittsburgh.

Says Mr. Heinz:
"England is comparatively prosperous. Steel, tool and machine building and other statistics show remarkable forward strides from the low levels of the depression, and in many instances industries are running full."

"The British believe monetary stabilization is fundamental to world recovery. Most of the people interviewed feel nothing can be done about the British debt to the United States for some time. The British, however, do not have reputation in mind."

"As to France, there is growing unemployment there. The people have great confidence in the franc and have hoarded 30 million francs. Technically France can probably remain on the gold standard no matter what happens to the rest of the world. But the high rate of exchange is so affecting her exports that some authorities feel she will regard it advisable to devalue the franc in relation to sterling and dollars, should there be stabilization in these two currencies."

World business is urging that stabilization.

SATURDAY, AUG. 18.

World War Day-By-Day—Aug. 18, 1914—There is gaiety, and cheering, and glittering display of bayonets, swords and medals in Vienna. The Austrians have not won a victory.

As a matter of fact their armies are facing defeat on two fronts. It is the 44th birthday of the emperor, Francis Joseph I.

No one of his subjects has less to celebrate than he. Forty-eight years before he had told an audience at Frankfurt, "I have an unlucky hand." He was thinking of past events, but the phrase was prophetic, too.

His reign was a succession of wars, disasters and tragedies. His brother Maximilian was executed and his sister-in-law driven crazy by Mexicans over whom they sought to rule; his son & heir Rudolph committed suicide; his wife was assassinated; his nephew & heir, Francis Ferdinand, was murdered. The only person he could regard as a friend in his last years was his companion of many years, Katharina Schrratt, an otherwise obscure actress. The emperor had everything that men seek—power, glory, riches; and none of the things that make them happy.

His country started the World War, but there is no doubt that no one wanted war less than he. He even realized that whatever side won it would be the end of his empire.

(As this is written, three weeks before publication, Katharina Schrratt is alive, but as faded and withered as the memory of her, ill and in poverty in Vienna.)

Great Days—Aug. 18, 1227—Temujin, the Genghis Khan ("very mighty ruler") of the Mongols, one of the three greatest conquerors in all history, died in his travelling palace at Ha-lao-tu, on the banks of the river Salu, Mongolia, at 65.

He became a ruler at 13, built the minor domain of his father into an Asia-wide empire which his grandson, Kubilai Khan, was to extend into half of Europe. (Kubilai inspired Marco Polo's classic pages.)

That Genghis Khan's death might be kept a secret from subject nations until his son, Ogotai was installed in power, the escort killed every person they met as they carried the body to a secret burial place. A clan was charged to watch the site in secret, until the surrounding forest of saplings grew into great trees and erased all trace of the grave.

Aug. 18, 1587—Birthdate of Virginia Dare, often identified as first white child born in America.

She was not. First child of European parents born in North America was illegitimate!

When Jann Francois, Sieur de Roberval, first viceroy of Canada, went to his domain, in 1542, he was accompanied by a niece, Marguerite Roberval, who loved a cavalier in the company not wisely but too well. It would give us some nice spending money through the winter.

So we went into conference with Uncle Harry. He said we could have the work, but he didn't know what it was worth. Suppose we worked a sample day and saw how many we could work over in eight or ten hours. So we tore into that pile and in one day we fixed an enormous number of boxes. We didn't stop a minute. We took only ten minutes for lunch. We fixed or examined an unbelievable number of boxes. Perhaps a thousand, perhaps twelve hundred. And when we told the total to Uncle Harry, he said that would be worth about a dollar and a quarter a day. So we could go to work, keep count of our own hours, let him know and he'd pay us at that rate.

We took over the contract. . . . But we didn't keep up the pace. We never did attain that great total again. We dawdled, we played, we took an hour for lunch, we yoo-hooed at other kids going past, we discussed great problems together, we wished it was summer and we could go swimming. We talked about going down to the river and spearing driftwood in the flood, we sat on boxes and dreamed of the unseen future. . . . And just about that time in our lives Uncle Harry walked round the corner of the box pile and took one look at his recumbent nephews and fired both of them on the spot. . . . It seemed that we were dishonest, that we were lazy, that we didn't keep our word, that we were just a couple of little bums and he didn't want us on the payroll any more and we could take our little hatchets and go home to our mother and tell her what had happened to her little boys. So we went.

And ever since that day I've understood that if you're going to loaf on the job you should at least PRETEND to be working—and not underestimate either the intelligence or the patience of your boss. . . . It was a lesson to us.

DON'T JUMP AT CONCLUSIONS

Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc. You should not expect your state or national representatives to give you unlimited time when you call on them at the capital.

Sure, they should give you a hearing, but you demand too much when you plan to have a visit devoted exclusively to gossip. If representatives should give their constituents as much time as they would like, they would have little else to do but visit.

You may have had to wait a considerable time to see your representative.

When you reached him, he was evidently too busy to give the time you desired. Immediately the thought came to you that he had become high-brow because of the honor you and others conferred in electing him.

But such is seldom the case. Men in public positions have a lot of work to do, even though it is not readily apparent.

There are many conferences to be attended, many consultations with other representatives relative to bills that will be of benefit to their districts.

Yes, they are busier than you think they are.

THE WREN

A wren is singing on a bough
A rapturous song of glee
As if he were alive just now
Is cause for melody.

Yet I have lived this long day through
Brave, happy hearted bird
And to the blithe and gay as you
To none has it occurred.

A score of humans have I met
Along the traveled way
But words of sorrow or regret
Were all they had to say.

Not one of them can I recall
In such a merry mood
Or for God's blessings, great or small
Displayed such gratitude.

I harked to gossip and to care
From men who strain and strive
But no one voiced a grateful prayer
That still he was alive.

I think sometimes we ought to be
As grateful as a wren
And sing our joys exultantly
But then, of course, we're men!

THE SILK PURSE
From Paul Foster comes a bit of interesting information on the origin of the expression, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," for which we are grateful. It may appeal to others. Mr. Foster says:

"The expression dates back to the 11th century days in England. The thrifty Normans, who crossed the channel with William, the Conqueror, carried their sows and other small coins in cheap purses called 'sousiers,' pronounced, approximately, 'soos ear,' which the English gradually distorted, and thus the innocent sow came into the picture. Whether or not the proverb was imported from France in 1066 and, if so, when it originated in France are still other questions.

The World At A Glance

Can Anyone Please All Groups?
A Small Manufacturer's Woes
A Farmer's Point Of View

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Can anyone please the component groups that make up the United States? From all sides complaints flow in to this column.

That may be a good indication. A year and a half ago to every one seemed too prophetic to explain. Yet, the monetary inflationary processes and certain restrictive actions are pinching very hard.

A small clothing manufacturer complains. He cannot borrow a cent. He has been in business 20 years. His reputation is good—but the NRA set certain standards. Specific cheaply made goods were to be removed from the market.

That—rightly or wrongly—eventually ended it with the small manufacturer, at least this one says so. Now, the NRA has relaxed. But it is too late. The manufacturer's capital has gone. And banks refuse to lend against the clouded prospects of the future.

ANOTHER VIEW
New York naturally objects to farm subsidies. It believes that the city dweller will be taxed.

But here is a letter from M. A. Toole, who has a general store near Austin, Texas.

He writes urging the United States to keep out of any more wars, then says, after ridiculing the so-called democracies in other parts of the world:

"Turn your gaze, then, to our own United States, and land we want to call 'the land of the free and the home of the brave.' We find that the farmer must consult the government as to what and how much he may plant; that the farmer must get permission from his government to sell his own crop; that the man who raises hogs must pay the government an enormous and outrageous tax if he sells a hog or any part thereof to buy his family bread."

"But if the farmer sells a hog or a hundred hogs to a meat packer, meat trust or monopoly, this packer, meat trust or monopoly may take the bellies of that hog or hogs, put 10 pounds of salt to each hog belly and sell the combination to a retail merchant for 12 cents a pound, and pay no tax at all on the hog."

"Is that democracy?"

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?
The government may respond to the clothing manufacturer and to the farmer by responding: "Democracy is that which endeavors to bring the most good to all equally, and which gives special privileges to none. We are trying to spread economic security to the greatest number."

But, asks the clothing manufacturer, the NRA regulations do give special privileges to the big manufacturers.

And, adds the farmer, the hog restriction program does give an advantage to the packer.

Perhaps the government responds then in this manner:

"If small clothing manufacturers were permitted to do as they please the clothing industry would be demoralized and working conditions would be horrible."

"And if farmers were permitted to raise hogs unrestricted they could not possibly get enough for them to buy any bread."

Yet there is a flaw in the arguments of both sides—and that flaw is fundamental, say observers on the sidelines.

The flaw, these observers say, is this: The government seeks to create a socialist state by capitalist control by nationalist means and without disturbing the profit motive, and that mixture produces merely fascism.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE
An interesting view of England and France is brought back from abroad by Howard Heinz, president of H. J. Heinz Co., of Pittsburgh.

Says Mr. Heinz: "England is comparatively prosperous. Steel, tool and machine building and other statistics show remarkable forward strides from the low levels of the depression, and in many industries are running full."

"The British believe monetary stabilization is fundamental to world recovery. Most of the people interviewed feel nothing can be done about the British debt to the United States for some time. The British, however, do not have repudiation in mind."

As to France, there is growing unemployment there. The people have great confidence in the franc and have hoarded 30 million francs. Technically France can probably remain on the gold standard no matter what happens to the rest of the gold bloc. But the high rate of exchange is so affecting her exports that some authorities feel she will regard it advisable to devalue the franc in relation to sterling and dollars, should there be stabilization in these two currencies."

World business is urging that stabilization.

Episcopal Priest Has Car Trouble
The only service in St. Andrew's Episcopal church Sunday will be the Sunday school session at 10 a. m. The regular services were scheduled as it was expected the priest in charge, Rev. S. M. Black, would return from a month's vacation today.

The Rev. Black, with his wife and baby, went by automobile to Denver, Colorado, in July to visit with Mrs. Black's parents. They were on their return trip to New Castle, when near Glenwood, Iowa, a connecting rod on their car burned out, thus delaying them.

DR. GRANT FISHER SPEAKS AT NOON
All services Sunday in the Enon Valley Presbyterian church will be in charge of the Rev. Grant E. Fisher, D. D., with preaching at 11 a. m.

The pastor, the Rev. Andrew J. Koonce, is on a vacation.

Beebe Feat Gives U. S. 'Low' Mark

American adventurers, venturing into the ocean and the stratosphere for new heights and depth records, have conquered 61,000 feet of space. And "bathysphere" (below) in which William Beebe went down 3,028 feet in ocean off Bermuda, is shaped like gondola in which Lt. Comdr. T. W. Settle set official stratosphere mark, as these photos show.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Sees Cousins For First Time In Forty Years

Mrs. E. J. Lowry, of East Madison avenue, was visited the other day by four cousins whom she had not seen for forty years. They were Miss Retta Jones, Miss Sadie Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Collins, all of Bridgeville.

It was a surprise and greatly enjoyed by Mrs. Lowry as well as the four visitors. All of the four are up in years, ages ranging from 76 to 78, but reported enjoying their trip very much.

America volunteers will be in the first contingents.

There is a little good news, a great deal of bad news from the war fronts. The Serbians defeat the Austrians at Yadar, and force the invaders to retreat toward their frontier. The victory does nothing to restore sinking Allied morale. No one better sees the war will be decided in Serbia. The big news, and the bad news, is that the Germans are occupying Louvain. We have the report of an eye-witness, Arno Dosch-Fleuret.

The hardest thing to describe about the entry of the Germans into Louvain is the hush that fell over the city. Except for the click of German heels, the rumble of German horses, and the rumble of German artillery you could have heard a sigh 20 feet away anywhere in Louvain. With the whole city at this nervous tension a German military airplane of the Tabue type swept low overhead, and every face in the city stared at the black imperial crosses on the underside of the great planes, symbols of the German invasion.

It is like the calm before a storm. For Louvain is to become an awful example.

Great Days—Aug. 19, 14 A. D.—Caligula, Emperor Augustus of Rome, who was born in September, died today, in the month he had named after himself because it was his lucky month! He was 77.

He was afraid of lightning, and lightning foretold his death! When a bolt struck a statue of him in Rome inscribed Augustus Caesar, the force of it cracked off the C and left the rest untouched. Soothsayers decided that within a hundred days he would die, for C was the symbol of 100, and Aesar signified a god, such as Romans made of their emperors after death.

He died within the 100 days, calling out to his wife, "Live mindful of our wedlock, Livia, and so farewell."

Aug. 19, 1692.—Five women, only five among many who met a similar fate, were hanged as witches, as the terror that had been exacting victims throughout Massachusetts Bay colony for 50 years, settled violently upon Salem.

Susannah Martin was hanged because: "On a rainy day she walked over a good bit of country without getting her skirts or hose muddy, and it was sagely concluded that such neatness could only have been attained through the aid of the devil."

Margaret Jones was executed because she disapproved of the bleeding to which doctors subjected patients for any and all ailments! Mary Dyer was put to death as a witch because she was a Quaker! These were typical of the victims of the fury fomented by Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, Harvard-educated "intelluctual" with his writings and preachings.

Notable Nativities—Orville Wright, b. 1871, co-inventor of the airplane. . . . Bernard M. Baruch, b. 1870, retired financier. . . . Sam D. Bratton, b. 1888, jurist & ex-senator. . . . Elsie Ferguson, b. 1883, actress. . . . Tom Connolly, b. 1877, senator from Texas. . . . Fred Stone, b. 1873, actor.

Pinchot Speaks At Convention

Governor Makes Address At State Convention Of Legion In Erie

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Frisning his listeners for their proposed support of a national law to draft "capital as well as men" in the next war, Gov. Gifford Pinchot came before delegates to the Pennsylvania American Legion convention here today as a friend of the veteran and a foe of the merchants of death.

Except to point out briefly his past support of the soldier's bonus, and to state his belief in preparedness "to wage, but also to prevent war," the Governor avoided any political commitments in his address before the thousands of assembled legionnaires.

"I don't have to tell you men that I have always stood for the main things the Legion stands for," Governor Pinchot began. "I don't have to tell you that in no other state have the veterans been treated better, in no other state has the bonus money ever been got to the veterans as fast as it has been gotten to them in Pennsylvania."

"The bonus was in my platform the first time I ran for governor," he declared.

"Now it is in your pockets." For the so-called "Merchants of Death"—the meat packers, munitions manufacturers, coal and steel barons who earned "bloodstained millions" out of the World War—the Governor had words of scorn and denunciation.

Referring to recent published exposures of affiliations between French and German armament firms which resulted in the last war being unnecessarily prolonged at the expense of thousands of lives, he told the delegates:

"We have the same breed in America."

Ambarvalia originally was a religious procession round the land of the early Roman community, whose purpose was to purge the crops from evil influences.

To discover the richest man in a hick town, just notice which one the kossips slander most.

Episcopal Priest Has Car Trouble
The only service in St. Andrew's Episcopal church Sunday will be the Sunday school session at 10 a. m. The regular services were scheduled as it was expected the priest in charge, Rev. S. M. Black, would return from a month's vacation today.

The Rev. Black, with his wife and baby, went by automobile to Denver, Colorado, in July to visit with Mrs. Black's parents. They were on the return trip to New Castle, when near Glenwood, Iowa, a connecting rod on their car burned out, thus delaying them.

DR. GRANT FISHER SPEAKS AT NOON
All services Sunday in the Enon Valley Presbyterian church will be in charge of the Rev. Grant E. Fisher, D. D., with preaching at 11 a. m. The pastor, the Rev. Andrew J. Koonce, is on a vacation.

Rev. A. M. Stump Speaker At Park

Two More Sunday Evening Church Services Will Be Held At Cascade Park

The series of Sunday evening community open air church services at Cascade Park are nearing the close, with two more services planned for this month.

Sunday evening at 6:45 the Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church, will be the speaker. The music will be in charge of Thomas P. Jones, while William J. Gregor will direct the congregational singing.

Former Pastor To Speak At Highland

The members of Highland United Presbyterian church will be pleased to greet a former pastor, Dr. C. J. Williamson, Sunday morning when he fills the pulpit at 11 o'clock, during the vacation of the pastor, Rev. D. L. Ferguson.

Dr. Williamson, now an instructor in the Theological Seminary of Pittsburgh, with his family, is spending the summer months at New Wilmington.

Tad Shields To Teach Men's Class

Sunday morning the men of the Third United Presbyterian church will have as the teacher for the Sabbath school lesson Tad Shields, who is well known in the community as a deep thinking Biblical student.

He will have as his subject, "The Portrait of a Fool" and the King's Sons class of the church will be guests of the Men's class.

Blind Minister Will Speak Here

The First Presbyterian congregation will have as its guest speaker Sunday morning the Rev. H. Loy Sumner of Ellwood City, a blind minister of the gospel.

In spite of the handicap of sightlessness over many years, the Rev. Sumner has completed his study of the ministry and graduated the past year from the Theological Seminary of Pittsburgh.

MARY LOUISE PAIGE BEGINS REVIVAL IN PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

Mary Louise Paige, noted Girl Evangelist of Urichville, O., will begin a special revival campaign on Sunday morning at the First Pentecostal church, corner Pearson and Epworth streets.

Miss Paige has been preaching since she was eight years old with marvelous success attending her ministry. She is an out-standing Evangelist at her age.

This marks the second revival meeting for Mary Louise Paige here and many of her friends are anxiously awaiting her coming.

She will sing and preach in the evening service at 10:45 and in the evening at 7:30.

American volunteers will be in the first contingents.

There is a little good news, a great deal of bad news from the war fronts. The Serbians defeat the Austrians at Yadar, and force the invaders to retreat toward their frontier. The victory does nothing to restore sinking Allied morale. No one believes the war will be decided in Serbia. The big news, and the bad news, is that the Germans are occupying Louvain. We have the report of an eye-witness, Arno Dosch-Fleuret:

"The hardest thing to describe about the entry of the Germans into Louvain is the hush that fell over the city. Except for the click of German heels, the clatter of German saddles, and the rumble of German horses, and the rumble of German artillery, you could have heard a sigh 20 feet away anywhere in Louvain. With the whole city at this nervous tension a German military airplane of the Tabue type swept low overhead, and every face in the city stared at the black imperial crosses on the underside of the great planes, symbols of the German invasion."

It is like the calm before a storm. For Louvain is to become an awful example.

Great Days—Aug. 19, 14 A. D.—Caius Octavius, Emperor Augustus of Rome, who was born in September, died today, in the month he had named after himself because it was his lucky month. He was 77.

He was afraid of lightning, and lightning foretold his death! When a bolt struck a statue of him in Rome inscribed Augustus Caesar, the force of it cracked off the O and left the rest untouched. Soothsayers decided that within a hundred days he would die, for C was the symbol of 100, and Caesar signified a god, such as Romans made of their emperors after death.

He died within the 100 days, calling out to his wife, "Live mindful of our wedlock, Livina, and so farewell."

Aug. 19, 1692.—Five women, only five among many who met a similar fate, were hanged as witches, as the terror that had been exacting victims throughout Massachusetts Bay colony for 50 years, settled violently upon Salem.

Susannah Martin was hanged because: "On a rainy day she walked over a good bit of country without getting her skirts or hose muddy, and it was sagely concluded that such neatness could only have been attained through the aid of the devil!" Margaret Jones was executed because she disapproved of the bleeding to which doctors subjected patients for any and all ailments! Mary Dyer was put to death as a witch because she was a Quaker! These were typical of the victims of the fury fomented by Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, Harvard-educated "intellectual" with his writings and preachings.

Notable Nativities—Orville Wright, b. 1871, co-inventor of the airplane. Bernard M. Baugh, b. 1870, retired financier. Sam D. Bratton, b. 1868, jurist & ex-senator. Elsie Ferguson, b. 1883, actress. Tom Connolly, b. 1877, senator from Texas. Fred Stone, b. 1873, actor.

Pinchot Speaks At Convention

Governor Makes Address At State Convention Of Legion In Erie

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Praising his listeners for their proposed support of a national law to draft "capital as well as men" in the next war, Gov. Gifford Pinchot came before delegates to the Pennsylvania American Legion convention here today as a friend of the veteran and a foe of the merchant of death.

Except to point out briefly his past support of the soldier's bonus, and to state his belief in preparedness "to wage, but also to prevent war," the Governor avoided any political commitments in his address before the thousands of assembled legionnaires.

"I don't have to tell you men that I have always stood for the main things the Legion stands for," Governor Pinchot began. "I don't have to tell you that in no other state have the veterans been treated better, in no other state has the bonus money ever been got to the veterans as fast as it has been gotten to them in Pennsylvania."

Rev. A. M. Stump Speaker At Park

Two More Sunday Evening Church Services Will Be Held At Cascade Park

The series of Sunday evening community open air church services at Cascade Park are nearing the close, with two more services planned for this month.

Sunday evening at 6:45 the Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church, will be the speaker. The music will be in charge of Thomas P. Jones, while William J. Gregor will direct the congregational singing.

Former Pastor To Speak At Highland

The members of Highland United Presbyterian church will be pleased to greet a former pastor, Dr. C. J. Williamson, Sunday morning when he fills the pulpit at 11 o'clock, during the vacation of the pastor, Rev. D. L. Ferguson.

Dr. Williamson, now an instructor in the Theological Seminary of Pittsburgh, with his family, is spending the summer months at New Wilmington.

Tad Shields To Teach Men's Class

Sunday morning the men of the Third United Presbyterian church will have as his guest speaker Sunday morning the Rev. H. Loy Sumner of Ellwood City, a blind minister of the gospel.

He will have as his subject, "The Portrait of a Fool" and the King's Sons class of the church will be guests of the Men's class.

Blind Minister Will Speak Here

The First Presbyterian congregation will have as its guest speaker Sunday morning the Rev. H. Loy Sumner of Ellwood City, a blind minister of the gospel.

In spite of the handicap of sightlessness over many years, the Rev. Sumner has completed his study of the ministry and graduated the past year from the Theological Seminary of Pittsburgh.

MARY LOUISE PAIGE BEGINS REVIVAL IN PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

Mary Louise Paige, noted Girl Evangelist of Uhrichville, O., will begin a special revival campaign on Sunday morning at the First Pentecostal church, corner Pearson and Epworth streets.

Miss Paige has been preaching since she was eight years old with marvelous success attending her ministry. She is an out-standing Evangelist at her age.

This marks the second revival meeting for Mary Louise Paige here and many of her friends are anxiously awaiting her coming.

She will sing and preach in the morning service at 10:45 and in the evening at 7:30.

American volunteers will be in the first contingents.

There is a little good news, a great deal of bad news from the war fronts. The Serbians defeat the Austrians at Yadar, and force the invaders to retreat toward their frontier. The victory does nothing to restore sinking Allied morale. No one believes the war will be decided in Serbia. The big news, and the bad news, is that the Germans are occupying Louvain. We have the report of an eye-witness, Arno Dosch-Fleuret.

"The hardest thing to describe about the entry of the Germans into Louvain is the hush that fell over the city. Except for the click of German heels, the clatter of German horses, and the rumble of German artillery you could have heard a sigh 20 feet away anywhere in Louvain. With the whole city at this nervous tension a German military airplane of the Tabue type swept low overhead, and every face in the city stared at the black imperial crosses on the underside of the great planes, symbols of the German invasion."

It is like the calm before a storm. For Louvain is to become an awful example.

Great Days—Aug. 19, 14 A. D.—Caligula, Emperor Augustus of Rome, who was born in September, died today, in the month he had named after himself because it was his lucky month! He was 77.

He was afraid of lightning, and lightning foretold his death! When a bolt struck a statue of him in Rome inscribed Augustus Caesar, the force of it cracked off the C and left the rest untouched. Soothsayers decided that within a hundred days he would die, for C was the symbol of 100, and Aesar signified a god, such as Romans made of their emperors after death.

He died within the 100 days, calling out to his wife, "Live mindful of our wedlock, Livia, and so farewell."

Aug. 19, 1692.—Five women, only five among many who met a similar fate, were hanged as witches, as the terror that had been exacting victims throughout Massachusetts Bay colony for 50 years, settled violently upon Salem.

Susan Martin was hanged because "On a rainy day she walked over a good bit of country without getting her skirts or hose muddy, and it was sagely concluded that such neatness could only have been attained through the aid of the devil!" Margaret Jones was executed because she disapproved of the bleeding to which doctors subjected patients for any and all ailments! Mary Dyer was put to death as a witch because she was a Quaker! These were typical of the victims of the fury fomented by Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, Harvard-educated "intellectual" with his writings and preachings.

Notable Nativities—Orville Wright, b. 1871, co-inventor of the airplane. . . . Bernard M. Baruch, b. 1870, retired financier. . . . Sam D. Bratton, b. 1888, jurist & ex-senator. . . . Elsie Ferguson, b. 1883, actress. . . . Tom Connolly, b. 1877, senator from Texas. . . . Fred Stone, b. 1873, actor.

Pinchot Speaks At Convention

Governor Makes Address At State Convention Of Legion In Erie

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Praising his listeners for their proposed support of a national law to draft "capital as well as men" in the next war, Gov. Gifford Pinchot came before delegates to the Pennsylvania American Legion convention here today as a friend of the veteran and a foe of the merchants of death.

Except to point out briefly his past support of the soldier's bonus, and to state his belief in preparedness "to wage, but also to prevent war," the Governor avoided any political commitments in his address before the thousands of assembled legionnaires.

"I don't have to tell you men that I have always stood for the main things the Legion stands for," Governor Pinchot began. "I don't have to tell you that in no other state have the veterans been treated better, in no other state has the bonus money ever been got to the veterans as fast as it has been gotten to them in Pennsylvania."

"The bonus was in my platform the first time I ran for governor," he declared.

"Now it is in your pockets." "For the so-called 'Merchants of Death'—the meat packers, munitions manufacturers, coal and steel barons who earned 'bloodstained millions' out of the World War—the Governor had words of scorn and denunciation."

Referring to recent published exposes of affiliations between French and German armament firms which resulted in the last war being unnecessarily prolonged at the expense of thousands of lives, he told the delegates:

"We have the same breed in America."

NEGOTIATIONS AT STANDSTILL

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Supplementary hearings on union labor disputes in Detroit have arisen to delay the return to Pittsburgh of the National Steel relations board for airing local complaints, it was learned today.

It has now become apparent the mediation board will be hardly able to arrive here until after next week. Chairman Walter P. Stacy and his two board colleagues are due in Portsmouth, O., the first of next week to consider a protest of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers against the Wheeling Steel Corporation for the alleged refusal to bargain collectively with its employees after which they plan to back-track to Detroit.

Negotiations Wait
Meanwhile, renewal of negotiations for an agreement between the Standard Tin Plate Company, of Canonsburg and the Amalgamated will probably be forced to wait on the return of Michael F. Tighe, president of the steel union and E. W. Miller, vice president of the same organization, both of whom are representing the International Executive board in the two aforementioned hearings.

The steel relations board had been directing proceedings between Standard officials and union attaches in informal conferences. The company has a union contract with hot mill department workers and the union seeks to bring the rest of the plant workmen under that designation. The board announced the case was held in abeyance "upon the request of both parties for further conferences and efforts to reach an amicable adjustment."

A further move was also awaited by the West Virginia rail company of Huntington, whose counsel, J. H. Meek threatened court test of the steel board's right to call and supervise employee elections after being refused a list of the union membership for inspection.

Widow Of Late New Castle Resident Plans To Produce Moving Picture

A book written by Henry Belmar, a veteran stage actor and moving picture director who resided at the Henry Hotel in New Castle for a number of years before his death last year, is to be made into a moving picture. It presents plans of his widow, Laura Love, actress materialize.

Miss Love, now of New York City, and her cameraman, Edward Edwards, also of New York City, are at the Henry hotel this week-end. They are touring in the interest of the picture's production and state that they are on the look-out for a woman to play the part of "Nancy Hanks" and a nine year old boy suitable for the part of "Abraham Lincoln" in his childhood days.

Location will mainly be in Kentucky and Virginia, they say, and the production will be started in October. It will be called "The Restoration of Nancy Hanks," an historical picture.

Late John Barry Is Buried Today

Investigation Into Death Of Former Police Inspector Is Continued

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—They laid "Honest John" Barry, the former police inspector, to rest in Cavalry cemetery today while detectives and deputy coroners continued their investigation of his death by a gunshot wound.

Thirty-six uniformed policemen escorted Barry's body from his home to St. Paul's cathedral, where requiem high mass was sung. At the grave the former police officer who was found shot to death in his garage, was accorded a military burial. Former marines paid the final tribute to Barry, who was physical director of the marine corps at Park island during the World war.

Spanish War Vets Gather

Pittsburgh Will Be Host To Army Of Delegates To Convention

SESSIONS WILL START MONDAY

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Flag-bedecked, this city opened its arms to the United Spanish war veterans today.

To the vanguard of the delegates arriving today, the message was: "The city is yours." Although the convention does not open officially until tomorrow, 2,500 or more visitors were expected to be registered by tonight. They include men who fought in Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Philippines and in the Boxer Rebellion. To Pittsburgh, the convention meets the largest national convention in 40 years.

Opens On Sunday
Opening tomorrow, the convention will surge through its business sessions to come to an end Thursday.

Parade units added to the spectacular display of parades during the pre-opening hours of the convention. Every few minutes, a drum corp, a bugle corp, a band, or perhaps only a newly-arrived squadron of delegates marched through the streets.

Commander-in-chief William H. Armstrong, Racine, Wis., will arrive tomorrow morning. He will be escorted to convention headquarters by a life and drum corps and an armed detachment of police.

Joint memorial services tomorrow night between the veterans and their auxiliary will be the high-spot of the convention tomorrow.

captors. He is "very much fatigued," the doctor said, and must have rest. He is quite rational, however, and is not expected to suffer permanent ill effects.

One arrest already has been made in connection with the case. The Toronto police seized Edward Chard, 25, and charged him with attempting to obtain $50,000 by extortion from Hugh Labatt when the latter was waiting in a Toronto hotel endeavoring to contact the kidnapers of his brother.

Chard is accused of being responsible for the three telephone calls put through to Hugh Labatt's suite in the Royal York hotel, Toronto, in an attempt to raise "easy money." Labatt was asked to go to a rendezvous at Humber bridge on the outskirts of Toronto. The police say they saw Chard in the vicinity of the bridge at the appointed time.

Authorities To Meet Challenge
The Labatt abduction is one of the most sensational incidents in the history of the dominion, it being the first case of kidnapping, and the authorities are determined to meet the challenge of the underworld.

The maximum penalty for kidnapping in Canada is twenty-five years in the penitentiary. Unlike the United States, the dominion has been free of abductions because of the speedy manner in which criminals are brought to justice. In the Labatt case, the authorities are particularly anxious to make a good showing.

Labatt said he was blindfolded from the time he was kidnapped until he was released. Adhesive tape was put across his eyes and his hands were placed over the tape. When he was let out of the kidnapers car in the outskirts of Toronto late Thursday night he was told not to remove either the glasses or the tape until the automobile was well away from the scene.

In Labatt's opinion he was in Ontario throughout the time he was held captive. Both Labatt and the authorities are cagey concerning whether or not ransom was paid. In an official statement, Attorney General A. Roebuck, K. C., said he "had no knowledge as to what financial arrangements, if any, were made." After he had been put out of the kidnapers' car, Labatt hailed a taxicab and was driven to the Royal York hotel in Toronto, early yesterday morning. Entering the hotel he asked a clerk "where is my brother, Hugh? I am John Labatt."

Hugh came to meet John and later both were taken to a room on the 17th floor and arrangements made to take the kidnap victim back home to London.

Police In Ignorance.
The police, meanwhile, knew nothing of what was going on although they had been quartered at the hotel for more than two days. Labatt was driven back to London yesterday forenoon and at the home of Hugh he greeted his wife and three children and went into seclusion. Mrs. Labatt was said to be bearing up well under the ordeal she has been through.

Whether Labatt had been quartered in any rendezvous or house while he was held in captivity was not disclosed by anyone in a position to know. It may be that Labatt himself does not know. He did say, however, that during the first 12 hours of his captivity he was "driven around" and that the kidnapers seemed to be "killing time."

Labatt told the authorities there were three or four men in the car when he was released, in addition to himself. There were two men in the car when he was kidnapped.

Police officials today maintained a tight-lipped secrecy concerning their movements and the prospect of early arrests. They refused point blank to talk to reporters. All Attorney General Roebuck had to say in connection with the police activity was:

"I am confident that in due season there will be a solution to this crime."

Believed Canadians Sought
DETROIT, Aug. 18.—The kidnapers of John S. Labatt, millionaire Canadian brewer, were Canadians, Fred W. Frahm, chief of the Detroit Detective Bureau declared here today.

"After an intense investigation," Frahm said, "it is my belief all the kidnapers were Canadians and had no American contacts."

The detective chief was heard telling a subordinate that the "finger man"—the man who selected Labatt as the gang's victim—is a resident of Windsor.

Frahm and other police officials refused to explain why they suspect a Windsor man as the "finger man" and declined to answer when asked if the man had been identified.

Inventor Of Quartz Lens For Deep-Sea Use Dies In Scranton, Pa.

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 18.—The body of Dr. Edward R. Berry, inventor of quartz lens for deep-sea use and a leading scientist who died at Mercy hospital here yesterday, was sent to his home in Malden, Mass. today.

He had been in ill health for some time and underwent an operation three weeks ago.

Dr. Berry introduced fuse quartz lens used recently by Dr. William Beebe in exploring 2,000 feet under water. For years he had been associated with the General Electric company at Schenectady and filled an honorary position on the faculty of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. He was a native of Maine.

Democrats Map New Itinerary For Campaign

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Nine counties are listed on the itinerary of the speedy manner in which criminals are brought to justice. In the Labatt case, the authorities are particularly anxious to make a good showing.

After a Monday rest, the candidates will be in Danville and Lewisburg, on Tuesday; Bellefonte and Clearfield on Wednesday; Bradford and Conowingo on Thursday; Williamsport on Friday; and Allentown on Saturday.

In connection with releasing the itinerary, state chairman David L. Lawrence said "Interest of the people of Pennsylvania in the election of the Democratic ticket this fall is little short of amazing."

Sunflower Grows Over 11 Feet High

Giant Plant On Ellwood Road Brought Here For Display Today

Sunflowers don't often sprout 11 feet and three inches into the air but when they do they're worth exhibiting. Downtown passersby saw one that large on display at the New Castle Feed & Coal company's East Washington street office today.

Grown on the farm of Mrs. Rev. S. A. Stamm, of R. F. D. 7, the sunflower is one of the tallest ever to be shown to the public here for a long time.

While the flower itself is not so large the plant's stalk measures all of six inches in diameter. It leaves resemble elephant ears.

The huge plant grew nearby the Stamm home just off the Ellwood City road beyond the county home.

NEGOTIATIONS AT STANDSTILL

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Supplementary hearings on union labor disputes in Detroit have arisen to delay the return to Pittsburgh of the National Steel relations board for airing local complaints, it was learned today.

It has now become apparent the mediation board will be hardly able to arrive here until after next week. Chairman Walter P. Stacy and his two board colleagues are due in Portsmouth, O., the first of next week to consider a protest of the Amalgamated Association of iron, steel and tin workers against the Wheeling Steel Corporation for the latter's alleged refusal to bargain collectively with its employees after which they plan to back-track to Detroit.

Negotiations Wait Meanwhile, renewal of negotiations for an agreement between the Standard Tin Plate Company, of Canonsburg and the Amalgamated will probably be forced to wait on the return of Michael P. Tighe, president of the steel union and E. W. Miller, vice president of the same organization, both of whom are representing the International Executive board in the two aforementioned hearings.

The steel relations board had been directing proceedings between Standard officials and union attaches in informal conferences. The company has a union contract with hot mill department workers and the union seeks to bring the rest of the plant workmen under that designation. The board announced the case was held in abeyance "upon the request of both parties for further conferences and efforts to reach an amicable adjustment."

A further move was also awaited by the West Virginia rail company of Huntington, whose counsel, J. H. Meek threatened court test of the steel board's right to call and supervise employee elections after being refused a list of the union membership for inspection.

Sunflower Grows Over 11 Feet High

Giant Plant On Ellwood Road Brought Here For Display Today

Sunflowers don't often sprout 11 feet and three inches into the air but when they do they're worth exhibiting. Downtown passersby saw one that large on display at the New Castle Feed & Coal company's East Washington street office today.

Grown on the farm of Mrs. Rev. S. A. Stamm, of R. F. D. 7, the sunflower is one of the tallest ever to be shown to the public here for a long time.

While the flower itself is not so large the plant's stalk measures all of six inches in diameter. It leaves resemble elephant ears.

Steel Action Is Delayed By National Board

NEGOTIATIONS AT STANDSTILL

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Supplementary hearings on union labor disputes in Detroit have arisen to delay the return to Pittsburgh of the National Steel relations board for airing local complaints, it was learned today.

It has now become apparent the mediation board will be hardly able to arrive here until after next week. Chairman Walter P. Stacy and his two board colleagues are due in Portsmouth, O., the first of next week to consider a protest of the Amalgamated Association of iron, steel and tin workers against the Wheeling Steel Corporation for the alleged refusal to bargain collectively with its employees after which they plan to back-track to Detroit.

Negotiations Wait
Meanwhile, renewal of negotiations for an agreement between the Standard Tin Plate Company, of Canonsburg and the Amalgamated will probably be forced to wait on the return of the steel union and E. W. Miller, vice president of the same organization, both of whom are representing the International Executive board in the two aforementioned hearings.

The steel relations board had been directing proceedings between Standard officials and union attaches in informal conferences. The company has a union contract with hot mill department workers and the union seeks to bring the rest of the plant workers under that designation. The board announced the case was held in abeyance "upon the request of both parties for further conferences and efforts to reach an amicable adjustment."

A further move was also awaited by the West Virginia rail company of Huntington, whose counsel, J. H. Meek threatened court test of the steel board's right to call and supervise employee elections after being refused a list of the union membership for inspection.

Widow Of Late New Castle Resident Plans To Produce Moving Picture

A book written by Henry Belmar, a veteran stage actor and moving picture director who resided at the Henry Hotel in New Castle for a number of years before his death about four years ago, will be made into a moving picture if present plans of his widow, Laura Love, actress materialize.

Miss Love, now of New York City, and her cameraman, Edward Edwards, also of New York City, are at the Henry hotel this week-end. They are touring in the interest of the picture's production and state that they are on the look-out for a woman to play the part of "Nancy Hanks" and a nine year old boy suitable for the part of "Abraham Lincoln" in his childhood days.

Location will mainly be in Kentucky and Virginia, they say, and the production will be started in October. It will be called "The Resurrection of Nancy Hanks," an historical picture.

Investigation Into Death Of Former Police Inspector Is Continued

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—They laid "Honest John" Barry, the former police inspector, to rest in Calvary cemetery today while detectives and deputy coroners continued their investigation of his death by a gunshot wound.

Thirty-six uniformed policemen escorted Barry's body from his home to St. Paul's cathedral, where a requiem high mass was sung.

At the grave the former police officer who was found shot to death in his garage, was accorded a military burial. Former marines paid the final tribute to Barry, who was physical director of the marine corps at Paris island during the World war.

Spanish War Vets Gather

Pittsburgh Will Be Host To Army Of Delegates To Convention

SESSIONS WILL START MONDAY

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Flag-bedecked, this city opened its arms to the United Spanish war veterans today.

To the vanguard of the delegates arriving today, the message was: "The city is yours." Although the convention does not open officially until tomorrow, 2,500 or more visitors were expected to be registered by nightfall. They include men who fought in Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Philippines and in the Boxer Rebellion. To Pittsburgh, the convention means the largest national convention in 40 years.

Opening tomorrow, the convention will surge through its business sessions to come to an end Thursday.

Parade units added to the spectacular display of parades during the pre-opening hours of the convention. Every few minutes, a drum corp, a bugle corp, a band, or perhaps only a newly-arrived squadron of delegates marched through the streets.

Commander-in-chief William H. Armstrong, Racine, Wis., will arrive tomorrow morning. He will be escorted to convention headquarters by a fire and drum corps and an armed drill unit.

Joint memorial services tomorrow night between the veterans and their auxiliary will be the high-spot of the convention tomorrow.

captors. He is "very much fatigued," the doctor said, and must have a full rest. He is quite rational, however, and is not expected to suffer permanent ill effects.

One arrest already has been made in connection with the case. The Toronto police seized Edward Chard, 25, and charged him with attempting to obtain $50,000 by extortion from Hugh Labatt when the latter was waiting in a Toronto hotel endeavoring to contact the kidnapers of his brother.

Chard is accused of being responsible for the three telephone calls put through to Hugh Labatt's suite in the Royal York hotel, Toronto, in an attempt to raise "easy money." Labatt was asked to go to a rendezvous at Hunter bridge on the outskirts of Toronto. The police say they saw Chard in the vicinity of the bridge at the appointed time.

Authorities To Meet Challenge
The Labatt abduction is one of the most sensational incidents in the history of the Dominion, it being Canada's first ransom kidnapping, and the authorities are determined to meet the challenge of the underworld.

The maximum penalty for kidnapping in Canada is twenty-five years in the penitentiary. Unlike the United States, the Dominion has been free of abductions because of the speedy manner in which criminals are brought to justice. In the Labatt case, the authorities are particularly anxious to make a good showing.

Labatt said he was blindfolded from the time he was kidnapped until he was released. Adhesive tape was put across his eyes and glasses placed over the tape.

When he was let out of the kidnapers' car in the outskirts of Toronto late Thursday night he was told not to remove either the glasses or the tape until the automobile was well away from the scene.

In Labatt's opinion he was in Ontario throughout the time he was held captive.

Both Labatt and the authorities are cagey concerning whether or not any ransom was paid. In an official statement, Attorney General A. Roebuck, K. C., said he "had no knowledge as to what financial arrangements, if any, were made."

After he had been put out of the kidnapers' car, Labatt hailed a taxicab and was driven to the Royal York hotel in Toronto, early yesterday morning. Entering the hotel he asked a clerk "where is my brother, Hugh? I am John Labatt."

Hugh came to meet John and later both were taken to a room on the 17th floor and arrangements made to take the kidnap victim back home to London.

Police In Ignorance.
The police, meanwhile, knew nothing of what was going on although they had been quartered at the hotel for more than two days.

Labatt was driven back to London yesterday forenoon and at the home of Hugh he greeted his wife and three children and went into seclusion. Mrs. Labatt was said to be bearing up well under the ordeal she has been through.

Whether Labatt had been quartered in any rendezvous or house while he was held in captivity was not disclosed by anyone in a position to know. It may be that Labatt himself does not know. He did say, however, that during the first 12 hours of his captivity he was "driven around" and that the kidnapers seemed to be "killing time."

Labatt told the authorities there were three or four men in the car when he was released, in addition to himself. There were two men in the car when he was kidnapped.

Police officials today maintained a tight-lipped secrecy concerning their movements and the prospect of early arrests. They refused point blank to talk to reporters. All Attorney General Roebuck had to say in connection with the police activity was:

"I am confident that in due season there will be a solution to this crime."

Believed Canadians Sought
DETROIT, Aug. 18.—The kidnapers of John S. Labatt, millionaire Canadian brewer, were Canadians, Fred W. Frahm, chief of the Detroit Detective Bureau declared here today.

"After an intense investigation," Frahm said, "it is my belief all the kidnapers were Canadians and had no American contacts."

The detective chief was heard telling a subordinate that the "finger-men"—the man who selected Labatt as the gang's victim—is a resident of Windsor.

Frahm and other police officials refused to explain why they suspect a Windsor man as the "finger-man" and declined to answer when asked if the man had been identified.

Dr. Edward Berry Taken By Death

Inventor Of Quartz Lens For Deep-Sea Use Dies In Scranton, Pa.

(International News Service) SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 18.—The death of Dr. Edward R. Berry, inventor of quartz lens for deep-sea use, and a leading scientist who died at Mercy hospital here yesterday, was sent to his home in Malden, Mass., today.

He had been in ill health for some time and underwent an operation three weeks ago.

Dr. Berry introduced fuse quartz lens used recently by Dr. William Beebe in exploring 2,000 feet under water. For years he had been associated with the General Electric company at Schenectady and filled an honorary position on the faculty of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. He was a native of Maine.

Democrats Map New Itinerary For Campaign

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Nine counties are listed on the itinerary of the Democratic campaign caravan for next week. The minority state headquarters here announced today.

After a Monday rest, the candidates will be in Danville and Lewisburg, on Tuesday; Bellefonte and Clearfield on Wednesday; Bradford and Coudersport on Thursday; Wellsboro and Williamsport on Friday; and Allentown on Saturday.

In connection with releasing the itinerary, state chairman David L. Lawrence said: "Interest of the people of Pennsylvania in the election of the Democratic ticket, this fall is little short of amazing."

Soviet-Japanese Relations Near Breaking Point

NEGOTIATIONS ARE REFUSED

(International News Service) HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 18.—Rupture of diplomatic relations between the Japanese-controlled state of Manchukuo and Soviet Russia as a result of the conflict over the sale of Russian interests in the Chinese eastern railway was hinted at in a declaration made by the Manchukuoan foreign office today.

The foreign office announced that it would refuse to negotiate with the Soviet consulate here any questions in dispute between the two countries, including the arrest of about 40 Russian railway employees who are accused of espionage and sabotage in connection with the railway negotiations until the Soviet government first adjusted to Manchukuo's satisfaction.

Four attacks by Russian border guards upon Manchukuoan steamers in the Amur river.

Reconnaissance flights by Soviet military airplanes over the fortified zone of Suifu.

As the Soviet government has previously denied that any such incidents occurred Russo-Manchukuoan relations are seriously imperiled. No diplomatic channel apparently is available to discuss future border incidents or railway controversies and cessation of diplomatic relations may actually be in effect today.

Out Of Picture

The Japanese government has stepped out of the picture, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota having announced that Japan will no longer act as intermediary between the Soviet and Manchukuoan governments after Russia's recent refusal to accept Hirota's order for the purchase of the Russian interest in the Chinese eastern railway.

Both Manchukuoan and Japanese officials here ridiculed Russian press reports that the Japanese military might seize complete control of the C. E. R. without compensation to Russia, but the situation is regarded as extremely serious by neutral observers in Harbin.

Four Hundred Are Arrested

Arrest Many In Connection With Communist Demonstrations In Germany

(International News Service) HAMBURG, Aug. 18.—Four hundred persons were reported today to have been arrested yesterday in connection with communist demonstrations accompanying Reich leader Hitler's speech in which he appealed for votes of the German people in tomorrow's plebiscite.

Outdoor Feast Closes Tonight

Celebration Being Held By St. Vitus Church, On Maitland Street, To End

Rev. Fr. Albert Farina, announced this morning that the annual outdoor celebration which started last Monday evening on Maitland street, will come to a close tonight.

Despite weather conditions during the past week, the affair is proving a fine success. Rev. Farina together with Charles DeCarbo, who is the general chairman in charge, have arranged a most interesting program for tonight. The affair will commence at 8:00 o'clock.

The different committees in charge: Rev. Fr. Albert Farina, Charles DeCarbo, Genevieve Thomas, Carolyn Micco, Marie and Catherine Augustine, Vitus Conti, Peter Mele, Fred DeCarbo, Francis Augustine, A. Pava, Antonetta Isabella, Anthony Mastern, Carl Chialla, Jennie DeCarbo, Edith DeCarbo and Jennie Lattora.

Over Thousand Prisoners Freed In German Jails

Amnesty Decree By Hitler Releases Total Of 1,079

Political Prisoners

(International News Service) BERLIN, Aug. 18.—All but 45 of the 1,124 persons arrested throughout Prussia in connection with the recent revolt of Capt. Ernst Roehm have been released as a result of the Hitler amnesty decree, it was announced officially today.

The amnesty, proclaimed in honor of Reich leader Hitler's ascension to the presidency, was found, upon investigation by Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, to be applicable in 1,079 cases, as the prisoners immediately were released, the announcement said.

The 45 still under arrest, however, face "serious charges," the official order stated. Further investigation of their cases is under way, and "further release are foreseen," it was said.

"The investigation of June 30 is closed," the order stated, apparently indicating there would be no more arrests in the Roehm revolt, which was followed by Hitler's "purge" of the Nazi party and many summary executions.

Blue Eagle To Bare Its Talons

Prepare To Strike At Bootleg Coal Merchants In Philadelphia Area

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—With talons bared, the N. R. A. blue eagle today prepared to strike at bootleg coal merchants.

Ura C. Cochran, divisional director of the retail coal code authority in Philadelphia, is perfecting plans for possible NRA prosecution of bootleg coal merchants on short-weight charges.

Under the retail code, vendors of inferior quality or short weight may be prosecuted by the government. Cochran entered a fight against "the racket" after inspectors of the Philadelphia bureau of weights and measures charged that practically all shipments of bootleg coal reaching here underweight or of an inferior quality.

Liquor Sales Show Increase

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Continuing a recent upward trend receipts of state liquor stores for the week ending August 11 were about $30,000 more than for the previous week, the Liquor Control board announced today.

The board reported for that week sales of $834,169 as compared with $804,178 in the preceding week. Sales since the stores opened have passed $21,000,000.

League Of Third Class Cities Ends Annual Sessions

Voice Opposition To Special Session Plans Before Departing For Homes

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—New opposition to a special session to finance relief was left behind today as delegates to the annual convention of the league of third class cities returned home to launch a drive to obtain legislation next year putting into effect a program adopted during their sessions.

Taking the stand that the federal government ought to finance Pennsylvania's relief load, at least until the regularly assembly can act next year, the delegates adopted a resolution opposing a special session at the closing session of their convention.

Platform Offered

At last night's closing banquet, Daniel N. Casey, secretary of the Harrisburg chamber of commerce, warned that with new consciousness of taxpayers over the expenditures of the tax dollar it was becoming incumbent that city government "be geared rigidly to their revenues."

Among the planks in the league's platform for submission to the 1935 legislature were permanent registration for voters; elimination of state taxes on municipal bonds; changes in the motor code to abolish all-night parking in cities; authority to condemn unsafe buildings at the owners' expense and authority to acquire and operate municipal gas and light plants.

LWD Work In State Ceases

Effective Today All LWD Work Stops; Resumption Date Is August 27

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—The shut-down of LWD work in Pennsylvania becomes effective today and the work-relief program will be at a standstill until August 27, when white collar workers will return to their jobs. The general program will be resumed on a new basis September 15.

Nearly 3000 workers will be affected in Philadelphia alone, according to William H. McConnell, local LWD director.

The new winter program calls for the computing of hours of employment and wages according to budgetary needs of workers. The program is expected to carry on for at least six months without interruption.

Fugitive Held For Questioning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Rocky Carey, 33, alias Bob Wilson, was being held today as a fugitive from justice in connection with the theft of a $10,000 truckload of silk in Old Forge, Pa., detectives also arrested Lawrence Favola, 31, said to be a member of Carey's gang.

The gang had pilfered more than a million dollars worth of merchandise from trucks passing over the Pocono mountains, according to police.

Pennsylvania police also are anxious to question Carey about the gangland execution of three men whose bullet-riddled bodies were found in an abandoned coal mine.

Claims Vaccine For Infantile Paralysis

By PAUL L. McCONOMY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—A serum for the prevention of one of mankind's most dangerous ailments, pneumonia, is the new objective of Dr. John A. Kolmer, noted immunologist, who has just discovered what he declares to be the world's first successful vaccine against infantile paralysis.

The energetic scientist, who heads the medical staff of Temple University here, made this disclosure today after describing the unusual experiments which resulted in devising the anti-paralysis vaccine.

Studies New Serum

"At present," said Dr. Kolmer, "I am attempting to prepare a serum for the prevention of pneumonia."

"I hope to be successful with it in the course of time."

The famed immunologist declined to disclose details of his new experiments. He, instead, preferred to discuss the research work he has already done on the successful anti-paralysis serum which he injected into his own veins and those of a laboratory assistant.

Both Dr. Kolmer and his assistant, attractive Anna M. Rule, risked their lives in order to demonstrate the success of the new vaccine. The vaccine contains the virus of the deadly poliomyelitis, which is the medical term for infantile paralysis.

"I am convinced that the vaccine is entirely successful," said Dr. Kolmer.

"Neither of us suffered any ill effects from the injections."

"Miss Rule volunteered to submit to the injections of the serum and displayed the highest courage in the face of possible death."

"Of course when we took the first injections we were a bit nervous about the results, but as the weeks passed the immunizing worth of the serum became apparent and not even a slight symptom of poliomyelitis manifested itself."

Soviet-Japanese Relations Near Breaking Point

(International News Service)
HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 18.—Rupture of diplomatic relations between the Japanese-controlled state of Manchukuo and Soviet Russia as a result of the conflict over the sale of Russian interests in the Chinese eastern railway was hinted at in a declaration made by the Manchukuoan foreign office today.

No Negotiations
The foreign office announced that it would refuse to negotiate with the Soviet consulate here any questions in dispute between the two countries, including the arrest of about 40 Russian railway employees who are accused of espionage and sabotage in connection with the railway negotiations until the Soviet government first adjusted to Manchukuo's satisfaction.

Four attacks by Russian border guards upon Manchukuoan steamers in the Amur river. Reconnaissance flights by Soviet military airplanes over the fortified zone of Sulphur.

As the Soviet government has previously denied that any such incidents occurred Russo-Manchukuoan relations are seriously imperiled. No diplomatic channel apparently is available to discuss future border incidents or railway controversies and cessation of diplomatic relations may actually be in effect today.

Out Of Picture

The Japanese government has stepped out of the picture, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota having announced that Japan will no longer act as intermediary between the Soviet and Manchukuoan governments after Russia's recent refusal to accept Hirota's order for the purchase of the Russian interest in the Chinese eastern railway.

Both Manchukuoan and Japanese officials here ridiculed Russian press reports that the Japanese military might seize complete control of the C. E. R. under compensation to Russia but the situation is regarded as extremely serious by neutral observers in Harbin.

Over Thousand Prisoners Freed In German Jails

Amnesty Decree By Hitler Releases Total Of 1,079 Political Prisoners

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Aug. 18.—All but 45 of the 1,124 persons arrested throughout Prussia in connection with the recent revolt attempt of Capt. Ernst Roehm have been released as a result of the Hitler amnesty decree, it was announced officially today.

The amnesty, proclaimed in honor of Reichsleiter Hitler's ascension to the presidency, was found, upon investigation by Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, to be applicable in 1,079 cases, as the prisoners immediately were released, the announcement said.

The 45 still under arrest, however, face "serious charges," the official order stated. Further investigation of their cases is under way, and "further release are foreseen," it was said.

The investigation of June 30 is closed," the order stated, apparently indicating there would be no more arrests in the Roehm revolt, which was followed by Hitler's "purge" of the Nazi party and many summary executions.

Blue Eagle To Bare Its Talons

Prepare To Strike At Bootleg Coal Merchants In Philadelphia Area

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—With talons bared, the N. R. A. blue eagle today prepared to strike at bootleg coal merchants.

Ura C. Cochran, divisional director of the retail coal code authority in Philadelphia, is perfecting plans for possible NRA prosecution of bootleg coal merchants on short-weight charges.

Ponder the retail code, vendors of inferior quality or short weight may be prosecuted by the government. Cochran entered the fight against "the racket" after inspectors of the Philadelphia bureau of weights and measures charged that practically all shipments of bootleg coal reaching here underweight or of an inferior quality.

Liquor Sales Show Increase

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Continuing a recent upward trend receipts of state liquor stores for the week ending August 11 were about $30,000 more than for the previous week, the Liquor Control board announced today.

The board reported for that week sales of $634,168 as compared with $604,178 in the preceding week. Sales since the stores opened have passed $21,000,000.

My dear Mr. Rentz:
Through you whose name I see (as formerly) in the executive committee, I wish to thank the "Old Timers' Association for thinking of me and so kindly sending me the announcement of the 28th annual reunion.

It makes me feel very old and a little homesick too when I remember that 28 years ago today, I, a school girl, led the first grand march with my uncle, Wells Clendenin, who was so devoted to the "Old Timers". He had, I remember, an old frame containing a most interesting collection of photographs of the early residents, which was among his most treasured possessions.

LWD Work In State Ceases

Effective Today All LWD Work Stops; Resumption Date Is August 27

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—The shut-down of LWD work in Pennsylvania becomes effective today and the work-relief program will be at a standstill until August 27, when white collar workers will return to their jobs. The general program will be resumed on a new basis September 15.

Nearly 3000 workers will be affected in Philadelphia alone, according to William H. McConnell, local LWD director.

The new winter program calls for the computing of hours of employment and wages according to budgetary needs of workers. The program is expected to carry on for at least six months without interruption.

Claims Vaccine For Infantile Paralysis

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—A serum for the prevention of one of mankind's most dangerous ailments, pneumonia—is the new objective of Dr. John A. Kolmer, noted immunologist, who has just discovered what he declares to be the world's first successful vaccine against infantile paralysis.

The energetic scientist, who heads the medical staff of Temple University here, made this disclosure today after describing the unusual experiments which resulted in devising the anti-paralysis vaccine.

Studies New Serum
"At present" said Dr. Kolmer, I am attempting to prepare a serum for the prevention of pneumonia.

"I hope to be successful with it in the course of time."

The famed immunologist declined to disclose details of his new experiments. He, instead, preferred to discuss the research work he has already done on the successful anti-paralysis serum which he injected into his own veins and those of a laboratory assistant.

Both Dr. Kolmer and his assistant, attractive Anna M. Rule, risked their lives in order to demonstrate the success of the new vaccine. The vaccine contains the virus of the deadly poliomyelitis, which is the medical term for infantile paralysis.

"I am convinced that the vaccine is entirely successful," said Dr. Kolmer.

"Neither of us suffered any ill effects from the injections."

"Miss Rule volunteered to submit to the injections of the serum and displayed the highest courage in the face of possible death."

"Of course when we took the first injections we were a bit nervous about the results, but as the weeks passed the immunizing worth of the serum became apparent and not even a slight symptom of poliomyelitis manifested itself."

Andrew Farra, Kurtz street, was discharged by Mayor Mayne in police court today when a sister-in-law, Mrs. William Nara of 112½ West Washington street refused to prosecute him after he was identified as having pawned a watch he is alleged to have stolen from her home. City detectives when notified, found the watch, had been pawned and the pawnbroker identified Farra as the man who had pawned it.

JOHN REESE IS REPORTED BETTER

NEGOTIATIONS ARE REFUSED

(International News Service) HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 18.—Rupture of diplomatic relations between the Japanese-controlled state of Manchukuo and Soviet Russia as a result of the conflict over the sale of Russian interests in the Chinese eastern railway was hinted at in a declaration made by the Manchukuoan foreign office today.

No Negotiations. The foreign office announced that it would refuse to negotiate with the Soviet consulate here any questions in dispute between the two countries, including the arrest of about 40 Russian railway employees who are accused of espionage and sabotage in connection with the railway negotiations until the Soviet government first adjusted to Manchukuo's satisfaction.

Four attacks by Russian border guards upon Manchukuoan steamers in the Amur river.

Reconnaissance flights by Soviet military airplanes over the fortified zone of Suifu.

As the Soviet government has previously denied that any such incidents occurred Russo-Manchukuoan relations are seriously imperiled. No diplomatic channel apparently are available to discuss future border incidents or railway controversies and cessation of diplomatic relations may actually be in effect today.

The Japanese government has stepped out of the picture, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota having announced that Japan will no longer act as intermediary between the Soviet and Manchukuoan governments after Russia's recent refusal to accept Hirota's order for the purchase of the Russian interest in the Chinese eastern railway.

Both Manchukuoan and Japanese officials here ridiculed Russian press reports that the Japanese military might seize complete control of the C. E. R. without compensation to Russia but the situation is regarded as extremely serious by neutral observers in Harbin.

Four Hundred Are Arrested

Celebration Being Held By St. Vitus Church, On Maitland Street, To End

Rev. Fr. Albert Farina, announced this morning that the annual outdoor celebration which started last Monday evening, on Maitland street, will come to a close tonight.

Despite weather conditions during the past week, the affair is proving a fine success. Rev. Farina together with Charles DeCarbo, who is the general chairman in charge, have arranged a most interesting program for tonight. The affair will commence at 8:00 o'clock.

Over Thousand Prisoners Freed In German Jails

(International News Service) BERLIN, Aug. 18.—All but 45 of the 1,124 persons arrested through-out Prussia in connection with the recent revolt attempt of Capt. Ernst Roehm have been released as a result of the Hitler amnesty decree, it was announced officially today.

The amnesty, proclaimed in honor of Reichsleiter Hitler's ascension to the presidency was found, upon investigation by Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, to be applicable in 1,079 cases, as the prisoners immediately were released, the announcement said.

The 45 still under arrest, however, face "serious charges," the official order stated. Further investigation of their cases is under way, and "further release are foreseen," it was said.

"The investigation of June 30 is closed," the order stated, apparently indicating there would be no more arrests in the Roehm revolt, which was followed by Hitler's "purge" of the Nazi party and many summary executions.

Blue Eagle To Bare Its Talons

Prepare To Strike At Bootleg Coal Merchants In Philadelphia Area

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—With talons bared, the N. R. A. blue eagle today prepared to strike at bootleg coal merchants.

Ura C. Cochran, divisional director of the retail coal code authority in Philadelphia, is perfecting plans for possible NRA prosecution of bootleg coal merchants on short-weight charges.

Under the retail code, vendors of inferior quality or short weight may be prosecuted by the government.

Cochran entered the fight against "the racket" after inspectors of the Philadelphia bureau of weights and measures charged that practically all shipments of bootleg coal reaching here underweight or of an inferior quality.

Liquor Sales Show Increase

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Continuing a recent upward trend receipts of state liquor stores for the week ending August 11 were about $30,000 more than for the previous week, the Liquor Control board announced today.

The board reported for that week sales of $634,169 as compared with $604,178 in the preceding week.

Sales since the stores opened have passed $21,000,000.

Voice Opposition To Special Session Plans Before Departing For Homes

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—New opposition to a special session to finance relief was left behind today by delegates to the annual convention of the league of third class cities returned home to launch a drive to obtain legislation next year putting into effect a program adopted during their sessions.

Taking the stand that the federal government ought to finance Pennsylvania's relief load, at least until the regularly assembly can act next year, the delegates adopted a resolution opposing a special session at the closing session of their convention.

Platform Offered

At last night's closing banquet, Daniel N. Casey, secretary of the Harrisburg chamber of commerce, harped that with new consciousness of taxpayers over the expenditures of the tax dollar it was becoming incumbent that city governments "be geared rigidly to their revenues."

Among the planks in the league's platform for submission to the 1935 legislature were permanent registration for voters; elimination of state taxes on municipal bonds; changes in the motor code to abolish all-night parking in cities; authority to condemn unsafe buildings at the owners' expense and authority to acquire and operate municipal gas and light plants.

A Suit For Franklin.
Insured, Then Killed.
Russia Goes Visiting.
He Sold His Wife.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE PRESIDENT'S MOTHER, home from her travels, saw everybody, including the King and Queen in Buckingham Palace, where she had tea and told them about America.

Everybody that saw her liked and praised her. This is the news she brings back from Europe, nothing about kings or queens, you notice.

"I have brought the loveliest tweed suit for Franklin." That's the way mothers are, whether their sons are little boys three feet high or big boys in charge of the biggest country. They are always "little boys needing a suit" to the mother.

TWO WOMEN are accused of killing a 54-year-old lame man. Martha Clift, 27, turns state's evidence against her alleged partner in crime, Mrs. Eva Coo, owner of a roadhouse in which Martha Clift and the "handy man" worked.

The confederate's confession states that Mrs. Coo struck the old man down with a mallet, after which Martha Clift "saw-sawed" a heavy automobile over his unconscious body" until he was dead.

AT FREQUENT, recent intervals, according to the prosecutor, Mrs. Coo had taken out insurance on the murdered man, until the total amounted to $9,802.60 in policies, of which she was the beneficiary. She is accused of arranging the murder to collect the money.

"Insurance murders" are said to have been made a regular branch of the racketeer murder industry in New York.

There could be no safer murder, especially when the conspiracy includes a doctor to give a death certificate. After which, no questions.

SOME GOVERNMENT agency should investigate such "insuring". The unfortunate handy man could not well refuse to let himself be insured, when his employer demanded it. It should have been somebody's business to know who was to get the money if the insured individual were murdered, who paid the premium. Somebody should investigate every policy not for the benefit of widow or children.

RUSSIA IS returned to international "society". When three Russian airplanes, representing the Red army, landed at Prague, an enormous crowd awaited the friendly planes, the Czechs broke through a police cordon to rush onto the field and congratulate the fliers.

A wise young Frenchman, hearing someone say, "when Russia gets rich she'll act like all other rich people," remarked:

"Russia is rich already, is turning to the right, and already changing her views."

RUSSIA may well be rich, since there is no real wealth except human labor and thought, and no man or woman able to work has been idle in Russia for the past ten years, while we have had ten to fifteen millions idle. And there has never been any lack of hard thinking in Russia.

Now that the Russian nation is free of the squandering vicious, dissipated aristocracy of the czars, progress should be rapid. And every man should rejoice, whatever his opinion of Lenin, or the right of Russians to have their own theories on government, as we have.

HOBOKEN, N. J., is shocked. One gentleman, who liked the looks of another gentleman's wife, bought the wife for $700, to be paid in installments like an automobile, "with her romantic consent," the last installment paid recently.

That makes all that are absolutely behaved shudder, although many millions of human beings on earth never get a wife except by purchase. Other millions may sell a wife, if they choose, and no evil is thought of it. It is thinking that "makes it so."

DEATH AND the grave reveal strange secrets.

Briand, eminent French statesman, died and was buried in a simple peasant's grave in Normandy. Later, Mme. Jeanne Noutreau died, and, after objections, her family, that had cast her out, permitted her burial in the family plot near her husband-dead long ago.

She had married the husband, a banker of St. Nazaire, when seventeen, soon fell in love with a young anarchist, who later became Briand, powerful French statesman. They never married but lived together until he died. In his will, although his fortune was considerable, he left her nothing.

Although very poor, she never would sell the hundreds of love letters that Briand had written her. Now she lies near her lawful husband in the cemetery of St. Nazaire, and Briand, far off, in his peasant's grave in Normandy. Women, as a rule, get the worst of it.

GOOD NEWS for farmers. Hogs reached another new high price in Chicago yesterday, $6.40 per hundredweight. The news comes too late to save tens of thousands of little unborn pigs inside of farrow sows, thrown into the Mississippi to cut down the surplus. It may save other little pigs from an equally sad fate. And perhaps, but not probably, it will teach government not to be in too much of a hurry to kill unborn pigs and discourage cotton, wheat, corn, while millions are starving and half naked on this earth.

A Suit For Franklin.
Insured, Then Killed.
Russia Goes Visiting.
He Sold His Wife.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE PRESIDENT'S MOTHER, home from her travels, saw everybody, including the King and Queen in Buckingham Palace, where she had tea and told them about America.

Everybody that saw her liked and praised her. This is the news she brings back from Europe, nothing about kings or queens, you notice.

"I have brought the loveliest tweed suit for Franklin," said the way mothers are, whether their sons are little boys three feet high or big boys in charge of the biggest country. They are always "little boys needing a suit" to the mother.

TWO WOMEN are accused of killing a 54-year-old lame man. Martha Clift, 27, turns state's evidence against her alleged partner in crime, Mrs. Eva Coo, owner of a roadhouse in which Martha Clift and the "handy man" worked.

The confederate's confession states that Mrs. Coo struck the old man down with a mallet, after which Martha Clift "saw-sawed a heavy automobile over his unconscious body" until he was dead.

AT FREQUENT, recent intervals, according to the prosecutor, Mrs. Coo had taken out insurance on the murdered man, until the total amounted to $9,802.60 in policies, of which she was the beneficiary. She is accused of arranging the murder to collect the money.

"Insurance murders" are said to have been a regular branch of the racketeer murder industry in New York.

There could be no safer murder, especially when the conspiracy includes a doctor to give a death certificate. After which, no questions.

SOME GOVERNMENT agency should investigate such "insuring." The unfortunate handy man could not well refuse to let himself be insured, when his employer demanded it. It should have been somebody's business to know who was to get the money if the insured individual were murdered, who paid the premium. Somebody should investigate every policy not for the benefit of widow or children.

RUSSIA is returned to international "society." When three Russian airplanes, representing the Red army, landed at Prague, an enormous crowd awaited the friendly planes; the Czechs broke through a police cordon to rush onto the field and congratulate the fliers.

A wise young Frenchman, hearing someone say, "when Russia gets rich she'll act like all other rich people," remarked:

"Russia is rich already, is turning to the right, and already changing her views."

RUSSIA may well be rich, since there is no real wealth except human labor and thought, and no man or woman able to work has been idle in Russia for the past ten years, while we have had ten to fifteen millions idle. And there has never been any lack of hard thinking in Russia.

Now that the Russian nation is free of the squandering, vicious, dissipated aristocracy of the czars, progress should be rapid. And every man should rejoice, whatever his opinion of Lenin, or the right of Russians to have their own theories on government, as we have.

Unions Annex Title In Game With Saks 9-2

Al Ritchie Wins His 26th Victory Of Season; Unions To Meet Scarazzos

Union Brewery softball team won the second-half championship of the American softball league 30-foot bases, last night at Centennial Field by handing the highly touted Saks a 9 to 2 upset for the second time this week. Al Ritchie, the star moundman of the Unions won his 26th victory of the year. He limited the Saks to five hits.

The Unions and Scarazzos will start a five-game series at Centennial Field Tuesday evening for the American League championship. The game will start at 8:45 o'clock.

Pitches Great Game
Ritchie had the Saks eating out of his hand last night after the first inning and fanned three men. The Saks sent Rubels to the mound at the start of the game and the Unions opened up with a four run attack in the second inning and scored four more in the fourth. Joe Isabella relieved Rubels in the fifth and held the Unions runless. The game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

Joe Bosco, Nick Ritchie and Ray Ritchie held the batting honors for the Unions, with F. Merando having the longest hit of the game a slashing triple to center field. Polishick was the best batsman in the lineup of the Saks.

Joe Pair again sparked in the field for the Unions with several fine catches of hard hit liners, and Clause also made several nice catches.

The game drew another banner crowd to Centennial Field. The game was well handled by Earl Riley, Hughie Huston and Tom Conti.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

There have been sets of brothers in the boxing game, for instance, Jim and Jack Jeffries, Al and Monte Melier, the Gibbons, Mike and Paul, George and Joe Chip, and in some instances father and son, only at different periods, recalling of course Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons and his son Bob, the late Mike Donovan and his son Mike. In baseball there have been many instances of father and son having played good baseball and nowadays the brother act is featured in baseball. Paul and Lloyd Warner first made Oklahoma baseball history. They're with the Pirates. Since they blazed the trail two other sets of brothers have come from the Sagebrush state, namely, Paul and Jay (Dizzy) Dean and Rob and Roy Johnson. From North Carolina come the Faverells, Fitcher Wes and Catcher Rick. John Leonard (Pepper) Martin who was a hero for the St. Louis Cards a few years ago, like the Waners, Johnsons and Deans comes from Oklahoma.

Talking about brothers in sport. The Chip family has had more boxers than any one family, namely, George, Joe, Billy, Charlie and "Eggie." Paul didn't bother with the gloves sport. George went on in the middleweight title. Joe later fought a champion and after Al McCoy dropped the title he won from George, Joe pasted him at Youngstown. Billy took a whirl at New Orleans and Charlie milled hereabouts. "Eggie" fought an exhibition with the late Willie Stirling when the latter was a member of the Stirling vaudeville team which played here years ago.

Fighters may come and boxers may go but there will be a few Patsy Brannigans. He visited here recently. Patsy fought about 600 times and in all that time was loser by a knockout but once and that was a technical knockout. It was in Australia that he was defeated by a boxer against him. The bridge of his nose was cut quite badly and the referee stopped the fight in the twentieth round. He fought 'em all, from Jimmy Walsh to Kid Williams, Johnny Kilbane to Johnny Coulton. In all his career he wasn't on the floor more than once or twice.

Ryantown Will Play All-Stars

Ryantown will play the Independent League All-Stars at the Ryantown field Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was announced today. Farrell will likely go to the hill for the All-Stars and will be opposed by either Book or Hill for Ryantown. The All-Stars took the measure of the Ryantowns a few days ago and the west sides are anxious to even up the score.

The manager of the Hillsville team is asked to call 1735-R between 4:30 and 6 o'clock.

Rowe Pitches Great Game As Tigers Split

Rowe Hangs Up Fourteenth Straight Of Season, Allows Yanks But Three Hits

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES TWICE

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Schoolboy Rowe, the long, lean ace of the Detroit pitching staff, is a lad with ambitions. Listing them in the order of their importance to him they are: (1) To marry a little school-teacher down Arkansas way; (2) To win 20 straight games this year, to beat Rube Marquard's record; (3) To pitch the Tigers into a pennant and (4) To beat Carl Hubbell and the Giants in the world series.

That lanky right-hander moved a step closer to all four ambitions yesterday when he chalked up his 18th victory and his 14th in a row at the expense of the Yanks.

Rowe In Shape
Only three days ago he had let the Yanks down with four hits and yesterday after Lefty Gomez had shut-out the Tigers, 5 to 0 to even the series, the schoolboy put his team in front again by shutting out the Yanks, 2 to 0, with three hits.

The Tigers came to town leading the pack by 4½ games. They left with a 5½ game lead, which should be more than enough to carry them until they get home.

There were some other notable pitching and hitting performances in both leagues yesterday.

Mel Ott and Bill Terry of the Giants blew themselves to six hits apiece against the Pirates and two of Mel's were homers, bringing his season total to 32.

Coleman of the Athletics helped himself to three homers in one game against the hapless White Sox and in the other, his teammate, Jimmy Fox, drove his 33th out of the park.

Giants Increase Lead
The Giants increased their lead on the Cubs and Cards by taking two from the Pirates, 7-3 and 8-2.

Farnsworth held the Pirates to three hits—all made in the eighth inning, and Hubbell loafed through the nightcap.

The Dodgers outslugged the Reds, 12 to 4; the Braves threw a monkey wrench in the Cub machine, 5-2, and the Cards, with Paul Dean suddenly arbitrating his strike, slaughtered the Reds, 12-2.

The Senators weakened the Indians' hold on third place in the American League by grabbing a pair, 4-3 and 1-0.

Coleman Hits Three
Despite Coleman's three homers, the A's had 13 travel ten heats to subdue the White Sox, 9-8 and then blew the second, 6-2.

Wes Farrell of the Red Sox turned in his 11th win and it was a pip. Wes gave the Browns only two hits, one of which was a scratch, and eased in, 6-0. However, Blaholder of the Browns made it an even game on the day by holding the Sox six hits in the second game, the Browns winning, 5-2.

Victors-Mahoning To Battle Sunday

New Castle's Newest Semi-Pro Team To Play In Seventh Ward

Victors and the Mahoning A. A. will battle at the E. & A. field at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Seventh Warders hope to take the measure of the Victors-Youngstown East Side Civics.

Paul McCullough will occupy the knoll for the Victors and will have his fast ball working. The Mahonings are undecided on the pitcher at this time.

The Victors will have the following lineup on the field: Flannery, center field; Bassett, second base; T. Whalen, short stop; Bankey McCullough, left field; Maxtin, second base; Cleary, third base; Holmes, first base; Scaglione, catch; Paul McCullough or P. Houston, pitch; Flauto, right field.

Two more prominent East Side softball fans Henle and Jacobson have combined to select two more all-star softball teams from the National and American leagues.

The selections are as follows:

THE SPORT PATROL

A COMING HEAVYWEIGHT

None of the present heavyweight contenders have shown enough ability to alarm Max Baer or enough color to draw a large crowd to a championship match. So probably the next person to create a stir in the heavyweight ranks will be one of the lads who, as yet, is about a year away from the big time matches.

The fans and boxing critics around Detroit and Chicago predict a great future for Joe Louis, a giant negro, who is a Detroit lad who has had remarkable success in the amateur ranks in the past two years. He has done about all of his fighting in the middle west so, consequently, the eastern fans haven't as yet heard about the youngster.

Louis began his amateur competition in 1933. He captured a Detroit championship and then went to New York for the National A. A. U. tournament. He was defeated by Max Marek who won the light heavyweight title. Joe knocked Marek down in the first round but lost the decision on points.

This season Louis had no difficulty winning the light heavyweight Golden Gloves title, first in Detroit, and then at Chicago. In the international bouts with Poland, Joe was a few ounces over the weight limit so was unable to participate. Later he went out to St. Louis and won the 1934 National A. A. U. Light heavyweight crown.

Joe was considered the best fighter among Chicago's Golden Gloves boys of this year. In fact, he was created more favorable comment than any other amateur during the seven years of Golden Gloves tournaments.

A few months ago Louis turned pro and since then has been making his headquarters in Chicago. In his pro debut, fighting as a heavyweight, he knocked out Jack Kracken in the first round. On July 30, he scored his third straight professional win when he technically knocked out Larry Udel in the second round. Last Monday he outpointed Jack Kranz of Gary in an eight round bout.

The Detroit Negro is a cool and clever boxer. He is dangerous on the offense and doesn't waste any punches. Like Dempsey, he has terrific hitting power without having to throw his punches more than a few inches.

With careful handling Joe should reach the top ranks in another year or two. All that he lacks is experience and he has plenty of time to gain that. He is only 20 years old and is now fighting at about 185 pounds. He stands six feet one inch so has plenty of height in which to portion off the added weight he will put on before his growing days are over.

Second Game Of Series Sunday

West Pittsburgh Hopes To Even With Bessemer In Titular Series

NORD MAY HURL FOR BESSEMER

Having captured the inaugural of a five game series to decide the Lawrence county baseball league title Bessemer will play the second game in their own backyard against West Pittsburgh at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Snyder outpitched Houk in the opener and while Manager Onicka has not yet announced whom he will send to the hill indications are that Manager Martin will send D. Nord to do the honors in the second game for Bessemer.

Bessemer didn't raise a head of perspiration to set down the first half winners, Thursday at West Pittsburgh. In fact, they were masters of the game from the third inning until they put out the last West Pittsburgh batter. They had no trouble finding Houk's range while Snyder was the personification of ease at all times.

But anything is liable to happen in a ball game and with Bessemer one-up, Manager Onicka and his West Pittsburgh outfit will be out to even up the series tomorrow.

Irwin and Walzer have been assigned to umpire.

Played Fast Game

Jimmie Marcantino, flashy second baseman of West Pittsburgh had a field day in the first tilt. In addition to making a trio of outpits he had eight assists.

His opposing second baseman, G. Stanley turned in half a dozen putouts and came through with a pair of assists.

D. Nord played first for Bessemer. He sacked the "on, got a hit, and six putouts, and an error, while E. Elssesser made a hit and had a clean day at first, putting out 10.

Cracraft cracked out a pair of doubles which made him the hitting hero for Bessemer and his colleague in centerfield, one Benson, pooled one twin base hit.

Erzykovich who started in left field and ended in right field, R. Elssesser, first baseman and Catcher Hughes were the only West Pittsburgh batters to score a hit while everybody on the Bessemer outfit excepting Vlah, T. Puromaki and Snyder came through with a safe blow.

Errors were chalked against J. Elssesser, short and Delmonaco, third baseman of West Pittsburgh. The biggest crowd of the season witnessed the first game.

Elders To Play Clifton Flats

Elder A. C. baseball team will go to the Clifton Flats field for a baseball battle Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All of the Elder players are asked to report at the field at 2:30 o'clock.

The Elders took the measure of the Flats team recently, having a long winning streak and for that reason the Clifton Flats team will try to avenge that setback. Jones or Coates will throw them up for the Clifton Flats team and Lamm will probably go for the Elders.

Married Men Top Singles In Game At Flats Field

Married Men of the Clifton Flats area topped the Single Men last night in a softball game, 12 to 10. The fast fielding by the single men held the score down as the married men blasted out 22 hits. Smiley held the single men to six hits. H. Kirkwood and Stevenson hit hard for the married men. Earl Ettinger with two homers was the best for the single men. The next game will be played Tuesday at the Flats field.

Colonials Have Tough Schedule

Colonial A. C. baseball team has a tough schedule mapped out for next week, starting Monday night with a game with the Elder A. C. at 5:30 o'clock at the Flats field.

Tuesday the Colonials will play the Rose Point team of the Independent league at the Colonial field at 5:30 o'clock. Wednesday the Butler Colored Giants will be the attraction at Colonial's field, and Friday the Colonials go against the Central Park team from Butler at the Colonial field at 5:30 o'clock. The Colonials have won six straight games since dropping out of the Independent league and hope to continue their winning streak.

Jack Benson Is Amateur Champ

Benson Defeats Dr. Tom Canon After Despoing Of George Trainor In Semi-Finals

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Western Pennsylvania golfers today feted Jack Benson, rangy South Hills Country Club star, as their new ruler.

Benson won the distinction by his decisive 7 and 6 victory over bespectacled Dr. T. E. "Tom" Canon of the St. Clair Country Club in the 18-hole final of the Western Pennsylvania Amateur Golf championships at Pittsburgh field club.

The finalists both got off to poor starts, but Canon's play was a shade inferior to that of the winner and the early lead Benson thus carried away the foundation for his gradual climb to the overwhelming hand-cap.

Benson, who succeeds Knox Young, Jr., Pittsburgh, as the district champion, went into the last round by eliminating George Trainor of New Castle in the semi-finals 4 and 3. Canon put out John Wayman, a clubmate, 3 and 2, in the same round.

Scarazzos Will Play At Sharon

Scarazzo softball team will go to Sharon tomorrow afternoon to play the Farrell-Sharon Colored All-Stars at the Sharon field.

The Colored All-Stars are here this afternoon against the Audias. The Scarazzos hope to take the measure of the All-Stars. The Scarazzo players are asked to meet tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock to make the trip to Sharon.

Polish Nationals Schedule Ambridge

Polish Nationals baseball team has scheduled the fast Ambridge All-Stars for a baseball game at Glasser Field Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was announced today.

Manager Maslyk requests the following Polish National players to report for the game—Ostrosky, J. Soho, W. Soho, Gall, Jackson, Coen, Baker, Pruitt, Severa, Glasser, Majocha and Maslyk.

Unions Annex Title In Game With Saks 9-2

Al Ritchie Wins His 26th Victory Of Season; Unions To Meet Scarazzos

Union Brewery softball team won the second-half championship of the American softball league 50-foot bases, last night at Centennial Field by handing the highly touted Saks a 9 to 2 upset for the second time this week. Al Ritchie the star moundsman of the Unions won his 26th victory of the year. He limited the Saks to five hits.

The Unions and Scarazzos will start a five-game series at Centennial Field Tuesday evening for the American League championship. The game will start at 5:45 o'clock.

Pitches Great Game
Ritchie had the Saks eating out of his hand last night after the first inning and fanned three men. The Saks sent Rubels to the mound at the start of the game and the Unions opened up with a four run attack in the second inning and scored four more in the fourth. Joe Isabella relieved Rubels in the fifth and held the Unions runless. The game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

Joe Bosco, Nick Ritchie and Ray Ritchie held the batting honors for the Unions, with F. Merando having the longest hit of the game a slashing triple to center field. Polenick was the best batsman in the lineup of the Saks.

Joe Fair again sparked in the field for the Unions with several fine catches of hard hit liners, and Clause also made several nice catches.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

There have been sets of brothers in the boxing game, Frinstance, Jim and Jack Jeffries, Abe and Monte Attel, the Gibbons, Mike and Paul, George and Joe Chip, and in some instances father and son, only at different periods, recalling of course Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons and his son Bob, the late Mike Donovan and his son Mike. In baseball there have been many instances of father and son having played good baseball and nowadays the brother act is being featured in baseball. Paul and Lloyd Wanner first made Oklahoma baseball history. They're with the Cardinals. Since they blazed the trail two other sets of brothers have come from the Sagebrush state, namely, Paul and Jay (Dizzy) Dean and Rob and Roy Johnson. From North Carolina come the Ferrells, Pitcher Wes and Catcher Rick. John Leonard (Pepper) Martin who was a hero for the St. Louis Cardinals a few years ago, like the Wanners, Johnsons and Deans comes from Oklahoma.

Talking about brothers in sport. The Chip family has had more boxers than any one family, namely, George, Joe, Billy, Charlie and "Eggle" Paul didn't bother with the gloves sport. George went on in the middleweight title. Joe later fought a champion and after Al McCoy dropped the title he won from George. Joe pasted him at Youngstown. Billy took a whirl at New Orleans and Charlie milled hereabouts. "Eggle" fought an exhibition with the late Willie Stirling when the latter was a member of the Stirling vaudeville team which played here years ago.

Fighters may come and boxers may go but there will be a few Patsy Brannigans. He visited here recently. Patsy fought about 600 times and in all that time was loser by a knockout but once and that was a technical knockout. It was in Australia the defeat was chalked against him. The bridge of his nose was cut quite badly and the referee stopped the fight in the twentieth round. He fought 'em all, from Jimmy Walsh to Kid Williams, Johnny Kilbane to Johnny Coulon. In all his career he wasn't on the floor more than once or twice.

Ryantown Will Play All-Stars

Ryantown will play the Independent League All-Stars at the Ryantown field Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was announced today. Farrell will likely go to the hill for the All-Stars and will be opposed by either Book or Hill for Ryantown. The All-Stars took the measure of the Ryantowns a few days ago and the west siders are anxious to even up the score.

The manager of the Hillsville team is asked to call 1786-R between 4:30 and 6 o'clock.

Rowe Pitches Great Game As Tigers Split

Rowe Hangs Up Fourteenth Straight Of Season, Allows Yanks But Three Hits

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES TWICE

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Schoolboy Rowe, the long, lean ace of the Detroit pitching staff, is a lad with ambitions. Listing them in the order of their importance to him they are: (1) To marry a little school-teacher down Arkansas way; (2) To win 20 straight games this year, to beat Rube Marquard's record; (3) To pitch the Tigers into a pennant and (4) To beat Carl Hubbell and the Giants in the world series.

That janky right-hander proved a step closer to all four ambitions yesterday when he chalked up his 18th victory and his 14th in a row at the expense of the Yanks.

Rowe In Shape
Only three days ago he had let the Yanks down with four hits and yesterday after Lefty Gomez had shut-out the Tigers, 5 to 0 to even the series, the schoolboy put his team in front again by shutting out the Yanks, 2 to 0, with three hits.

The Tigers came to town leading the pack by 4½ games. They left with a 5½ game lead, which should be more than enough to carry them until they get home.

There were some other notable pitching and hitting performances in both leagues yesterday.

Mel Ott and Bill Terry of the Giants blew themselves to six hits apiece against the Pirates and two of Mel's were homers, bringing his season total to 32.

Coleman of the Athletics helped himself to three homers in one game against the hapless White Sox and in the other, his teammate, Jimmy Foss, drove his 38th out of the park.

Giants Increase Lead
The Giants increased their lead on the Cubs and Cards by taking two from the Pirates, 7-3 and 8-3. Parmelee held the Pirates to three hits—all made in the eighth inning, and Hubbell loafed through the nightcap.

The Dodgers outslugged the Reds, 12 to 4; the Braves threw a monkey wrench in the Cub machine, 5-2, and the Cards, with Paul Dean suddenly hitting a strike, slaughtered the Phils, 12-7.

The Senators weakened the Indians' hold on third place in the American League by grabbing a pair, 4-3 and 1-0.

Coleman Hits Three
Despite Coleman's three homers, the A's had 13 travel ten heats to subdue the White Sox, 9-8 and then blew the second, 3-2.

Wes Ferrell of the Red Sox turned in his 11th win and it was a pip. Wes gave the Browns only two hits, one of which was a scratch, and eased in, 6-0. However, Blaesholder of the Browns made it an even break on the day by holding the Sox six hits in the second game, the Browns winning, 5-2.

Joe was considered the best fighter among Chicago's Golden Gloves boys of this year. In fact, he was created more favorable comment than any other amateur during the seven years of Golden Gloves Tournaments.

A few months ago Louis turned pro and since then has been making his headquarters in Chicago. In his pro debut, fighting as a heavyweight, he knocked out Jack Kracken in the first round. On July 30, he scored his third straight professional win when he technically knocked out Larry Udel in the second round. Last Monday he outpointed Jack Kranz of Gary in an eight round bout.

The Detroit Negro is a cool and efficient boxer. He is dangerous on the offense and doesn't waste any punches. Like Dempsey, he has terrific hitting power without having to throw his punches more than a few inches.

With careful handling Joe should reach the top ranks in another year or two. All that he lacks is experience and he has plenty of time to gain that. He is only 20 years old and is now fighting at about 185 pounds. He stands six feet one inch so has plenty of height in which to portion off the added weight he will put on before his growing days are over.

A COMING HEAVYWEIGHT
None of the present heavyweight contenders have shown enough ability to alarm Max Baer or enough color to draw a large crowd to a championship match. So probably the next person to create a stir in the heavyweight ranks will be one of the lads who, as yet, is about a year away from the big time matches.

The fans and boxing critics around Detroit and Chicago predict a great future for Joe Louis, a giant negro, Joe is a Detroit lad who has had remarkable success in the amateur ranks in the past two years. He has done about all of his fighting in the middle west so, consequently, the eastern fans haven't as yet heard about the youngster.

Louis began his amateur competition in 1923. He captured a Detroit championship and then went to New York for the National A. A. U. tournament. He was defeated by Max Marek who won the light heavyweight title. Joe knocked Marek down in the first round but lost the decision on points.

This season Louis had no difficulty winning the light heavyweight Golden Gloves title, first, in Detroit, and then at Chicago. In the international bouts with Poland, Joe was a few ounces over the weight limit so was unable to participate. Later he went out to St. Louis and won the 1934 National A. A. U. light heavyweight crown.

RENNERS WIN GAME
Renners softball team topped the Hilltop A. C. 9 to 6 at Carnegie Field last evening for their 35th victory of the season. R. Covelli allowed the Hilltops but eight hits and kept them scattered. The Renners had 10 hits off of Mockel. Must and Pandos hit homers.

POLISH A. C. WINS
Polish A. C. baseball team handed the West Side Rangers a 3 to 2 upset in a Junior league game. The game was a pitching battle all the way. Mrozek and Bigley were the opposing pitchers.

RICHLAND MIDGETS WIN
In one of the best midget softball games played in New Castle the Richland Midgets topped the Young Yankees Midgets 1 to 0 at Taggart Field. Amobile held the Young Yanks to three hits. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning. The victory was the 33rd of the year for the Richlands.

Y. M. C. A. WINS GAME
Y. M. C. A. softball team of the Seventh Ward handed a pick-up St. Andrews team at the E. & A. field last night 8 to 3. Tapaer pitched for the Saints and allowed 13 hits. The Y. M. C. A. pitcher was Parcorra and he allowed only six hits. M. Mash had a homer to feature the game.

Married Men Top Singles In Game At Flats Field

Married Men of the Clifton Flats area topped the Single Men last night in a softball game 12 to 10. The fast fielding by the single men held the score down as the married men blasted out 22 hits. Smiley held the single men to six hits. H. Kirkwood and Stevenson hit hard for the married men. Earl Ettlinger with two homers was the best for the single men. The next game will be played Tuesday at the Flats field.

Colonials Have Tough Schedule

Colonial A. C. baseball team has a tough schedule mapped out for next week, starting Monday night with a game with the Elder A. C. at 5:30 o'clock at the Elders field.

Tuesday the Colonials will play the Rose Point team of the Independent league at the Colonial field at 5:30 o'clock. Wednesday the Butler Colored Giants will be the attraction at Colonials field, and Friday the Colonials go against the Central Park team from Butler at the Colonial field at 5:30 o'clock. The Colonials have won six straight games since dropping out of the Independent league and hope to continue their winning streak.

Second Game Of Series Sunday

NORD MAY HURL FOR BESSEMER

Having captured the inaugural of a five game series to decide the Lawrence county baseball league title Bessemer will play the second game in their own backyard against West Pittsburgh at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Snyder outpitched Houk in the opener and while Manager Onicka has not yet announced whom he will send to the hill indications are that Manager Martin will send D. Nord to do the honors in the second game for Bessemer.

Bessemer didn't raise a bead of perspiration to set down the first half winners. Thursday at West Pittsburgh. In fact, they were masters of the game from the third inning until they put out the last West Pittsburgh batter. They had no trouble finding Houk's range while Snyder was the personification of ease at all times.

But anything is liable to happen in a ball game and with Bessemer one-up, Manager Onicka and his West Pittsburgh outfit will be out to even up the series tomorrow.

Irwin and Walzer have been assigned to umpire.

Played Fast Game
Jimmie Marcantino, flashy second baseman of West Pittsburgh had a field day in the first tilt. In addition to making a trio of outplays he had eight assists.

His opposing second baseman, G. Stanley turned in half a dozen putouts and came through with a pair of assists.

D. Nord played first for Bessemer. He scored a run, got a hit, had six putouts and one error while R. Elssesser made a hit and had a clean day at first, putting out 10.

Cracraft cracked out a pair of doubles which made him the hitting hero for Bessemer and his colleague in centerfield, one Benson, poled one twin base hit.

Braykovitch who started in left field and ended in right field, R. Elssesser, first baseman and Catcher Hughes were the only West Pittsburgh batters to score a hit while everybody on the Bessemer outfit excepting Vlah, T. Puromaki and Snyder came through with a safe blow.

Errors were chalked against J. Elssesser, short, Delmonaco, third baseman of West Pittsburgh.

The biggest crowd of the season witnessed the first game.

Elders To Play Clifton Flats

Elder A. C. baseball team will go to the Clifton Flats Field for a baseball battle Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All of the Elder players are asked to report at the field at 2:30 o'clock.

The Elders took the measure of the Flats team recently, halting a long winning streak and for that reason the Clifton Flats team will try to avenge that setback. Jones or Coates will throw them up for the Clifton Flats team and Lamm will probably go for the Elders.

The Flats team has scheduled this game as a "warm-up" for their series with the New Castle Merchants starting next week.

Benson Defeats Dr. Tom Canon After Deposing Of George Trainor In Semi-Finals

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Western Pennsylvania golfers today feted Jack Benson, rangy South Hills Country Club star, as their new ruler.

Benson won the distinction by his decisive 7 and 6 victory over bespectacled Dr. T. E. "Tom" Canon of the St. Clair Country Club in the 18-hole final of the Western Pennsylvania Amateur Golf championships at Pittsburgh field club.

The finalists both got off to poor starts, but Canon's play was a shade inferior to that of the winner and the early lead Benson thus corralled layed the foundation for his gradual climb to the overwhelming handi-cap.

Benson, who succeeds Knox Young, Jr. Pittsburgh, as the district champion, went into the last round by eliminating George Trainor of New Castle in the semi-finals 4 and 3. Canon put out John Wayman, a clubmate, 3 and 2, in the same round.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

There have been sets of brothers in the boxing game, Frimance, Jim and Jack Jeffries, Abe and Monte Attel, the Gibbons, Mike and Paul, George and Joe Chip, and in some instances father and son, only at different periods, recalling of course Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons and his son Bob, the late Mike Donovan and his son Mike. In baseball there have been many instances of father and son having played good baseball and nowadays the brother act is being featured in baseball. Paul and Lloyd Warner first made Oklahoma baseball history. They're with the Pirates. Since they blazed the trail two other sets of brothers have come from the Sagebrush state, namely, Paul and Jay (Dizzy) Dean and Rob and Roy Johnson. From North Carolina come the Perrells, Pitcher Wes and Catcher Rick. John Leonard (Pepper) Martin who was a hero for the St. Louis Cardinals a few years ago, like the Warners, Johnsons and Deans comes from Oklahoma.

Talking about brothers in sport, The Chip family has had more boxers than any one family, namely, George, Joe, Billy, Charlie and "Eggy." Joe didn't bother with the gloves sport. George went on in the middleweight title. Joe later fought a champion and after Al McCoy dropped the title he won for George. Joe pasted him at Youngstown. Billy took a whirl at New Orleans and Charlie milled hereabouts "Eggy" fought an exhibition with the late Willie Stirling when the latter was a member of the Stirling vaudeville team which played here years ago.

Fighters may come and boxers may go but there will be a few Patsy Brennan's. He visited here recently. Patsy fought about 600 times and in all that time was loser by a knockout but once and that was a technical knockout. It was in Australia the defeat was chalked against him. The bridge of his nose was cut quite badly and the referee stopped the fight in the twentieth round. He fought ten all comers, Walsh to Kid Williams, Johnny Kilbane to Johnny Coulon. In all his career he wasn't on the floor more than once or twice.

Ryantown Will Play All-Stars

Ryantown will play the Independent League All-Stars at the Ryantown field Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was announced today, Farrell will likely go to the hill for the All-Stars and will be opposed by either Book or Hill for Ryantown. The All-Stars took the measure of the Ryantowns a few days ago and the west siders are anxious to even up the score.

The manager of the Hillsville team is asked to call 1786-R between 4:30 and 6 o'clock.

Rowe Pitches Great Game As Tigers Split

Rowe Hangs Up Fourteenth Straight Of Season, Allows Yanks But Three Hits

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES TWICE

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Schoolboy Rowe, the long, lean ace of the Detroit pitching staff, is a lad with ambitions. Listing them in the order of their importance to him they are: (1) To marry a little school-teacher down Arkansas way; (2) To win 20 straight games this year, to beat Rube Marquard's record; (3) To pitch the Tigers into a pennant and (4) To beat Carl Hubbell and the Giants in the world series.

That lanky right-hander moved a step closer to all four ambitions yesterday when he chalked up his 18th victory and his 14th in a row at the expense of the Yanks.

Rowe In Shape
Only three days ago he had let the Yanks down with four hits and yesterday after Lefty Gomez had shut-out the Tigers, 5 to 0, even the series, the schoolboy put his team in front again by shutting out the Yanks, 2 to 0, with three hits.

The Tigers came to town leading the pack by 4½ games. They left with a 5½ game lead, which should be more than enough to carry them until they get home.

There were some other notable pitching and hitting performances in both leagues yesterday.

Mel Ott and Bill Terry of the Giants blew themselves to six hits apiece against the Pirates and two of Mel's were homers, bringing his season total to 32.

Coleman of the Athletics helped himself to three homers in one game against the hapless White Sox and in the other, his teammate, Jimmy Fox, drove his 38th out of the park.

Giants Increase Lead
The Giants increased their lead on the Cubs and Cards by taking two from the Pirates, 7-3 and 8-3.

Paramelee held the Pirates to three hits, all made in the eighth inning, and Hubbell loafed through the nightcap.

The Dodgers outsluged the Reds, 12 to 4; the Braves threw a monkey wrench in the Cub machine, 5-2; and the Cards, with Paul Dean suddenly arbitrating his strike, slaughtered the Phils, 12-2.

The Senators thumped the Indians' hold on third place in the American League by grabbing a pair, 4-3 and 1-0.

Coleman Hits Three
Despite Coleman's three homers, the A's had to travel ten heats to subdue the White Sox, 9-8 and then blew the second, 5-2.

Wes Farrell of the Red Sox turned in his 11th win and it was a tip-up. Wes gave the Browns only two hits, one of which was a scratch, and eased in, 6-0. However, Blaholder of the Browns made it an even break on the day by holding the Sox six hits in the second game, the Browns winning, 5-2.

Joe was considered the best fighter among Chicago's Golden Gloves boys of this year. In fact, he was created more favorable comment than any other amateur during the seven years of Golden Gloves Tournaments.

A few months ago Louis turned pro and since then has been making his headquarters in Chicago. In his pro debut, fighting at a heavyweight, he knocked out Jack Kracken in the first round. On July 30, he scored his third straight professional win when he technically knocked out Larry Udell in the second round.

Last Monday he outpointed Jack Kranz of Gary in an eight round bout.

The Detroit Negro is a cool and clever boxer. He is dangerous on the offense and doesn't waste any punches. Like Dempsey, he has terrific hitting power without having to throw his punches more than a few inches.

With careful handling Joe should reach the top ranks in another year or two. All that he lacks is experience and he has plenty of time to gain that. He is only 20 years old and is now fighting at about 185 pounds. He stands six feet one inch so has plenty of height in which to portion off the added weight he will put on before his growing days are over.

Graduate of St. Lawrence University in Canton, N. Y. 1931, won 4 and lost 2 with Bridgeport in Eastern league. Recalled by the Giants and won one and lost one. 1932, chalked up 5 wins and six losses with New York. 1933, won 19 while losing 12 for the Giants. Won one game in 1933 World Series. Has won 18 and lost 5 this season.

A COMING HEAVYWEIGHT
None of the present heavyweight contenders have shown enough ability to alarm Max Baer or enough color to draw a large crowd to a championship match. So probably the next person to create a stir in the heavyweight ranks will be one of the lads who, as yet, is about a year away from the big time matches.

The fans and boxing critics around Detroit and Chicago predict a great future for Joe Louis, a giant negro. Joe is a Detroit lad who has had remarkable success in the amateur ranks in the past two years. He has done about all of his fighting in the middle west so, consequently, the eastern fans haven't as yet heard about the youngster.

Louis began his amateur competition in 1933. He captured a Detroit championship and then went to New York for the National A. A. U. tournament. He was defeated by Max Marek who won the light heavyweight title. Joe knocked Marek down in the first round but lost the decision on points.

This season Louis had no difficulty winning the light heavyweight Seventh Ward handed a pick-up St. Andrews team at the E. & A. field last night 8 to 3. Tepper pitched for the Salts and allowed 13 hits. The Y. M. C. A. pitcher was Parcorra and he allowed only six hits. M. Mash had a homer to feature the game.

ELDERLY MIDGETS WIN
In one of the best midget softball games were played in New Castle the Richfield Midgets topped the Young Yankees Midgets 1 to 0 at Taggart Field. Amobile held the Young Yankees to three hits. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning. The victory was the 33rd of the year for the Richfield.

Married Men Top Singles In Game At Flats Field
Married Men of the Clifton Flats area topped the Single Men last night in a softball game 12 to 10. The fast fielding by the single men held the score down to the married men. The single men, Smiley held the single men to six hits. H. Kirkwood and Stevenson hit hard for the married men. Earl Ettinger with two homers was the best for the single men. The next game will be played Tuesday at the Flats field.

Colonials Have Tough Schedule
Colonial A. C. baseball team has a tough schedule mapped out for next week, starting Monday night with a game with the Elder A. C. at 5:30 o'clock at the Elders field.

Tuesday the Colonials will play the Rose Point team of the Independent league at the Colonial field at 5:30 o'clock. Wednesday the Butlers Colored Giants will be the attraction at Colonial field, and Friday the Colonials go against the Central Park team from Butler at the Colonial field at 5:30 o'clock. The Colonials have won six straight games since dropping out of the independent league and hope to continue their winning streak.

Second Game Of Series Sunday

NORD MAY HURL FOR BESSEMER

Having captured the inaugural of a five game series to decide the Lawrence county baseball league title Bessemer will play the second game in their own backyard against West Pittsburgh at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. Snyder outpitched Hook in the opener and while Manager Onicka has not yet announced whom he will send to the hill indications are that Manager Martin will send D. Nord to do the honors in the second game for Bessemer.

Bessemer didn't raise a head of perspiration to set down the first half winners, Thursday at West Pittsburgh. In fact, they were masters of the game from the third inning until they put out the last West Pittsburgh batter. They had no trouble finding Hook's range while Snyder was the personification of ease at all times.

But anything is liable to happen in a ball game and with Bessemer one-up, Manager Onicka and his West Pittsburgh outfit will be out to even up the series tomorrow.

Twinn and Walzer have been assigned to umpire.

Played Fast Game
Jimmie Marcantino, flashy second baseman of West Pittsburgh had a field day in the first tilt. In addition to making a trio of outs he had eight assists.

His opposing second baseman, G. Stanley turned in half a dozen putouts and came through with a pair of assists.

D. Nord played first for Bessemer. He scored a run, got a hit, had six putouts and one error while R. Blesser made a hit and had a clean day at first, putting out 10.

Cracraft cracked out a pair of doubles which made him the hitting hero for Bessemer and his colleague in centerfield, one Benson, poled one twin base hit.

Braykovitch who started in left field and ended in right field, R. Elksner, first baseman and Catcher Hughes were the only West Pittsburgh batters to score a hit while everybody on the Bessemer outfit excepting Vlah, T. Puromaki and Snyder came through with a safe blow.

Errors were chalked against J. Blesser, short and Delmonaco, third baseman of West Pittsburgh. The biggest crowd of the season witnessed the first game.

Elders To Play Clifton Flats
Elder A. C. baseball team will go to the Clifton Flats Field for a baseball battle Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All of the Elder players are asked to report at the field at 2:30 o'clock.

The Elders took the measure of the Flats team recently, halting a long winning streak and for that reason the Clifton Flats team will try to avenge that setback. Jones or Coates will throw them up for the Clifton Flats team and Lamm will probably go for the Elders.

The Flats team has scheduled this game as a "warm-up" for their series with the New Castle Merchants starting next week.

Jack Benson Is Amateur Champ

Benson Defeats Dr. Tom Canon After Deposing Of George Trainor In Semi-Finals

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—West-ern Pennsylvania golfers today feted Jack Benson, rangy South Hills Country Club star, as their new ruler.

Benson won the distinction by his decisive 7 and 6 victory over bespectacled Dr. T. E. "Tom" Canon of the St. Clair Country Club in the 18-hole final of the Western Pennsylvania Amateur Golf championships at Pittsburgh field club.

The finalists both got off to poor starts, but Canon's play was a shade inferior to that of the winner and the early lead Benson thus corralled layed the foundation for his gradual climb to the overwhelming handi-cap.

Benson, who succeeds Knox Young, Jr., Pittsburgh, as the district champion, went into the last round by eliminating George Trainor of New Castle in the semi-finals 4 and 3. Canon put out John Wayman, a clubmate, 3 and 2, in the same round.

What business did they have suspending me? I was willing to pay my fine like a man for skipping that exhibition game in Detroit.

But when they told me I was under indefinite suspension. They have no rights anywhere in baseball law to do that. And Judge Landis will tell them so.

Commissioner Landis, admittedly not quite sure what his jurisdiction is in the dispute, said he would hold a hearing at St. Louis Monday in the case of the Cardinals vs. Mr. Dizzy Dean.

Scarazzos Will Play At Sharon

Scarazzo softball team will go to Sharon tomorrow afternoon to play the Farrell-Sharon Colored All-Stars at the Pine Hollow field. The Colored All-Stars are here this afternoon against the Audies. The Scarazzos hope to take the measure of the All-Stars. The Scarazzo players are asked to meet tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock to make the trip to Sharon.

Dean Case In Landis' Hands

Commissioner Landis Will Hear Arguments In Deans vs. Cardinals Case

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—"It's up to Judge Landis now."

That was all Dizzy Dean had to say today concerning his row with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The striking pitcher came here to ask Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, to intercede in the controversy that resulted in his suspension.

Although reluctant to talk about the affair Dizzy did have this much to say:

"What business did they have suspending me? I was willing to pay my fine like a man for skipping that exhibition game in Detroit.

But when they told me I was under indefinite suspension. They have no rights anywhere in baseball law to do that. And Judge Landis will tell them so."

Commissioner Landis, admittedly not quite sure what his jurisdiction is in the dispute, said he would hold a hearing at St. Louis Monday in the case of the Cardinals vs. Mr. Dizzy Dean.

Snyder Fourth In Erie Race

Al Snyder, prominent long distance runner of this city, finished fourth in the Allegheny Mountain Association 25 kilometer race at the Erie, Pa., Academy High track Thursday evening under the floodlights. A crowd estimated at 11,000 witnessed the race.

The race was won by Tony Mazze of Pittsburgh, former University of Pittsburgh star middle distance runner. Mazze takes the crown worn by Frank Jerry of New Castle, one of the best known runners in the United States. Snyder had the honor of beating in the big road marathon at Pittsburgh last year by 200 hundredths. This was Snyder's first race since leaving the hospital two months ago. He beat his time for the same race last year at Erie by almost four minutes. He was fifth last year.

Alberta Allison Weds Jos. Gardner

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—At noon today, Miss Alberta Allison daughter of Mrs. Augusta Allison of Line avenue and Joseph H. Gardner of Greenville were united in marriage. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. T. McCandless, a former pastor of the Bell Memorial church, at his parsonage in Johnstown.

The bride was lovely in a gown of royal blue transparent velvet with corresponding accessories. She wore a corsage of tea roses and lilies of the valley. The couple was unattended.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left on a motor trip through New York state. After August 27, they will be "at home" to their friends at 315 Line avenue.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are employed by the National Tube company.

Girl Runs Into Car; Slightly Injured

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—Little Victoria Storchoff of this city was slightly injured yesterday when she ran into the car of William J. Albert of Lawrence avenue, this city.

According to a report at the local police station Albert was going north on Fourth street when he noticed a boy chasing a girl on the sidewalk. As he came nearer the girl ran off the curb and proceeded to run across the street from behind a parked car. She ran directly into the side of Albert's car. She was taken to the office of a near-by physician immediately, where it was found that she had only skinned both knees.

Racketeer Methods Are Exposed By Former Gangster

Police, Merchants, Citizens Told How Racketeers Fleece General Public

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—As a result of one of the most interesting talks ever heard here citizens of Ellwood City feel a greater sense of security.

This was brought about by some astounding revelations in the method employed by common racketeers in fleecing the general public and the proper manner of combat against this. The speaker was A. W. Dittmore of Milwaukee, Wis., nationally known police instructor and former big-time racketeer and ex-gangster.

Mr. Dittmore addressed a crowd of merchants, citizens, and police in the Schweiger Hall in Ellwood City last night. His talk was enlightening and instructive and made complete with fitting demonstrations. He thrilled his audience with his ability in handling a gun.

Mr. Dittmore explained in detail the methods used by the short change artist, bad check artists, check forgers, gypsy artists, and counterfeiters.

Mr. Dittmore's advice in a nutshell to the merchants and general public was as follows:

Never trust a stranger, and never open your cash till a second time or leave one count your change again for nine chances out of ten it will cost you money.

Never play mail boy to a stranger who wants to send money away to a relative from your place of business, for this is always expensive.

No ordinary citizen should carry a gun for it is only an incentive of reason for killing in case of a hold-up.

As a good citizen everyone should relay their slightest suspicions to the police. Always cooperate with them. He warned that the big rackets are through in this country and they are now branching out into smaller ones.

Every business man should keep the bulk of his money under lock and only carry the necessary change.

In detecting counterfeit money the business man should look to see if it has any threads, whether you can erase the designs, is the same size as the legal dollar, and is the photograph on it bold.

In explaining check forgeries he stated that seven figures out of every ten can be changed or increased. His warning against this was: "Don't give checks to strangers. The best protection is identification. Send the stranger to the police for an endorsement."

For crime prevention the speaker recommended good lighting in a town and well equipped police department, including cruisers. He explained that good lighting is discouraging for robbers.

His final advice was in order to be safe do as much of your business as possible in your home town.

Earlier in the day Mr. Dittmore conducted a special school for members of the local police department.

Gypsies Fined By Burgess Turner

Group Of Gypsies Endeavor To Work "Good Luck" Racket In Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—A visit in Ellwood City by a group of gypsies was unprofitable when they endeavored to work a "good luck" and fortune telling racket.

A group of them were placed under arrest by local police and each of them fined by Burgess Judd C. Turner who later gave them an official escort out-of-town.

It so happened that the gypsies selected an auspicious time to visit the city. Their racket was completely explained to local police by a A. W. Dittmore, ex-gangster who has become a police instructor, the same afternoon.

When Mr. Dittmore spoke to them they stopped a flood of "sob stories" Burgess Turner and accepted their fines without another word.

Koppel Youths Escape Injury

KOPPEL, Aug. 18.—Three Koppel youths narrowly escaped serious injury or death when the car in which they were riding upset and began to roll over a steep embankment after the edge of the improvised dirt road upon which they were traveling had given away, near Buttermill Falls. The plunge of the car into what would have meant destruction to its occupants, was stopped by a large tree after the car had overturned once.

The driver of the car, Howard Marshall, and two passengers, William Ludwig and Norman Ruby, escaped without the slightest injuries. The car, however, was slightly damaged by a boy who had been on their way to a boys' camp at Koppel when the mishap occurred.

Mrs. Ted Wimer of Pittsburgh is spending several days as the guest of relatives in this city.

Woman Dies Of Severe Burns

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Sprayed by flaming gasoline accidentally tossed through an open garage door by her husband, Mrs. Flora Herr, 27, of Wildwood, died from severe burns today in Allegheny General hospital.

When gasoline he was using in repairing his automobile became ignited, Frank Herr, falling to notice his wife's approach, hurried the car of blazing fuel through the doorway.

Carnegie Steel Officials Appreciate Full Value Of Pymatuning Dam

Two men who performed yeoman service in the cause of the Pymatuning dam who were unable to be present at the exercises Friday at the dam and the dinner at Sharon in the evening were I. Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel company, and John S. Oursler, now of Miami, Fla., formerly general superintendent of the New Castle works, Carnegie Steel company.

Both of these steel executives were interested in the dam in its early stages and were largely responsible for the part the steel corporation took in the purchase of land in Ohio. Each of them expressed his regret in being unable to be present and sent letters to Fred L. Rentz, general chairman of the day. The letters follow:

Carnegie Steel Company, Office of the President, Pittsburgh, Pa.
August 8, 1934.

Mr. Fred L. Rentz, Chairman Pymatuning Dam Dedication Committee, c/o The News Company, New Castle, Pennsylvania.

My Dear Mr. Rentz:

I wish to thank you for your invitation of August 1st to attend the banquet August 17 at the Sharon Country club in honor of the Pymatuning dam project.

As you know, this Pymatuning dam has been of great interest to the corporation as a means of providing a better water supply, and our organization has expended a great amount of money and time of its members in helping to consummate this wonderful project.

Unfortunately, I will be unable to attend this dinner on account of other engagements previously made. Thanking you for your kindness in remembering me, and hoping that you will have a pleasant evening, I remain,

Yours very truly,
(Signed) I. LAMONT HUGHES.
Miami, Fla.,
July 30, 1934.

Dear Fred:

Many thanks for the invitation to attend the dedication of the Pymatuning dam. I would enjoy being present if you could guarantee the weather, but until the north cools off will stay right here in Miami.

The Pymatuning dam will be of value to the Shenango and Mahoning valleys in preserving their water supply. The droughts existing in the west should be a warning to all parts of the U. S.

I have always felt that it would be a wise expenditure and am pleased that I had some small part in making it a fact and not a promise.

New Castle will in time realize that it will be a great thing for the two valleys.

Sincerely yours,
JNO. S. OURSLER.

Must Pay Board In Own Home Is Ruling Of Court

Oliver O. Phillips, Wholesale Coal Salesman Gets Order From Court

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 18.—Oliver O. Phillips, wholesale coal salesman and son of a wealthy Pittsburgh family today has been ordered by the Atlantic City domestic relations court to pay board in his own home.

In addition, Phillips must pay $12.50 a week for the support of his wife Alice L. Phillips and their children, Oliver Jr. 12 and June 7.

This arrangement which was agreed to at the hearing here, is pending investigation of a suit against the Fidelity Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, filed by Mrs. Phillips to obtain an accounting of three trust funds, one for Phillips, one jointly for him and the children and the third for the two children.

Mrs. Phillips testified that she suspected her husband, who received the income from all three funds to administer them, is using some of the children's money for himself.

Send Children By Parcels Post

Mothers Use Unique Means To Have Fathers See Their Children

ALCOA, Tenn., Aug. 18.—Two families whose ties were severed when a strike closed the Aluminum Co. of America's plants here, were reunited today when little Marni Hood and Evan Rees Hedge rode proudly into the plants as parcel post packages to see their daddies.

During the past week that the 1,900 workers at the plants have been on strike practically everything else has gone into the plants by parcel post to the 200 men "marooned" inside.

Today the two mothers decided their children should see their fathers. Postmaster Ben Kinzer said: "I don't see where there would be any harm if they are properly stamped and labeled."

So the mothers, Mrs. John Hood and Mrs. James R. Hedge, neither of whom has seen her husband for a week marched to the window, handed their daughters, 5 and 4, weighed in, tagged them properly and trusted them to Uncle Sam.

At the plant, the human parcel post was held at the office until called for by the fathers.

After a visit of about two hours the children were "mailed" back "special delivery."

The postage each way amounted to $2.26.

Alberta Allison Weds Jos. Gardner

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—At noon today, Miss Alberta Allison daughter of Mrs. Augusta Allison of Line avenue and Joseph H. Gardner of Greenville were united in marriage. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. T. McCandless, a former pastor of the Bell Memorial church, at his parsonage in Johnstown.

The bride was lovely in a gown of royal blue transparent velvet with corresponding accessories. She wore a corsage of tea roses and lilies of the valley. The couple was unattended.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left on a motor trip through New York state. After August 27, they will be "at home" to their friends at 315 Line avenue.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are employed by the National Tube company.

Girl Runs Into Car; Slightly Injured

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—Little Victoria Storhoff of this city was slightly injured yesterday when she ran into the car of William J. Albert of Lawrence avenue.

According to a report at the local police station Albert was going north on Fourth street when he noticed a boy chasing a girl on the sidewalk. As he came nearer the girl ran off the curb and proceeded to run across the street from behind a parked car. She ran directly into the side of Albert's car. She was taken to the office of a near-by physician immediately, where it was found that she had only skinned both knees.

Racketeer Methods Are Exposed By Former Gangster

Police, Merchants, Citizens Told How Racketeers Fleeced General Public

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 18.—As a result of one of the most interesting talks ever heard here citizens of Ellwood City feel a greater sense of security.

This was brought about by some astounding revelations on the methods employed by common racketeers in fleecing the general public and the proper manner of combat against this. The speaker was A. W. Dittmore of Meadville, Wis., a nationally known police instructor and former big-time racketeer and ex-gangster.

Mr. Dittmore addressed a crowd of merchants, citizens, and a police in the Schweiger Hall in Ellwood City last night. His talk was enlightening and instructive and made complete and thrilling demonstrations. He thrilled his audience with his ability in handling a gun.

The speaker explained in detail the methods used by the short change artist, bad check artists, check forgers, gypsy artists, and counterfeiters.

Mr. Dittmore's advice in a nutshell to the merchants and general public was as follows:

Never trust a stranger, and never open your cash till a second time or leave one count your change again for nine chances out of ten it will cost you money.

As you know, this Pymatuning dam has been of great interest to the corporation as a means of providing a better water supply, and our organization has expended a great amount of money and time of its members in helping to consummate this wonderful project.

Unfortunately, I will be unable to attend this dinner on account of other engagements previously made. "Thank you for your kindness in remembering me, and hoping that you will have a pleasant evening, I remain,

Yours very truly,
(Signed) L. LAMONT HUGHES.
Miami, Fla.,
July 30, 1934.

Many thanks for the invitation to attend the dedication of the Pymatuning dam. I would enjoy being present if you could guarantee the weather, but until the north winds will stay right here in Miami.

The Pymatuning dam will be of value to the Shenango and Mahoning valleys in preserving their water supply. The droughts existing in the west should be a warning to all parts of the U. S.

I have always felt that it would be a wise expenditure and am pleased that I had some small part in making it a fact and not a promise.

New Castle will in time realize that it will be a great thing for the two valleys.

Sincere yours,
JNO. S. OURSLER.

Brother Of Anna Antonio Hunted

Brother Of Late Executed Woman Slayer Hunted In Kidnaping Case

FRANKIE ANTONIO STRANGELY MISSING

(International News Service)
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The long arm of the law which executed Mrs. Anna Antonio a week ago today reached out vainly for her brother, Frankie Antonio, wanted on charge of kidnaping the woman's three year old son, Frankie.

Police Chief William Funston who swore out the warrant charging Capello with kidnaping pointed out that Capello is a shell-shocked war veteran and that he had been under a tremendous mental strain during the many weeks prior to the execution of his sister for the murder of her husband.

Intensive Hunt
Meanwhile authorities were conducting an intensive search through out the city and nearby countryside for the missing man and boy.

Capello vanished with the child yesterday a few minutes after Mrs. Mary Desio of New York, sister of the slain Antonio, appeared at the Capello home with a court order appointing her as guardian of little Frankie, and his two sisters, Phyllis 9, and Amarie 7. The two girls are inmates of St. Vincent orphan asylum in Albany.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILES
HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Reports of the theft of 369 Pennsylvania-owned motor vehicles were received by the stolen car unit of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles during July. The recovery of 210 cars, including 140 stolen during July, was reported during the month. These figures are exclusive of seventy motor vehicles, valued at $18,880, which were taken by thieves and abandoned and recovered within 24 hours.

Leftover jelly or jelly that did not thicken sufficiently may be added to the cooky recipe, omitting part of the sugar and liquid.

Carnegie Steel Officials Appreciate Full Value Of Pymatuning Dam

Two men who performed yeoman service in the cause of the Pymatuning dam who were unable to be present at the exercises Friday at the dam and the dinner at Sharon in the evening were I. Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel company, and John S. Oursler, now of Miami, Fla., formerly general superintendent of the New Castle works, Carnegie Steel company.

Both of these steel executives were interested in the dam in its early stages and were largely responsible for the part the steel corporation took in the purchase of land in Ohio. Each of them expressed his regret in being unable to be present and sent letters to Fred L. Renz, general chairman of the day. The letters follow:

Must Pay Board In Own Home Is Ruling Of Court

Oliver O. Phillips, Wholesale Coal Salesman Gets Order From Court

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 18.—Oliver O. Phillips, wholesale coal salesman and son of a wealthy Pittsburgh family today has been ordered by the Atlantic City domestic relations court to pay board in his own home.

In addition Phillips must pay $12.50 a week for the support of his wife Alice L. Phillips and their children, Oliver Jr. 12 and June 7.

This arrangement which was agreed to at the hearing here, is pending investigation of a suit against the Edgely Trust Co. Pittsburgh, filed by Mrs. Phillips to obtain an accounting of three trust funds, one for Phillips, one jointly for him and the children and the third for the two children.

Mrs. Phillips testified that she suspected her husband, who received the income from all three funds to administer them, is using some of the children's money for himself.

Send Children By Parcels Post

Mothers Use Unique Means To Have Fathers See Their Children

ALCOA, Tenn., Aug. 18.—Two families whose ties were severed when a strike closed the Aluminum Co. of America's plants here, were reunited today when little Marni Hood and Evan Rees Hedge rode proudly into the plants as parcel post packages to see their daddies.

During the past week that the 1,800 workers at the plants have been on strike practically everything else has gone into the plants by parcel post to the 200 men "marooned" inside.

Today the two mothers decided their children should see their fathers.

Postmaster Ben Kinzer said: "I don't see where there would be any harm if they are properly stamped and labeled."

So the mothers, Mrs. John Hood and Mrs. James R. Hedge, neither of whom has seen her husband for a week marched to the window, had their daughters, 5 and 4, weighed in, tagged them properly and trusted them to Uncle Sam.

At the plant, the human parcel post was held at the office until called for by the fathers.

After a visit about two hours the children were "mailed" back "special delivery."

The postage each way amounted to $2.26.

Ship Valuable Tin To Mexico Via New Air Express Route

One of the speediest tin shipments ever to go out of New Castle passed through the Railway Express agency branch here late yesterday afternoon when the Shenango Works of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company sent a package of valuable tin to Mexico City, Mexico.

The package left here at 5:58 p. m. yesterday and at 1:45 p. m. on Sunday it will be in the office of the U. S. Steel Products company there.

IS MUCH STEADIER

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The stock market lapsed into another period of dullness today with prices drifting fractionally under yesterday's close.

United States Steel, Bethlehem and other industrial shares were sluggish and somewhat heavy. Turnover, though, was so light as to leave dealers in the group without any particular significance.

A similar situation prevailed in the motor shares where both General Motors and Chrysler moving in a narrow range held slightly under yesterday's close.

A steadier tone in the dollar deterred the traders for the advance in the metal shares. United States Smelting, American Smelting and Alaska Juneau were quiet and generally steady. The apathy in stocks was reflected in the commodity markets. Wheat, corn and the other grains were quiet and firm. Cotton drifted about 25 cents a bale lower in light dealings.

Oils with the exception of Continental Oil were inclined to mark time. Continental Oil, however, continued to meet with steady trickle of offerings and dipped moderately.

A generally steady tone was apparent in the railroad shares. Union Pacific ruled unchanged, while Atchafalaya was fractionally lower. New York Central continued to meet with a small demand which was sufficient to lift the stock fractionally above yesterday's closing levels.

Utilities were quiet and somewhat reactionary under the influence of Consolidated Gas. American Telephone, however, held its own.

Aviations, notably United Aircraft, were heavy. Specialties were quiet.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—A total of 3845 physical defects recently have been corrected in children about to enter school this autumn through the direct efforts of representatives of the state health department's nursing personnel. Corrections involved removal of tonsils and adenoids, orthopedic defects, mal-nutrition, nervous disorders, eye, ear and teeth conditions and diseases of the skin.

"The least that can be done for the children about to enter school," said Dr. J. Bruce McCrory, deputy secretary of health, "is to see that their physical condition is as healthy as it is possible to be. H. C. Hatch, Prominent Toronto Distiller, Threatened With Kidnaping

(International News Service)
TORONTO, Aug. 18.—Within the past few days H. C. Hatch, prominent Toronto distillery head and sportsman, has been threatened with kidnaping, International News Service learned today.

A threatening note was delivered by mail to Hatch at this Toronto office, a friend stated. While it is not known definitely whether the note has been turned over to the authorities, it is stated that Hatch has communicated its contents to the police.

Because the note did not contain a demand for any stated sum of money, friends of the threatened man said he is inclined to regard the message as the work of a crank and in the nature of a hoax. Police take the same view.

The letter was sent since the kidnaping of John Labatt, London brewer, it became known today. It is understood the mysterious message demanded money on threat of kidnaping, but close friends of the recipient say that no amount was set and no method stated for payment.

Car Hits Rear Of Another Machine At Perry Highway Stop Sign

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wright, 207 North Third street, Jeannette, were admitted to the Jameson Memorial hospital today, having sustained lacerations of the head, the result of an auto accident at the intersection of the Slippery Rock and Perry highways, Harlansburg.

The car was being driven by Mrs. Wright and when George Chronister, 428 Harris street, Harrisburg, stopped for the stop sign the car driven by Mrs. Wright struck the rear of Chronister's car. Both were enroute to this city.

(International News Service)
CHARLOTTE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Stumbling as she stepped from her fiancée's automobile, Viola Dennis, 23, daughter of W. W. Dennis, Donora, a councilman, was fatally injured near here today.

William Leatherman, 24, the girl's companion, rushed her to Charleroi-Monessen hospital where she died four hours later. Police, after questioning Leatherman, announced they were convinced the girl's death was accidental.

The girl's skull was fractured, police said, when she stumbled and fell over a bank.

WORK BEGINS ON $12,000,000 FLOOD CONTROL DAM.

When the huge flood control dam being constructed by the federal government at Grafton, W. Va., is completed, it will impound millions of gallons of water of the Tygart valley river, creating a lake more than 12 miles long, just above Grafton. The dam, which will cost $12,000,000, will be 270 feet high and approximately that thick at the base. Grafton citizens hope to persuade Washington to include electric power generating equipment, present plans calling for construction of foundations for power generators but not installation of the equipment. Photos show a general view of Grafton and workers digging trenches far up on the hillsides, near the dam site, to reveal rock formations so that engineers may determine the type of foundation and depth necessary for the dam.

CHARLOTTE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Stumbling as she stepped from her fiancé's automobile, Viola Dennis, 23, daughter of W. W. Dennis, Donora, councilman, was fatally injured near here today.

William Leatherman, 24, the girl's companion, rushed her to Charleroi-Monessen hospital where she died four hours later. Police, after questioning Leatherman, announced they were convinced the girl's death was accidental.

The girl's skull was fractured, police said, when she stumbled and fell over a bank.

WORK BEGINS ON $12,000,000 FLOOD CONTROL DAM.

When the huge flood control dam being constructed by the federal government at Grafton, W. Va., is completed, it will impound millions of gallons of water of the Tygart valley river, creating a lake more than 12 miles long, just above Grafton. The dam, which will cost $12,000,000, will be 270 feet high and approximately that thick at the base. Grafton citizens hope to persuade Washington to include electric power generating equipment, present plans calling for construction of foundations for power generators but not installation of the equipment. Photos show a general view of Grafton and workers digging trenches far up on the hillsides, near the dam site, to reveal rock formations so that engineers may determine the type of foundation and depth necessary for the dam.

Germany To Take Oath To Hitler

People Of Nation To Go To Polls Sunday To Vote Hitler Support

NO OTHER CHOICE IS GIVEN THEM

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(World Copyright, 1934, International News Service, Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited)
BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Germany takes the oath to Hitler tomorrow. Exactly as the army lined up seven hours after the death of Hindenburg and swore fealty to Hitler because Reichswahr Minister Von Blomberg ordered them to do so, tomorrow the German people will line up and in "plebiscite" record their 40,000,000 "yes" votes for their commander-in-chief, president, chancellor and Caesar, Adolf Hitler.

They say that during the swearing-in of the Reichswahr a recalcitrant colonel, major or whatnot dropped his hand and kept his mouth shut when the oath was repeated. That, if true at all, means nothing except a bit of bravado on the part of an adventurously conscientious man. So tomorrow it will mean nothing if a few million Germans drop their hands, and refuse to take the oath—stay at home or even go so far as to vote "no."

It will be a free vote. It will be a secret vote. There is no control of the ballot. Nobody will know how anybody else voted. Certainly not in the larger communities. But there are a number of reasons why a vast majority of Germans will vote "yes" on the question of the ballot.

First, because there is nothing to do but agree. Suppose they all disagreed or the majority disagreed. Does anybody imagine Hitler will thereupon resign? This is the first question any German will ask himself and the answer is obviously no.

Second, because, despite Germany's present economic condition, lower than anytime since the depth of the inflation period and almost comparable to wartime, despite her complete foreign political isolation, despite the fact that just a fortnight ago she barely escaped a war that would have divided her and left her in the condition she was before 1870. The majority of the German people are still sincerely for Hitler.

The annual Sabbath School picnic of Mahoning church was held Wednesday at Lincoln Park. A rain storm in the morning did not make it so pleasant, but in spite of the weather over 60 of the 97 members enrolled partook of a bountiful dinner. In the afternoon a ball game and swimming were enjoyed.

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. August 17: three arrests on charges as follows: drunkenness two and disorderly conduct one.

A record of automobile license numbers issued in Pennsylvania is on file at the city building but no one is given information concerning the ownership of cars unless it concerns an accident or theft. People who wish to secure information concerning occupants of cars cannot obtain it at the city hall. For a long time after the numbers were received the identity of car owners was secured and they were beset with literature offering "this" and "that" for sale.

Probabilities are that the police radio system will receive a test Monday, according to police officials. The call is WPGT. It is a 50 watt station and operates on a frequency of 148.5 kilocycles. The new cars will be put in service as soon as the generators are passed by City Mechanic, Chris Walker. He stated yesterday that a stronger generator than that installed in the automobiles was necessary and the agent, it is said by Walker, has sent for them.

And now that council has adopted an ordinance closing all city parks between the hours of midnight and six a. m. city police will cover the various sections and woe be to he or she who is caught in the park in the prohibited hours. The move was necessary because some people abused the privilege of riding through the lanes. If persons are nabbed in the parks they will be taken to the city police station and as nothing will be open in the parks after midnight, it may come to pass explaining why they visited the section.

Within a few weeks the police of the city will return to their task of guarding school pupils from accidents on streets which lead to the schools. Speak of the day yesterday stole a purse from a woman who visited a beauty parlor. It is no longer necessary for sewage disposal plant officials to make a monthly report to Fuller and McClintock, the firm wrote council recently. The plant is working efficiently, the engineers stated.

Robin Hood Play Given At Campfire

Entertaining Evening Spent Around Campfire At Girl Scout Retreat

A play, "The Wedding of Alan-a-dale," adapted from the story of Robin Hood and his men, was presented at the campfire service at Camp John M. Phillips Friday evening. Girl Scouts of the Robin Hood unit were the hostesses of the evening with the girls of the Plantation, Guyana and Indian units as special guests.

The following characters were portrayed:
Robin Hood—Helen Love.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard will sell the outfit of the Consumers Sand and Gravel Company in Wilmington township, on Thursday August 30. Affairs of the company have been tied up in court following executions by two creditors, but the property is deteriorating. Judge Hildebrand issued an order to proceed with the executions.

To date this year 5,891 dog licenses have been issued at the county treasurer's office. This exceeds the number issued last year and either indicates that the dog population is growing, or more people are paying. Wylie Brewster, local agent of the animal bureau at Harrisburg, has brought a number of prosecutions against persons who have failed to secure licenses for their dogs, and it is believed that more people to take out licenses.

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers will hold a session of court on next Monday morning at which motions and petitions can be presented. The next regular session will open on September 10 when the grand jury will convene for the consideration of cases to be presented by District Attorney, Mont L. Ailey. Trial of cases will begin on Monday, September 17th. Indications at present are that the list of cases to be tried will be small.

no more about the incident until he received a letter from Cain in which among other things he said: "You were a new acquaintance, but I had not been with you long until I felt that I had known you all my life." It's little compliments like this that make living worth while.

In the case of Sarah Matthews and others against Ned Calanoglo the defendant has filed a petition at the probate court's office asking for a more specific statement of claim. Plainly the own a brick store-room on South Jefferson street, south of the bridge. On June 10 Calanoglo drove a truck south over the bridge and in crossing the railroad track near the bridge was jolted from his seat. The driverless truck ran about 180 feet and crashed into the Matthews building destroying the front. Suit was brought for damages, it claimed that Calanoglo was driving at a high rate of speed.

Another marriage license docket was opened today, the last one being filed from June 11 to the present time, during which 495 marriage licenses were issued. The majority of the couples securing licenses were from Ohio. As usual there were more licenses issued in June than during any other month this year. Of late the marriage license business has been a little slack, but it is expected to pick up again in September.

One of the joys of life is in feeling that little courtesies which we extend to others are appreciated. A case in point occurred this week when Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard received a letter from Attorney Hayden D. The sheriff invited Attorney Cain to have dinner with him and thought

Germany To Take Oath To Hitler

People Of Nation To Go To Polls Sunday To Vote Hitler Support

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff

(World Copyright, 1934, International News Service, Reproduction in Whole Or In Part Prohibited)

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Germany takes the oath to Hitler tomorrow. Exactly as the army lined up seven hours after the death of Hindenburg and swore fealty to Hitler because Reichswehr Minister Von Blomberg ordered them to do so, tomorrow the German people will line up and in "plebiscite" record their 40,000,000 odd "ja" votes for their commander-in-chief, president, chancellor leader and Caesar, Adolf Hitler.

They say that during the swearing-in of the Reichswehr a recalcitrant colonel, major or whatnot dropped his hand and kept his mouth shut when the oath was repeated. That, if true at all, meant nothing except a bit of bravado on the part of an adventurously conscientious man. So tomorrow it will mean nothing if a few million Germans drop their hands, and refuse to take the oath—stay at home or even go so far as to vote "no."

It will be a free vote. It will be a secret vote. There is no control of the ballot. Nobody will know how anybody else voted. Certainly not in the larger communities. But there are a number of reasons why a vast majority of Germans will vote "yes" on the question of the ballot.

First, because there is nothing to do but agree. Suppose they all disagreed or the majority disagreed. Does anybody imagine Hitler will thereupon resign? This is the first question any German will ask himself and the answer is obviously no.

Second, because despite Germany's present economic condition, lower than anytime since the depth of the inflation period and almost comparable to wartime, despite her complete foreign political isolation, despite the fact that just a fortnight ago she barely escaped a war that would have divided her and left her in the condition she was before 1870. The majority of the German people are still sincerely for Hitler.

Probabilities are that the police radio system will receive a test Monday, according to police officials. The call is WPGT. It is a 50 watt station and operates on a frequency of 2482 kilocycles. The new cars will be put in service as soon as the generators are passed by City Mechanic, Chris Walker. He stated yesterday that a stronger generator than that installed in the automobiles was necessary and the agent, it is said by Walker, has sent for them.

And now that council has adopted an ordinance closing all city parks between the hours of midnight and six a. m. city police will cover the various sections and woe be to he or she who is caught in the park in the prohibited hours. The move was necessary because some people abused the privilege of riding through the lanes. If persons are nabbed in the parks they will be taken to the city police station and as nothing will be open in the parks after midnight, it may come to pass they may have a difficult time explaining why they visited the section.

Within a few weeks the police of the city will return to their task of guarding school pupils from accidents on streets which lead to the schools. Sneak thieves yesterday stole a purse from a woman who visited a tea party. It is no longer necessary for sewage disposal plant officials to make a monthly report to Fuller and McClintock, the firm wrote council recently. The plant is working efficiently, the engineers stated.

Robin Hood Play Given At Campfire

Entertaining Evening Spent Around Campfire At Girl Scout Retreat

A play, "The Wedding of Alan-a-dale," adapted from the story of Robin Hood and his men, was presented at the campfire service at Camp John M. Phillips Friday evening. Girl Scouts of the Robin Hood unit were the hostesses of the evening, with the girls of the Plantation, Gypsy and Indian units as special guests.

The following characters were portrayed: Robin Hood—Helen Love. Little John—Ruth Taylor. Alan-a-dale—Mary Beth McLaughrey. Laurel—Nell Young. Midge—Hilda Book. Friar Tuck—Marie Hanlon. Sawney—Geraldine Cover. Will Scarlet—Audrey Bridenbaugh. Will Stutely—Helen Stritzinger. Arthura Bland—Hazel Schweikert. Nicholas, the cook—Gloria Russo. The Bishop—Martha Davis. The Old Bridegroom—Jane Conley.

Other features of Friday included: a supper hike with Indians and Gypsies taking part, arrival to home camp by Plantation uniters who had been enjoying overnight hike, hike to Jordan state game farm by scouts of the Never-Never-Land unit and a "sleep-out" for the Never-Never-Land unit.

Rev. W. E. McClure, who is conducting a pastorate at the First Presbyterian church, was at the court house yesterday bidding goodbye to officials preparatory to going to his new charge at Detroit.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard will sell the outfit of the Consumers Sand and Gravel Company in Wilmington township, on Thursday August 30. Affairs of the company have been tied up in court following executions by two creditors, but as the property is deteriorating Judge Hildebrand issued an order to proceed with the executions.

To date this year 5,891 dog licenses have been issued at the county treasurer's office. This exceeds the number issued last year and either indicates that the dog population is growing, or more people are paying. Wylie Brewster, local agent of the animal bureau at Harrisburg, has brought a number of prosecutions against persons who have failed to secure licenses for their dogs, and it is believed that this has had the effect of causing more people to take out licenses.

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers will hold a session of court on next Monday morning at which motions and petitions can be presented. The next regular session will open on September 10 when the grand jury will convene for the consideration of cases to be presented by District Attorney, Mont L. Alley. Trial of cases will begin on Monday, September 17th. Indications at present are that the list of cases to be tried will be small.
